TOBACCO HEIR KIN, FOUND WOUNDED, DECLINES TO TALK

Authorities Unable To Disclose Whether 35-Year-Old North Carolinian Was 'Accidentally or Intentionally Shot.'

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL WITH HEAD WOUND

Was Witness at Inquest Into Recent Unsolved Death of Young Reynolds, His First Cousin.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Robert C. Critz, a first cousin of the late Z. Smith Reynolds, was found shot through the head and seriously wounded in the bathroom of his home here tonight.

Relatives and authorities were uncommunicative, the former saying they did not know whether the 35-year-old tobacco buyer and amateur aviator was "accidentally shot or intentionally shot."

Critz, who is married and has one child, was reported to have been alone in the bathroom when a shot was heard. He did not lose consciousness immediately, but refused to make any statement after being taken to a hospital.

Critz' mother was a sister of the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate, who died several years ago leaving an estate now estimated at $100,000,000 to his four children.

Smith Reynolds was fatally shot at the family home here last July 6 after a birthday party. His widow, the former Broadway singer, Libby Holman, and his chum, Albert Walker, were indicted on a charge of murder. The charge was dropped 10 days ago, with an announcement by the state there was insufficient evidence to warrant a trial.

At the inquest into young Reynolds' death, which resulted in a verdict blaming "unknown parties," Critz was a witness. He told of having gone to Reynolda a few hours after the young tobacco heir was found dying with a bullet through the brain on a second-story sleeping porch of Reynolda, the Reynolds' estate, and described conditions at the scene of the tragedy.

He was not a guest at the party, which was given the night before in

Hindenburg To Name New Chancellor Today

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—(UP)—President Paul Von Hindenburg will appoint a chancellor to succeed Colonel Franz Von Papen tomorrow morning, it was understood tonight.

A series of conferences tonight indicated such action.

Dr. Ludwig Kaas, head of the Catholic centrist party, conferred with leaders of other parties, including Adolf Hitler, all day in an effort to obtain a parliamentary majority. He reported to the president that he had not succeeded.

Five Die When Train Crashes Into Auto Bound for School

Above are shown the five children, and the father of two of them, who were in the automobile demolished Friday at a grade crossing in Jackson county. Four of the children and the father, who was driving the auto, are dead and the other child is in an Athens hospital not expected to recover. The three children in the group at left above are Sarah and Terrell King, dead, and Kate King, in the Athens hospital. Above at right is Lanier Wilson and below is George Noble Wilson. Both were killed. In the oval insert is the father of the Wilson children, Dewey Wilson, who also is dead.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Four school children, the oldest hardly 12 years old, and a man who was taking them to their classes after the Thanksgiving holiday were killed today as a freight train demolished a light automobile at a grade crossing near here.

The dead are:

Dewey Wilson, 36, farmer.
Lanier Wilson, 10, his daughter.
George Noble Wilson, 7, his son.
Sarah King, 12.
Terrell King, 9.

In addition, Kate King, 7, was in a hospital here in a critical condition and physicians held little hope for her recovery.

Mr. Wilson started with his son and daughter in their small automobile for the Bold Spring school early this morning. En route he stopped at the home of his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest King, and the three King children entered the car for the ride to school.

A scarce 75 yards away from the King home the car ran down a slight

Grady Head Told To Discipline Steiner Doctor. Board Battle Seen.

A showdown in the operation of the Albert Steiner cancer ward of Grady hospital appeared imminent Friday with the Grady board of trustees and the trustees of the ward fighting for supremacy.

For the first time in many years the Grady authorities at a meeting of the board of trustees Wednesday afternoon instructed the superintendent of Grady, John B. Franklin, to discipline a member of the staff of the Steiner ward.

Dr. J. Pierce Palmer, assistant in charge of the radium laboratory, according to reports, went on a rampage several days ago in the dining hall and smashed a chair and other furniture when he was displeased with the food served to him and other members of the staff.

Franklin, in accordance with his instructions, Friday wrote a letter to Dr. Palmer suggesting that Palmer come to see him. Palmer said he was employed by the Steiner trustees and had no intention of following Franklin's demand.

Reports were that Franklin will follow the letter with an attempt to oust Palmer, and this, it was believed Friday will precipitate a new breach between Steiner forces and Grady trustees.

At Wednesday's executive session of the Grady board, to which Steiner trustees were invited, a division over authority at Steiner took place and the Grady trustees instructed Franklin to act in the matter. The meeting

METHODISTS LIFT SMITH SUSPENSION

Restored to Full Standing, Georgia Minister To Get Oklahoma Pulpit.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Old-time Georgia camp meeting scenes were enacted Friday at the North Georgia Methodist conference, now in session at Wesley Memorial church, when the conference members voted unanimously to reinstate in full membership the Rev. Rembert G. Smith, of Sparta, who had been under sentence of suspension for alleged "high unministerial conduct and gross imprudence." Hundreds of preachers and laymen rushed forward to grasp Dr. Smith's hand, assuring him of their sincere welcome, and singing the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

By vote of 174 to 146 the conference voted to suspend publication of the Wesleyan Advocate here, and to combine it with the Nashville Christian Advocate, issuing a special Wesleyan Advocate edition in connection with the regular issue of the connectional organ. No increase in price of subscription will be made, and all present subscribers will receive the new issues until expiration date of their subscriptions.

Later in the day the conference received notice that a move to reconsider the Advocate vote will be introduced today.

During the afternoon session the presiding bishop asked, "Where shall the conference be held next year?" Invitation was extended by Dr. R. L. Russell that the 1933 meeting be held

Clear and Colder Weather Slated for Big Game Today

The rains of Friday are to continue this morning in Atlanta, but the skies will clear by noon and provide good weather for the football game and the mercury will begin to drop giving promise of freezing weather by Sunday morning, according to G. W. Mindling, head of the United States weather bureau here.

The temperature range Friday was from 51 to 61 degrees, the mercury being kept down by the almost continual rain. Today's outlook in Atlanta calls for cloudy weather during the morning and probable rains, with clearing skies in the afternoon.

The minimum temperature this morning will be 42 degrees, said Mr. Mindling, and the mercury may rise as high as 50 degrees by noon. However, with the clearing of the skies the mercury will again start downward until the freezing point is reached by Sunday morning.

The freeze will be of short duration, the forecaster said, and the cold snap will last probably no longer than Monday. The actual freezing temperatures may not last but a few hours but Atlantans will be wise to cut off their water tonight and attend to the needs of their car's radiators, he asserted. He did not expect the mercury to fall far below the 32-degree mark.

Football fans may not need their raincoats this afternoon, it was predicted, but due to the gradual fall of the temperature during the afternoon, heavy coats and blankets will not be amiss as guards against winter colds.

RUSSIAN QUESTION TO GET 'NEW DEAL' FROM ROOSEVELT

President-Elect Has Made Intensive Study of Subject; Has Open Mind on Recognition of Soviet.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS ON FARM AID TODAY

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Farm relief emerged today as the first problem that Franklin D. Roosevelt will tackle in his series of conferences with congressional leaders at Warm Springs.

Plans were made for the president-elect to confer tomorrow with a delegation from the National Grange and next week he will meet with members of the house agriculture committee in an attempt to work out a program of agricultural relief that may be presented to the short session of congress.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 24.—After 12 years of set determination on the part of three republican presidents against any policy looking to recognition of Russia the whole Russian question is to be given a new deal under the administration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. In his first press conference since arriving at the "Little White House" yesterday, Governor Roosevelt revealed today that he has been making an intensive study of the Russian question for several months, dating back to the early part of July. That he should have undertaken such a comprehensive examination of the problem so far in advance of the November 8 elections is significant, showing the confident attitude with which he regarded his candidacy.

Already the president-elect has troubled himself to read some 10 books on the subjects. He has augmented this study with information garnered from personal conferences with industrialists and close students of the Russian situation, and yet the governor may be said to hold an open mind on the question of recognition. Before arriving at a definite policy for the new administration he is expected to extend his investigations as well as avail himself of the store of information now resting in the archives of the state department at Washington.

Discussion of the president-elect's attitude was brought to the fore by an announcement in this morning's papers that a committee from the American Alliance, an organization

Buoy Saves Woman As 2 Others Drown

STONINGTON, Conn., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Mrs. Howard Lee, 31, mother of two children, was rescued from death today when fishermen found her, almost unconscious, clinging to a buoy after her husband and a companion drowned when their 14-foot yawl sank.

Both Lee, a novelist, and A. E. Merriman Paff, 45, an artist, who maintained a home both in New York city and Stonington, drowned when the little craft, equipped with a tiny sail, sank off the east breakwater of Stonington harbor in Long Island sound.

Mrs. Lee swam more than a mile through icy waters to reach the buoy, known as "Rhode's Folly." It marks the dividing line between the states of New York, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The woman struggled upward to the swaying buoy, draped herself across it, and clung there, it is believed, for almost two hours

Tech, L. S. U. Favored Over Georgia, Tulane

BY JACK TROY.

Atlanta and Baton Rouge, La., are the centers of southern football interest today as traditional rivals meet in annual battles marking the close of the November campaign.

Georgia Tech and Georgia, chief state rivals, meet at Grant field at 2 o'clock this afternoon. For the first time since 1928 Tech rules a slight favorite.

Today will mark the twenty-eighth meeting of the Golden Tornado and the Bulldog. Georgia holds a narrow edge in the series, having won 13 games to Tech's 12. There have been two scoreless ties.

And so today the opportunity is Tech's to even the series, and the dopesters are giving odds, slight though they are, that the classic will end in Tech's favor. Georgia won last year, 35 to 6, at Athens.

At Baton Rouge, where Senator Huey Long goes down on the sidelines to root for the home team, Louisiana State engages Tulane.

The "wailing list" of the Tulane squad reads like the list of injured from a major battle. Sixteen members either are confined to beds with influenza or out with injuries. This includes Don Zimmerman, ace back, ill with "flu."

Requests of Tulane officials to have the game deferred a week were denied by L. S. U. authorities. Senator Long engaged in the controversy and claimed that many L. S. U. players also were unable to play.

Louisiana State is the favorite for the first time in many, many years.

Coaches W. A. Alexander, of Tech, and Harry Mehre, of Georgia, have declared their squads in excellent condition for the game here. Buster Mott, former Tech High player, makes his final stand for the Red and Black of Georgia in the game. Mott has been one of the Bulldogs' most consistent backs. Pat Barron, last of the Barrons, will make his final local appearance for Tech.

In the event Tech follows the form sheet and wins, the season's record will show five victories and four defeats for a very successful year.

If fair weather favors the annual game, a crowd of 25,000 to 30,000 is expected.

Army and Notre Dame play in a game carrying much interest. Pittsburgh and Stanford meet in another highly interesting contest. Other games bring together Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, Holy Cross and Boston College.

U. S. Never To Abandon Two-Party System, Illinois Educator Tells Political Scientists

Leaders in the field of political science attending the Southern Political Science Association Friday are shown above, from left to right, as follows: Dr. James W. Garner, of the University of Illinois, past president of the American Political Science Association; Dr. Roberta Hodgson, of the University of Georgia; Dr. Harriet Elliott, of the woman's college, University of North Carolina, and Dr. George R. Sherrill, of Clemson College, president of the southern association. Staff photo by Bill Mason.

Little prospect for the success of a third party in this country was seen Friday night by Dr. James W. Garner, of the University of Illinois, in addressing the Southern Political Science Association in its fifth annual session at the Biltmore hotel. "The two-party system, with all its defects, is preferable to the multiple party system, which is little short of a curse to Europe," Dr. Garner said.

State reorganization in Alabama and Mississippi, the Sino-Manchurian clash, the future of the democratic party in the south and possibilities of a third party will be discussed by members of the association today. A business session and election of new officers will bring the meeting to a close.

Dr. Irby R. Hudson, of Vanderbilt University; Dr. Roberta Hodgson, of the University of Georgia, and F. W. Prescott, of the University of Chattanooga, Friday night were named on a committee to nominate officers for 1933.

"Much that has been said in criticism of the two-party system as we have it in the United States is quite justified," said Dr. Garner. "It may be true, as the late Lord Bryce, a sympathetic expounder of our political system, used to say, and as American scholars themselves have said, that the democratic and republican parties are both 'empty bottles' and that the labels they bear often mean very little. American sentiment and tradition in favor of the two-party system is too strong and deep-rooted to justify the belief that any very large number of voters will ever permanently abandon the democratic and republican parties for a new party.

"Besides, the practical difficulties in the way of organizing a third party are vastly greater in this country than elsewhere. The history of

EARLY VOTE SEEN ON REPEAL MOVE

House Leaders Frame Plan To Speed Resolution Through Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A plan for an early vote on a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment, probably on the first day of the short session, has been devised by leaders of both parties in the house.

The plan calls for Speaker Garner to recognize a member of the house who would ask suspension of the rules for a vote on a resolution calling for outright repeal.

Speaker Garner and Representative Snell, of New York, the republican leader, discussed the program today. Snell earlier said that "the people can't get what they want without repeal."

The party leaders plan to confer tomorrow with other colleagues on the proposal.

Under the rules of the house, Speaker Garner has the right to recognize any member to suspend the rules, and adopt a resolution. It requires a two-thirds vote to adopt a resolution for an amendment to the constitution.

Meanwhile, a controversy was pre-

Only American Officer In Foreign Legion Shot

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The only American officer in the French Foreign Legion, Lieutenant Edgar G. Hamilton, of Pittsburgh, is slowly recovering at the French Military hospital at Casabalanca from a grave wound received in action against the Moors, according to advices received in Paris today.

A legion officer for the past 12 years, Hamilton was shot by a Touareg sniper in an engagement in the wild fastness of the Atlas mountains last September. He went out alone to rescue one of his men from the second regiment of the legion. The sniper put a bullet through the heroic officer's left cheek, almost blinding him in the left eye.

OUSTED MEN'S PAY DUE BY BONDSMEN

The Georgia court of appeals Friday held that bondsmen of Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge, the present state commissioner of agriculture, are liable for back salaries of short term fertilizer inspectors discharged by Mr. Talmadge "without legal authority."

The ruling was on the case of A. A. Seymour, one of nine such inspectors ousted by Talmadge, but later returned by order of the supreme court, which held that their appointment by Talmadge's predecessor was legal and Talmadge could not oust them. Seymour sued for $426.65 salaries, $75 attorneys' fees and costs of the litigation.

The appellate court decision, written by Judge Frank Hooper Jr., upheld the decision of Judge Blanton Fortson, who tried the case. The defendant company is the National Surety Company. Similar cases of eight other inspectors are pending.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press.)

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A new effort of American railroads to escape paying the government's bill for profits in excess of 6 per cent was started today in federal court.

Upon the ultimate verdict of the courts there probably rests the disposition of nearly $360,000,000 in excess earnings of 450 railroads, claimed by the federal treasury under the recapture clause of the transportation act of 1920.

Dormant since the supreme court decided the famous test case of the St. Louis & O'Fallon railway, the issue was reopened by another small midwestern line, the Illinois Terminal railroad, operating a network of steam and electric lines in Illinois as a subsidiary of the Illinois Power & Light Corporation.

The Terminal railroad asked an injunction against the United States and the interstate commerce commission to prevent collection of $675,450 for excess profits from March 1, 1920, to December 31, 1924.

Telling of its losses in the "depression" years since 1929, the company contended the assessment of all profits above 6 per cent in better years would be confiscatory. It charged also that the interstate commerce commission improperly assumed the roles of plaintiff, prosecuting attorney, prosecuting witness, judge and jury in the hearings that resulted in fixing the Terminal line's excess earnings bill, and that it erred in finding the railroad's property valuation.

The suit was filed before United

Gov. Roosevelt Swept State By Big Margin, Figures Show

Carrying 157 of the state's 159 counties, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt rolled up a record majority in Georgia in the presidential election when he carried the state by 214,255 votes, official tabulation of the returns completed Friday reveals.

Governor Roosevelt rolled up a total vote of 234,118 to 19,863 for President Hoover.

Hoover carried only two counties, Fannin and Towns. The vote in Fannin was 1,967 to 1,375 and the vote in Towns 790 to 742. In 1928 Hoover carried Fannin over Alfred E. Smith 1,730 to 811 and won Towns county by a vote of 857 to 515.

The votes on the other presidential candidates were:

W. D. Upshaw, prohibitionist, 1,125; Norman Thomas, socialist, 461, and W. Z. Foster, communist, 23.

Senator Walter F. George was reelected over James W. Arnold, republican, by an even greater majority than given Governor Roosevelt. Senator George received 234,490 votes to 18,152 for Arnold, a majority of 216,348 votes.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., democratic nominee for the United States senate to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator William J. Harris, and Eugene Talmadge, democratic nominee for governor, were unopposed.

Similar democratic majorities were given democratic candidates for the

BORAH CONDEMNS PLAN TO SANCTION PAY IN CURRENCY

Stimson Notes Inform Great Britain, France and Belgium That December 15 Installments Must Be Paid in Full.

EARLY SETTLEMENT URGED BY SENATOR

Borah Says Delays and Temporary Measures Will Not Reopen Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

Foreign nations seeking an extension from the United States of the intergovernmental debt moratorium were advised in three notes made public yesterday by Secretary Stimson to deliver their payments on December 15.

The notes, which were handed to the British, French and Belgian ambassadors November 23, suggested that "by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question . . . would be greatly increased."

Secretary Stimson said President Hoover had no authority to grant an extension of the moratorium, but added that the chief executive was prepared to recommend to congress the creation of a commission to examine the whole debt problem, as the debtor nations had asked.

Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, opposed payment of the installments due next month in the currencies of the nations making them, as President Hoover had suggested. He described the plan as "a diluted form of moratorium."

In London during the day Prime Minister MacDonald expressed confidence that a new debt agreement could be made with the United States which would permit passing the installments.

The chancellor of the British exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, said, meanwhile, that if Britain resumes her payments it will be necessary to boost the income tax from 25 to 30 per cent.

Attributed by brokers to the "debt uncertainty," the pound sterling closed at $3.21 1-4, the lowest it has reached since Great Britain went off the gold standard in September, 1931

Across the channel from Great Britain, the debt situation was aired at a cabinet meeting in Paris and the text of Secretary Stimson's note made public. After the meeting Premier Herriot said in answer to a question whether France would send another note to Washington:

"There is no question of that for the moment. I wish to examine the American reply at leisure and benefit from the observations of technicians before making any decision."

TESTIMONY ENDED IN DICKINSON CASE

Defendant Brown Denies Kicking, Trampling or Choking Hospital Patient

BY W. H. MOBLEY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The chapter of testimony that federal court is writing into the history of the Dickinson case—a trial in which Austin Leroy Brown is accused of murder for the death of Charles K. Dickinson—was closed today, and the chapter on arguments will be written tomorrow.

Dickinson was a patient in the United States Veterans' hospital here. Brown was an attendant. Dickinson died last month and Brown was charged with murder after physicians said the patient died from pneumonia induced by puncturing of the lung by one of 16 ribs.

Brown testified in his own defense today and denied repeatedly that he kicked, trampled or choked Dickinson. State's witnesses have testified that Brown kicked the patient after choking him insensible.

Brown today described the room in which he had an encounter with Dickinson a few days before the patient died. He said his first indication of trouble was when somebody yelled, "Look out, Brown."

"I looked up to see a man flying through air from the top of a table," he testified. "He hit me on the nose and face, knocking me dizzy.

"He hit chairs behind me with a great crash. When I wiped the blood out of my eyes I saw Dickinson on the floor struggling with Walter Epps, another attendant.

"Dickinson was more of a man than I was when he was in one of his insane rages and I had great trouble getting him back to his chair in a corner of the room. When I got him there I saw Ott (Aaron Ott, another attendant) in one door and Epps in another."

He estimated the struggle lasted 15 minutes.

Brown said he reported the affair to the nurse in charge the next day and asked the day nurse if an entry was made on the chart. The nurse, he said, promised to make a report. Brown said he didn't mention the affair as a fight but said Dickinson "may have hurt himself in falling on a chair as he jumped on me."

Brown said "I never kicked him at all" and that Dickinson apparently bore him no malice before or after the encounter.

Previous Attacks.

G. E. Leach, V. Wylie and Howell Woodward, three attendants at the hospital, testified that Brown's reputation for kindness in handling the patients was good. All said they knew Dickinson as a dangerous man, given to violent outbreaks and suffering with hallucinations. They reported previous attacks on attendants and each expressed individual opinion he would be unable to handle Dickinson when the patient was violent.

George Kennedy, who has charge of attendants, said he asked Brown if he knew anything about the cause of Dickinson's death and the attendant "hung his head and didn't answer."

Epps was called back to the stand and insisted he turned Dickinson loose only after ordered to do so. He insisted he saw a towel in Brown's hand during the struggle on the floor and said he later saw Brown choke the patient with the towel.

Brown testified the only time he used a towel "was to wipe blood off my face."

The defense rested after Miss Katherine Callahan, night nurse, was recalled to the stand and denied Brown reported the fight to her. Judge Barrett then recessed court to 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, when arguments will begin with an hour and a half tentatively allowed each side.

States District Judge Walter C. Lindley in the eastern district of Illinois.

In the O'Fallon case appeal the supreme court ruled that the interstate commerce commission erred in determining property values, basing earnings computations on prices prevailing from 1910 to 1914. The recapture order went back to the commission for revision of property value figures.

With many of the leading transportation systems today borrowing funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to meet demands at a critical moment in their history, the carriers still face a staggering debt to the government if the recapture clause is sustained.

A bill to repeal the clause was introduced in the last session of congress but the rules committee of the house failed to bring it to a vote. During the hearings before the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house, Joseph B. Eastman, of the interstate commerce commission, testified few railroads had cash available to pay their recapture bills without "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Work of Rehabilitating American Industry Outlined at Meeting of Georgia Committee

Leaders in the Georgia division of the committee on industrial rehabilitation who met here Friday at a luncheon. Left to right, seated: Norman E. Elsas, Atlanta, executive committeeman; Theodore Swann, Birmingham, chairman of the sixth federal reserve district of the national committee, and L. W. Robert Jr., Atlanta, vice chairman of the sixth district. Standing: Thomas Fuller, Atlanta, state vice chairman; J. F. Meyer, head of the Savannah group, and Paul J. Kruesi, Chattanooga, Tennessee chairman. Staff photo by Bill Mason.

How industry is being rehabilitated through employment, the purchase of new equipment, and in other ways, was told by various speakers Friday at the meeting of the Georgia division of the committee on industrial rehabilitation. The meeting took the form of a luncheon at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

L. W. Robert, who presided, told those present—mainly manufacturers and dealers in manufacturers' material—that it was planned to make Georgia a model in this work. He related the history of the national committee, how President Hoover had appointed it last August, and what it had already accomplished.

Theodore Swann, of Birmingham, chairman of the committee for the sixth federal reserve district, outlined the scope of the work. This varied in different localities, he said. One phase of it involved credit accommodation; another group was charged with the work of inducing railroads to make repairs on engines and cars; another encouraged home alterations, while one committee was charged with increasing employment by sharing work.

Mr. Swann said that Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, would employ 50,000 men this winter on equipment repairs. In his own plant Mr. Swann said he had increased employment by reducing hours of work.

Mr. Robert gave an instance of a manufacturer who was able to add 250 workers to his pay roll by a slight reduction in hours.

Tom Fuller, vice chairman of the Georgia division, said that $71,000,000 had been spent in industrial rehabilitation in the United States as a result of the national committee's work. John Gelzer Jr., chairman of the executive committee, said that beneficial results had been obtained in Georgia in the less than 30 days the plan had been in operation.

J. F. Meyer, of Savannah, said that his company as a result of this movement had bought new machinery, and Paul Kruesi, state chairman of Tennessee, explained how one purchase of material acted as an endless chain in industry.

No definite time was set for the next meeting, but it was expected that this would take place in December.

U. S. WILL KEEP 2-PARTY SYSTEM

third party movements in the United States contains little to encourage those who believe that it is possible to displace either of the old parties with a new one. With rare exceptions all such movements have failed and so far as we can see they are likely to fail in the future, at least, for a long time to come."

Dr. Garner, a native of Mississippi, said of the negro as a political issue in the south that "if the white people of the south exercise their power of control wisely and justly it can be perpetuated to the end of time without protest or interference on the part of the country at large or, indeed, without serious opposition from the black race itself. The question of white supremacy therefore is no longer a living issue and as a subject of political discussion it may be safely relegated to the limbo of oblivion."

However, although the problems of the extent and quality of the education which the negro should have, how his efficiency as a laborer and his usefulness as a citizen may be increased, how his respect for law and authority increased, are not national political issues upon which the southern people must vote at every national election, they are problems which the south must still meet and solve, Dr. Garner said.

South Should Be Free to Act.

Dr. Garner expressed hope that the people of the south may never again allow themselves to be frightened by the specter of negro domination, but that they will feel free to express their sentiments on the living issues of the time rather than upon questions which are settled and from which only harm can result by their continued agitation.

"The south should be free from the thralldom of a single issue and give more consideration to the great economic and political questions which divide the people of the rest of the country, and with which their own progress and welfare are bound up," Dr. Garner said. "Happily, the signs indicate that the people of the south are coming more and more to adopt this view."

The truth is, Dr. Garner explained, that "there is hardly a man of note in the north today who would, if he could, take away the admitted right of the southern states to restrict the elective franchise to such of their citizens as in their judgment are most fit and capable of exercising it for the public good. The doctrine preached by a certain class of politicians that the continued solidarity of the south is necessary to prevent the republican party from forcing negro rule upon the people of the south has no basis upon which to rest.

"It has been settled once and for all that the south shall be let alone to determine, according to its own sense of justice and expediency, the conditions under which the political power shall be exercised within its borders. The question of the right of the white race to govern ought to be removed from the domain of political controversy.

"The calm judgment of the fair-minded people of the south must be that, on the whole, the attitude of intelligent northerners toward the south in its effort to rid itself of an ignorant suffrage has in recent years not only not been unreasonable but that, on the contrary, it has been marked by a spirit of liberalism, fair-mindedness and sympathy."

In an interview, Dr. Garner expressed belief that the south will play a larger part in national government with inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt than at any time since the War Between the States. Dr. Garner, a past president of the American Political Science Association and Carnegie lecturer to European universities and to universities in the orient, said that every state should have a two-party system, as a check on government.

Regional Government Discussed.

Regional government as a link between the national and state governments was discussed Friday night by Dr. George R. Sherrill, of Clemson College, president of the Southern association. "Much of our difficulty in handling socio-economic and even political problems is due to a shortage of governmental apparatus," said Dr. Sherrill. "The assumption that only two kinds of issues can confront a government, namely questions affecting a single state, and questions affecting the entire nation, does not square with the facts.

"Agencies of modern communication are doing much to break down many sectional lines and establish national unity, but many factors of economic and industrial expansion are bringing the various sections out in bold relief and developing regional-mindedness. In the future we may expect an intensification rather than an abatement of sectionalism. In the process of industrialization, important issues and problems will affect a group of states, a section, a region, but will not be of particular interest to the nation as a whole," said Dr. Sherrill.

"Since 1913 the government has given limited recognition to the idea of regionalism, thus giving some relief from rigid uniformity. In that year the federal reserve banking system was established . . . it has proved to be a happy compromise between centralization and autonomy."

Talks of Congress Action.

Dr. Sherrill referred to the federal farm loan act of 1916, the national defense act of 1920, the transportation act of 1920, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act and the federal home loan bank act as further recognitions by congress of the regional principle of government. Regional control of the prohibition question was suggested by Dr. Sherrill as a plan giving a fair measure of regional self-determination while greatly broadening the area and strengthening enforcement in dry regions.

While it is easy to see that there is a place, if indeed not a genuine need, for regional government, the matter of outlining a workable plan or even suggesting a practical method of establishing such a government is a more difficult undertaking, Dr. Sherrill said.

Methods of establishing regional government, as outlined by Dr. Sherrill, include amendment of the constitution with resulting confusion over powers and boundaries; the use of interstate agreements or compacts, with the consent of congress, but with the difficulty of providing governmental machinery; extension of machinery similar to the federal reserve banking system with the federal government retaining central control, and adoption of a plan of issuing federal charters to certain regions, permitting them to organize public or quasi-public corporations for the specific performance of certain necessary services.

Adoption of regional government would afford an opportunity of experimenting with simpler forms of government, centralization and control with local autonomy, removal of important business matters from the realm of politics, efficient and economic performance of many needed services without the government going into business and an opportunity for private citizens to profitably invest their money in the stocks of these corporations without competition from the government, Dr. Sherrill said.

General Elections Discussed.

General elections in the south were discussed by Dr. Ruth Higgins, of the Alabama Women's College; Dr. F. W. Prescott, of the University of Chattanooga; Dr. J. B. Harrington, of Emory University; Dr. R. E. Sheppard, of Georgia Tech, and Dr. J. W. W. Daniel, of Wesleyan College.

In the morning session, Dr. E. G. Howe, of the University of Alabama, compared the party platforms, and Dr. W. H. Simpson, of Duke University, compared the 1932 party conventions. Dr. Simpson said that the republican convention was controlled more by committees because the Hoover organization was stronger in its party than that of any democratic candidate in the opposing organization.

Dr. N. P. Mitchell, of Duke University, said that the recent democratic landslide was an "anti-Hoover election," and that the election of 1928 indicated the 1932 democratic victory. If, in 1936, improvement has been shown, the democrats will remain in power, but, if improvement is not shown there is strong probability that a third party will develop, Dr. Mitchell said.

Dr. Cullen B. Gosnell, of Emory, chairman of arrangements for the meeting, declared that Georgia is "unit vote ridden." He pointed out that in a recent election, Quitman county, with only 26 popular votes, had two units votes, as against only six unit votes for Fulton county with 22,000 popular votes. Dr. Gosnell also compared other small counties with the larger counties.

Dr. Harriet Elliott, of the Women's College of the University of North Carolina, secretary of the association, said that the North Carolina primary law, with its difficult, long ballot, has "destroyed responsible government and injured party responsibility."

Dr. Glenn Rainey, of Georgia Tech, will preside at the session opening at 9:30 o'clock this morning. Dr. Howe will discuss Alabama state reorganization, and Dr. D. W. Knepper, of the Mississippi State Women's College, will discuss reorganization in Mississippi. Dr. Roberta Hodgson, of the University of Georgia, will speak on the Sino-Manchurian clash. Dr. Irby Hudson, of Vanderbilt University, will talk on the future of the democratic party in the south. Dr. H. J. Pearce Jr., of Brenau College, will speak on the possibilities of a third party.

The business session, including election of officers, will begin at 11:30 o'clock.

FIGHT TO CONTROL STEINER IMPENDS

was held in the offices of Samuel C. Dobbs, chairman.

Dr. R. H. Fike, head of the Steiner unit and also employed by the Steiner trustees, was out of the city Friday on a vacation in Florida and could not be reached for a statement. He will return to Atlanta Monday.

Franklin and members of the Grady and the Steiner trustees refused to comment.

When interviewed, Palmer admitted he was the man under discussion, said he knew nothing of the complaints against him and asserted he had done nothing reprehensible that he knew of. He said that Franklin had written a letter to him, but that he had no intention of interviewing the Grady superintendent.

"There is no one-way gate between the Steiner ward and Grady and it is just as short from there here as it is from here there," Palmer said.

"I have no further comment to make except to say that I am in the employ of the trustees of the Steiner ward."

If the Steiner trustees back Dr. Palmer another war is expected between Steiner and Grady. For many years there have been recurrent and periodic flare-ups between the two institutions.

Dr. Joseph H. Hines, medical director of Grady, refused to make any statement in the matter, as did Dr. Everett L. Bishop, in charge of Steiner during the absence of Dr. Fike.

METHODISTS HERE REINSTATE SMITH

in Atlanta, and the invitation was unanimously accepted.

Ten young ministers were admitted to the conference membership, to be placed on trial for one year. They are Delma Hiram Haygood, James Boyd Stephenson, Henry Elmer McBreyer, Allen Alton Phillips, William Arthur Pilgrim, Barrett Lee Barton, William Powell Rowe, Smith L. Richardson, Harry Lee Smith, Harry Lee Word and John B. Ward. Rev. C. C. Keathley, of Atlanta, was located at his own request.

Anniversary of Board.

Friday night's sesion was devoted to the anniversary observance of the board of laymen's activities. Professor R. L. Ramsey, of Atlanta, lay leader of the conference, presided. Addresses were delivered by G. L. Morelock, general secretary, of Nashville, and Dr. Giles, president of Columbia (S. C.) College. District lay leaders and their associates occupied seats on the platform.

Announcement was made for plans to be instituted early the coming year for laymen of the conference to engage actively in church programs, especially those pertaining to finances, so that another year will show a better report for the conference in its funds for benevolences and ministerial support.

Bishop John M. Moore, calling the case of Dr. Rembert G. Smith, read to the conference several paragraphs from the manual of the church discipline, in which there is set forth the course of procedure in cases like the one in hand. The bishop cited that the law provides that, in case of a suspension, inquiry is to be made whether the sentence has been faithfully observed. He stated that the law then directs that, in case of improper observance of the sentence, it is within the discretion of the conference to expel a suspended member.

Politics Said Not Involved.

Bishop Moore gave a full recital of the case, and stated that it is incorrect to say that Dr. Smith's trial was a "star chamber" proceeding, or that his criticisms of church leaders regarding politics had anything whatever to do with it. He declared the church to have no jurisdiction over any man's political convictions.

Bishop Moore stated that the conference must have recognized authority, and that the conference has the right to say finally as to whether or not that authority has been duly recognized.

The bishop told of several visits of Dr. Smith, and of his appearing before the bishop and cabinet of presiding elders. The bishop declared the visits all were characterized by the most pleasant spirit of brotherliness. The bishop referred to the legal matters that had formerly been in force between him and Dr. Smith, and stated that all those matters had been settled.

Smith Reads Statement.

Dr. Smith, who had a statement to present the conference, was called to the platform, and read his statement as follows:

"Bishop Moore, fathers, sisters and brethren:

"While I have felt that I have been misunderstood, and have been made to suffer keenly, nevertheless I humbly accept the judgment of my brethren who consider my conduct contumacious during the term of my suspension. I would have refrained from these acts had I realized they would have been so regarded.

"I will not bring suit against ministers or members of my church and shall dismiss suits now pending against them. I have hurt some by my words and acts. I ask their pardon and I forgive those by whom I feel I have been injured.

"I voluntarily say that I now realize that the presiding elders of the North Georgia conference, in their letters to me November 1, were seeking to do that they considered to be their duty in my case, and that they were seeking to serve my interest as well as the interest of the church.

"I sincerely desire both a place in your affections and a share in your activities for the church.

"Fraternally yours.
"REMBERT G. SMITH."

Character is Passed.

Immediately following Dr Smith's reading, Bishop Moore put to the conference the question, 'Has Dr. Smith properly observed the requirements of the sentence of suspension, and will you pass his character?"

Dr. R. L. Russell, presiding elder of the Atlanta district, moved that his character be passed. A half-dozen others seconded his move. Five hundred voices were raised voting favorably, with not a solitary voice in opposition.

Some one in the conference started the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," and instantly there was a rush to the front by men and women to grasp Dr. Smith's hand. Many were observed to be weeping.

An analysis of the Smith statement reveals his belief that he has not been understood, that he would not have done as he did, had he judged he would be charged with contumacy. He pledges to dismiss suits already instituted, and to bring no others against ministers or members of his church.

It is announced that Dr. Smith will be transferred to the Oklahoma conference, and assigned the pastorate at Heavener.

The North Georgia conference Friday enjoyed some of the most strenuous debating it has had in recent years, when the report of the Wesleyan Advocate trustees was submitted and its adoption to be voted on.

The trustees recommended that the conference name Rev. W. T. Watkins, of Atlanta, editor, and L. W. Neff, of Atlanta, publisher, and that the conference underwrite the outstanding obligations and agree to maintain an Atlanta office. The editor and publisher recommended agreed to take the publication, reduce the subscription price and complete all unfilled subscriptions.

The Methodist Publishing House, of Nashville, through its agent, Dr. A. F. Smith, submitted a proposal, which is already in force in several other conferences, whereby the Advocate should be combined with the Nashville Christian Advocate, with a section of eight pages devoted entirely to Georgia conferences, and that the paper be issued as a Wesleyan Advocate edition, 40 pages each week, the price to remain at $2 and $1 for superannuates, with all unexpired subscriptions to be filled.

Two Support Trustees.

Dr. C. O. Jones and Dr. W. T. Hunnicutt spoke in behalf of the trustees' report. Dr. J. S. Jenkins and Rev. Nath Thompson spoke in behalf of the publishing house proposal.

Dr. Hunnicutt urged that the paper be continued here and asserted that the Advocate will be needed during the next two years during the heated campaign expected in connection with repealing the 18th amendment. He asserted that a paper published in Nashville is too far away for its influence to be seriously felt. Dr. Jenkins replied that, with fast trains, autos and air mails, the distance of a few hundred miles made no material difference.

To care for the obligations now outstanding against the Advocate, the conference voted that the sum of $4,000 should be included in the conference budget for that purpose.

The conference voted that the present body of trustees be continued in power until all these matters are completed. The board consists of the following ministers and laymen: Rev. T. J. Christian, John A. Manget, Dr. C. O. Jones, W. C. Martin, Rev. J. F. Yarbrough and Dr W. T. Hunnicutt. The one-year conference committee on the Wesleyan Advocate consists of Revs. N. G. Long, A. G. Shankle, V. E. Lanford, B. F. Fraser, R. E. Rutland and H. C. Holand.

A happy feature of the Friday conference session was the presentation of purses to those presiding elders who have completed their allotted four years on their districts. Revs. W. M. Barnett, of the LaGrange district; George L. King, of the Rome district, and H. C. Emory, of the Gainesville district, had completed their quadrennium, and were presented with purses, raised by the laymen and preachers of their districts as tokens of esteem. They will be assigned work in other fields at this conference, and new men appointed as their successors.

Another Debate Expected.

A repetition of Friday's debate on the Advocate is expected today, when a move will be made to reconsider the action of Friday.

Votes were cast that 10 young ministers, on trial for two years, be received into full connection and be ordained deacons. They will be addressed by Bishop Moore this morning and ordained Sunday. The 10 are Revs. R. C. Singleton, L. F. Huckaby, B. C. Kerr, T. M. Dye Jr., C. B. McKenzie, O. L. Vickery, W. M. Driggers, Clyde Lee, W. L. Brackman and L. B. Craft. They will also be advanced to the third-year class.

Men who have been deacons for two years and to be ordained elders Sunday by vote of the conference are Revs. N. G. Long, J. C. Callaway, L. F. VanLandingham, J. W. Segars, B. W. Hancock, F. Q. Echols, E. D. Rudisill Jr., W. F. Lunsford, G. B. Henderson, N. C. McPherson, W. H. Gardner. Having completed their four years' study course, they will be recognized full-fledged itinerant Methodist ministers.

The sum of $21,812 has this year been raised for the superannuated preachers and the widows and orphans of deceased preachers. The sum of $25 was given each of 20 preachers from the special fund established by the late Lewis H. Beck.

Visitors to Preach.

Visiting Methodist preachers will be heard in many Atlanta pulpits Sunday morning and evening. In the following list of appointments for Sunday preaching services, the first named man is for the morning hour, and, if services are for morning only, the one name is given.

Bethany, J. W. Segars, F. Q. Echols; Calvary, L. B. Bridgers, P. A. Turner; Capitol View, Nath Thompson, Claude Hendrix; Cascade, N. O. L. Powell; Center Street, J. J. Sneed; College Park, W. T. Hawkins; Collins Memorial, W. H. Clark; Druid Hills, Lester Rumble; East End, J. H. Allison; East Point, J. W. Quillian, F. L. Glisson; English Avenue, W. H. Boring; Epworth, L. M. Twiggs, A. M. Scott; Mayson's church, J. H. Little; Colonial Hills, Z. C. Hayes Jr., Chamblee, C. B. Drake.

No definite hour is yet named for the final adjournment of conference, although Bishop Moore stated Friday that the memorial session Sunday afternoon might be continued on in conference session until the reading of the appointments, which might come about 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Final announcement regarding the closing hour will be made today.

Veteran Churchmen Meet Here

4-H CONTEST WINNER ON WAY TO CHICAGO

Miss Alline Jones, 17-year-old Blackshear (Ga.) High school senior, winner of the statewide 4-H Club clothing demonstration contest a few months ago, will leave here early this morning for Chicago, where she will represent her state in national competition at the National 4-H Club show.

MISS ALLINE JONES.

The Pierce county girl, accompanied by Miss Lurline Collier, state girls' club agent, spent Friday night at the Piedmont hotel before beginning the journey which she hopes will make her national champion and win for her a tour of the national historical shrines as a prize.

Miss Jones fashioned the tailored hand-made wool dress which placed first in the state and which she will wear during the national contest.

U. S. JUDGE FAVORS REPEAL IN FLORIDA

Akerman Writes Sholtz Urging Local Option System for Resort State.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Federal Judge Akerman said today:

"I believe that it is practically certain that the eighteenth amendment will be repealed in a much shorter time than any of us would have thought possible a few years ago, and I think that Florida should now begin to put its house in order to meet this repeal. In my opinion the first thing Florida should do would be to repeal it. prohibition constitutional amendment."

This statement was contained in a letter written to Governor-elect David Sholtz and made public with the consent of both.

Once the state law is repealed, Judge Akerman wrote, the state legislature should pass a new state law providing for liquor stores in counties where voters ratified such sales.

With repeal of the eighteenth amendment "practically certain," Judge Akerman wrote, "Florida can do nothing to sanely regulate the liquor traffic within our state unless the state constitutional amendment is first repealed.

"With the eighteenth amendment repealed and government prohibition forces withdrawn from Florida, our constitutional and statutory prohibition would amount to nothing in many parts of Florida, more than to give corrupt officers an opportunity to levy graft and tribute on the illegal traffic in intoxicating liquors," he declared.

"But with the state constitutional decks leared the legislature could enact a local option law, with a state board similar to the state racing commission, to license liquor stores in wet counties and generally regulate traffic, the judge wrote.

opposed to communism, will seek to lay before him while here certain data bearing out their ideas and principles. The committee, including Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown University; Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and Representative Hamilton Fish, republican member of the foreign affairs committee, of New York, are understood to have taken the step in response to hints that the president-elect's sympathies lie toward soviet recognition.

As the spokesman for the group, Father Walsh is expected to seek a conference with Governor Roosevelt next week, when the series of confabs with political leaders looking to formation of the cabinet and legislative policies will begin. Incidentally, a partial list of those who have been invited to meet with the president-elect next week was made available today at the "Little White House," the new Roosevelt home. The list includes several Georgians: Clark Howell Sr., publisher of The Atlanta Constitution; Senator Walter F. George, Senator John S. Cohen, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. and Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution. Governor Roosevelt is expecting most of them Tuesday, though Senator George may not come until later in the week.

Congressmen To Pay Visit.

Others scheduled to appear later are Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, who will probably talk about the silver question; Senator Bennett Clark, of Missouri, son of the late Speaker Champ Clark; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, democratic leader of the upper chamber; Senator Bulkley, of Ohio, and not a few congressmen. James A. Farley, chairman of the democratic national committee, and Frank C. Walker, treasurer of the national committee, will arrive Sunday or Monday. Certain representatives of the National Grange who will discuss farm problems are due tomorrow.

With the exception of a few minor conferences, more personal than political, Governor Roosevelt will spend the week-end quietly, resting up from the arduous campaign through which he has just passed. He has delayed the major conferences until next week. They will continue for the duration of his two-week stay in the state.

May Come South Again.

This may not prove to be the last visit of the governor to Georgia before taking the oath of office in March. He is known to be considering a return to Warm Springs after the Christmas holidays, probably around the latter part of January, at which time he may put the finishing touches on his cabinet.

Although a steady downpour of rain continued practically throughout the second day of the governor's visit it did not prevent him from engaging in one of his favorite recreations—bathin, in the temperate waters of Warm Springs. He spent some time this morning splashing about in the enclosed private pool and then went through a routine of exercises on a submerged table.

At his initial conference with the corps of newspapermen accompanying him on the trip he displayed his usual jovial disposition this afternoon despite the gloomy weather.

MRS. FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT WILL FLY NORTH SUNDAY

Officials of Eastern Air Transport here today said Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Colonel Louis McH. Howe, confidential secretary to the president-elect, had made reservations to fly to New York from Warm Springs Sunday.

A special plane will be sent from Atlanta to Warm Springs to bring the party here where they will board the regular passenger plane for New York.

Funds Allotted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Allotment of funds totaling $1,670,000 for rivers and harbors under the emergency relief and construction act by the war department today included: Intracoastal waterway from Jacksonville to Miami, Florida, $375,000; Mobile harbor, Alabama, $85,000.

Who Really OWNS our RAILROADS?

CHARITIES COLLEGE
WORKINGMEN
BUSINESS MEN
SALESMEN

If you owned a Railroad—what would you do?

Would you actually divert traffic to other modes of transportation, and thus help suck the life out of your own business?

You just bet you wouldn't!

YOU WOULD GIVE ALL YOUR PERSONAL BUSINESS TO THE RAILROAD. You would urge everybody else to do likewise—and you'd tell 'em WHY it's to their own interest to do so. You'd be foolish if you didn't!

"But—I don't own a Railroad," you say—"don't own any part of one. Let the Railroad Owners worry about the fix they've got themselves into. It's none of my business."

Well—let's see whether or not you own any part of a Railroad. Maybe you don't. But—

IF YOU OWN AN INSURANCE POLICY—IF YOU HAVE A SAVINGS BANK ACCOUNT, or even a checking account. If you are in any way in sympathy with the service to mankind rendered by Churches, Hospitals, Colleges and Charitable Organizations, YOU DO HAVE A DIRECT PERSONAL INTEREST IN THE FINANCIAL STABILITY OF THE RAILROAD!

If you are among that vast army in Atlanta and throughout the length and breadth of this land who have invested in Railroad stocks and bonds—THEN YOU ARE A DIRECT RAILROAD OWNER!

In fact, if you are one of the THIRTY MILLION PEOPLE in the country represented by this group YOU DO OWN PART OF A RAILROAD. THIS IS YOUR BUSINESS!

Our Railroads are not owned by magnates and plutocrats living in luxury, as some suppose. The Railroad presidents and higher executives, just the same as the rank and file of Railroad Employes, ARE YOUR EMPLOYES, if you belong to one of the above groups.

Here's why—

There are more than ELEVEN BILLION DOLLARS of Railroad bonds outstanding. NEARLY FIVE BILLION DOLLARS of these bonds are owned by savings banks and insurance companies, which means that they are owned by the millions of policyholders and savings bank depositors. WHEN YOU PAY AN INSURANCE PREMIUM and WHEN YOU PUT MONEY IN THE BANK YOU ARE BUYING AN INTEREST IN A RAILROAD!

About TWO BILLION DOLLARS more of these bonds are held by Churches, Hospitals, Colleges and Charitable Organizations. If you subscribe to the maintenance and progress of these worthy institutions for the building of character, educating the mind and caring for the sick and needy, YOU ARE AGAIN INVESTING IN RAILROAD SECURITY!

The remaining Railroad bonds, as well as a vast amount of Railroad stocks, are scattered far and wide among School Teachers, Professional Men, Salesmen, Business Men and Thrifty Workmen who have invested their life savings in these standard American securities. This group are, of course, DIRECT RAILROAD OWNERS!

YOU DON'T OWN ANY PART OF A RAILROAD? Why—expert figures show that one out of every four persons in the country have a definite stake in the Railroads—AND THAT'S AN AVERAGE OF ONE IN EVERY FAMILY.

It means that right here in Atlanta and Fulton County every family has a direct, personal interest in the future of the Railroad—even if we ignore our interest in maintaining the big FOURTEEN MILLION DOLLAR ANNUAL NORMAL RAILROAD PAY ROLL and the JOBS OF TEN THOUSAND Railroad Employes in Greater Atlanta.

IT IS YOUR BUSINESS—IT IS OUR BUSINESS!

Let's take care of OUR BUSINESS! Let's look after our OWN INTERESTS! If we don't protect our own investments, WHO IS GOING TO PROTECT THEM?

Put it all on a selfish basis, if you want to. Don't consider anybody but yourself. HOW CAN YOU AFFORD TO LET THE RAILROADS GO INTO BANKRUPTCY?

Get together today with all the straight-thinking citizens of Greater Atlanta who are making this appeal possible. PATRONIZE YOUR OWN BUSINESS!

DO YOUR SHIPPING BY RAIL—TRAVEL ON THE TRAIN.

JOIN THE GREAT SHIP AND TRAVEL BY RAIL MOVEMENT THAT IS GROWING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS every day—JOIN NOW!

ARMY, NAVY FUNDS DOUBLED BY JAPAN

Cabinet Approves Expense of Another Year's Manchurian Occupation.

BY GLENN BABB.

TOKYO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Japanese cabinet today approved a budget which, as a result of the extraordinary demands of the army and navy chiefly in connection with Manchuria, is the largest in the history of Japan.

The total expenditure for the year beginning April 1, 1933, will be 2,239,000,000 yen—$447,800,000. The budget involves a deficit of 897,000,000 yen—$179,400,000—for which bonds must be issued, as the minister of finance, Korekiyo Takahashi, refused to increase taxation.

The army gets 448,000,000 yen—$89,000,000—in the new budget, and the navy 373,000,000 yen—$74,600,000. In the last normal year, 1930-1931, the army appropriation was 184,000,000 yen—$36,800,000—and the navy received 221,000,000 yen—$44,200,000.

The combined army and navy appropriations include 185,000,000 yen—$37,000,000—to cover the expenses of another year's occupation of Manchuria, and 237,000,000 yen—$47,400,000—for the "replenishment of arms" of the fighting services. Much of the replenishment item will go to the expansion of the air force.

The army and navy had asked for more than $100,000,000 each. These demands were cut down after a long struggle between the finance minister on one side and the war and naval ministers on the other.

Two Women Fined For Capitol March

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two women arrested during an attempt to lead a delegation of children to the White House yesterday were fined $10 each in police court today but the sentences were suspended.

NEGRO CHICKEN THIEF CAUGHT BY STURDIVANT

Armed with a shotgun, Chief T. O. Sturdivant, aided by two patrolmen, personally captured a negro chicken thief as the latter attempted to raid the henhouse of H. Grady Rogers, of 500 Glen Iris drive, early Saturday morning. The negro gave the name of Scott Cobb, of 684 Cleveland terrace, and is charged with disorderly conduct and larceny. Chief Sturdivant said he was "tipped off" that the theft would take place between 12 and 1 o'clock Saturday morning and with John Simmons and George Caldwell, patrolmen, he laid a trap for the negro. Cobb was arrested as he was putting a hen into a sack, it was said.

2 STUDENTS INITIATED BY PHI DELTA EPSILON

Greenberg, students at Emory University, were initiated into the Beta Nu chapter of the Phi Delta Epsilon medical fraternity of Emory at its first meeting and banquet held Friday night at the Piedmont hotel, at which Dr. Joseph Yampolsky, of the Emory medical school faculty, was the principal speaker. He spoke on "The History of Medicine."

Other present were Alfred Citrynell, Noah Feldman, Ralph Cohen, Harry Parks, Aleck Smith, Edward Graber, Clarence Scheinbaum, Harvey Cummins, David Gillman, Isador Cohen, Al Friedman, of the Emory University chapter; Julian Jarmowlosky and Milton Blum, of the University of Georgia chapter, and Dr. Nathan Regals, of the University of Tennessee chapter.

ALABAMA GIRL WINS PRIZE IN 4-H CLUB

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gene Sheppard, 17-year-old Macon county (Alabama) 4-H Club girl, is among the three best of 950,000 club members in canning ability.

She and the other two selected by the national committee on boys' and girls' club work will receive her award next Tuesday at the national club congress when 1,200 farm youths meet in connection with the International Live Stock Exposition.

Other winners were Keneta Guthrie, 15, Bourbon county, Kansas, and Elvis M. Dutcher, 15, Kent county, Michigan.

JURY IS SELECTED IN MERRILL SLAYING

NATCHEZ, Miss., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fixed opinions which they claimed could not be changed excused most of a special venire of 100 men summoned to circuit court today as a jury was sought to try Emily Burns, negro, on a charge of participating in the murder of Miss Jane Surget Merrill, wealthy and aristocratic recluse, whose bullet-pierced body was found on her estate near here last August.

Of the 100 questioned, the state accepted 12 to sit in the jury box and these were examined this afternoon by special defense counsel named by the court to represent the Burns woman.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

A view of the throng in front of the Davison-Paxon Company's department store when Santa Claus, after his arrival by airplane, was given the keys to the city and took his place on a throne in the store's toyland. Staff photo by Sandy Sanders.

Santa Claus arrived in Atlanta Friday. He came in modern style by airplane and automobile to the big department store of the Davison-Paxon Company, where on the second floor he will reign at the entrance of "Fort Make-Believe" until Christmas.

At Whitehall and Spring streets the old gentleman headed a parade staged specially in his honor. On his arrival there he was met by 80 children of the Hillside Cottages. These were brought in by two large coaches provided by the Georgia Power Company.

After Santa had distributed presents to his small and enthusiastic visitors, he got into a Cadillac and led the procession through Whitehall and Peachtree streets to Davidson's. Behind him were a score or more automobiles filled with children. He stood and waved as the parade moved.

His arrival at the store was greeted with a snowstorm in the form of confetti thrown from upstairs windows. He climbed a ladder to the marque of the Capitol theater, where Luke Arnold, secretary to Mayor Key, was waiting with the keys to the city. He then entered the store through a second-story window and proceeded to Toyland, where he took his place on his throne.

Hundreds of mothers with their children stood at the entrance of the fort and were greeted by Santa.

Another modern touch was given by the old man when he talked over the radio. At 5:15 o'clock Friday afternoon he made his first talk over WSB and will speak every night until Christmas. He also has a "theme song" and a "happy song."

WIFE OF CALLES DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senora Calles, wife of ex-President Plutarco Calles, of Mexico, died at 2 p.m. today.

Senorita Soledad Gonzales, secretary to General Calles, announced the death shortly after 2 p. m. As the news spread hundreds of messages of condolence began to arrive at the Calles home.

Senora Calles was 29 years old when she was stricken with a brain tumor, for which she was operated upon in Boston last June.

She had been critically ill at General Calles' home in Colonia Anzures since her return from Boston. It had been reported for several months that she was at the point of death.

Senora Calles was General Calles' second wife. She was the mother of two small children. Her last public appearance was last January when she accompanied her husband to Cuyutlan, Colima, for a holiday with the president of Mexico, Ortiz Rubio. Early last June a hasty trip was made to Boston, where an operation was performed in an attempt to save her life.

COLONEL JAMES E. JONES.

BLUEFIELD, Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Colonel James Elwood Jones, about 50, wealthy coal operator and vice president of the Pocahontas Fuel Company, died unexpectedly at his home at Switchback at 12:50 o'clock this afternoon from a heart attack. He apparently had been in good health until shortly before he died.

Colonel Jones was a candidate for the senate on the republican ticket two years ago and was defeated by Senator M. M. Neely. He had an office at Pocahontas and maintained his home at Switchback. In addition to his interests in the coal industry, he was prominntly identified as a banker.

STEPHEN KING.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Stephen King, 88, Confederate veteran and a member of the Saltville (Va.) family which is said to have furnished the southern army with its principal salt supply during the War Between the States, died here last night. Two daughters and a son survive.

DR. AARON HAHN.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Aaron Hahn, one of the founders of the Liberal Jewish movement in this country and an active political figure for more than two decades, died yesterday at his home here. He was 85 years old.

HERBERT F. GUNNISON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Herbert F. Gunnison, former president and publisher of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, died at his home in Brooklyn at 2 a. m. today after a lingering illness. He was 74 years old.

MISS WARDINE ROYALS.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Nov. 24.—(AP) Miss Wardine Royals, 16, high school student, died in a local hospital tonight two hours after a car in which she was a passenger collided with a wagon near here. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Blaine, other occupants of the automobile, were slightly injured and their six-month-old son escaped unhurt.

JAMES E. JONES.

WELCH, W. Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—James Elwood Jones, 58, prominent coal operator and unsuccessful republican nominee for United States senator in 1930, died today.

DR. NOEL S. AVINGER.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Noel Sifly Avinger, 45, formerly of Orangeburg, S. C., died here today. After funeral services Sunday, the body will be sent to Orangeburg for burial.

FATHER SLAYS SON, SELF IN NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Forrest Dyer, 32, this afternoon shot and killed himself in the presence of his wife's grandmother, Mrs. Sally Chandler, 83, when the aged woman, investigating two shots she heard, entered a room of their home three miles from here and found Mrs. Dyer, 28, fatally wounded and the Dyers' 4-year-old son, Joe, dead.

Adams Tells Language Teachers Of Controversy Over Shakespeare

Some of the reasons back of the controversy about who really wrote Shakespeare's works were given to the public Friday night when Dr. John Quincy Adams, director of the Folger Shakespeare library, in Washington, discussed the Bard of Stratford's plays before a meeting of the modern language teachers of the southeast.

Dr. Adams' address was the high spot of a two-day meeting of southeastern language teachers, presided over by Nolan A. Goodyear, of Emory University, president of the association. Sessions will be continued today until time for the Georgia Tech-Georgia football game.

The Folger library director's speech came at the conclusion of a series of group language meetings, divided between the English and French and Italian and German sections. Speakers addressed the meetings in the tongue of the section meeting. Election of officers and a short business meeting will conclude the session today.

"Obviously," Dr. Adams said, "a play was printed either with the consent of the actors or by thieves who secured the play in spite of the desire of the actors to prevent publication."

As for the genuineness of the Shakespeare plays, Dr. Adams, formerly a professor of English at Cornell, said "people who contended that Bacon or somebody else wrote them are usually people who know comparatively little about the subject."

Some of the reasons why Shakespearian plays were printed were brought out by the speaker as follows:

In order to forestall some thief, who, it was discovered, was intending to print the play.

In order to correct a stolen edition, published with much corruption of the text. A correct edition would do justice to the author, would diminish the profits of the thief and would fetch to the authors some monetary return.

"In order to raise money when the Shakespearian troupe was temporarily in pecuniary distress," Dr. Adams said, "as in times of plague, when theaters were closed, the troupe would sell to the publishers some of its older plays in return for ready cash."

DR. COPELAND HERE FOR METHODIST MEET

Among the church notables attending the North Georgia Methodist conference is Dr. Theodore Copeland, Texas minister, who is in Atlanta as the guest of Bishop John M. Moore, presiding at the sessions. He recently conducted a series of revival services at Sparta, Ga., following series in Baton Rouge, La.; Kirbyville, Texas; Guntersville, Ala., and Madison, Ga.

Following the conference here, Dr. Copeland, who is well known in Atlanta for sermons he gave in 1930 and 1931, will return to Dallas, Texas, to spend the holidays with his family.

GIRL, 15, IS WINNER IN JUDGING OF STOCK

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Youth today gave the prelude to agriculture's big show—the thirty-third annual International Live Stock Exposition—and Minnesota and North Dakota occupied the spotlight.

Walker's Good Resolve Lost on Gaming Table

MONTE CARLO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, broke his "early to bed" resolution last night and played at the casino gaming tables with Betty Compton, slim, attractive musical comedy star.

Betty won handsomely at chemin de fer, making up for Walker's quick loss of a thousand francs with only four spins of the roulette wheel.

Walker had announced only yesterday that he had adopted a "10 o'clock rule for himself." That was at Antibes. He said he planned to retire each night "before 10."

He had been suffering, he said, from insomnia.

Wrigley Starts Free Sample Distribution

Three advertising trucks manned by nine men on Friday started the free distribution of 100,000 samples of Wrigley's Spearmint gum in Atlanta. The campaign was supported from Chicago with the mailing of five pieces to every residence in Atlanta. The picture shows one of the trucks giving away samples in Five Points. Similar campaigns will be staged by the company at other Georgia points.

MRS. W. D. V. HOPKINS PASSES AT HOSPITAL

An illness of six weeks ended in the death Friday night of Mrs. Ruth Hopkins, wife of W. D. V. Hopkins, president of the Hopkins Equipment Company and widely known Atlantan, at a private hospital. Mrs. Hopkins was taken to the hospital several weeks ago. She was 39 years of age and resided at 1136 Lullwater road, N. E.

Born and reared here, Mrs. Hopkins was the former Miss Ruth Weimer and was educated in Atlanta schools. She attended the Peachtree Christian church and was an active member of the Gloria Sunday school class there. Her husband is widely known and is the distributor of Atwater Kent radios and other electrical equipment.

Mrs. Hopkins is survived, in addition to her husband, by a son, Walter D. V. Hopkins Jr.; two sisters, Mrs. W. D. Alexander Jr., wife of the president of the W. D. Alexander Company, Inc., and Mrs. Anne Alexander, and one brother, Arthur L. Weimer, of San Francisco, Cal.

The funeral will be held Sunday at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with other arrangements to be announced later.

ESCAPE IS STOPPED BUT LAMAR POOLE GETS LICK ON NOSE

A. Lamar Poole, chief of the detective bureau, was slightly injured Friday night when Fred Holland, of the Holland Plumbing Company, opened an automobile door which struck the chief on the nose. Mr. Holland was bringing a negro to the police station and, fearing that he would escape, hurriedly opened the door before Chief Poole could move out of the way, it was said.

Mr. Holland reported that he had gone to the home of Luke Day, negro, of the rear of 19 East Fair street, to buy some plumbing fixtures. He became suspicious that the goods were stolen and, telling Day ne would have to return to the company office at 146 Bass street, to pay him, drove instead to the police station. As he arrived in the yard Day suspected he was being trapped and attempted to get out of the car. Chief Poole was hurt when Holland prevented the negro's escape. Day is charged with suspicion, and the chief was treated for cuts and lacerations by a private physician.

"HUNGER MARCHERS" PASS THROUGH CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Some 500 "hunger marchers" rolled toward Washington today after minor clashes with police en route from many sections of the country.

Several hundred more in cities relatively close to the capital prepared to leave in time to arrive for the opening of congress December 5. They hope to demand $50 for every unemployed man this winter.

Latest News List of Accidents Shows Necessity of Protection

Does the accident wave, growing every day, menace you? Read these headlines appearing in The Constitution yesterday:

"Motor accidents cause one death; 12 persons hurt."

"Four persons killed when trains collide."

"Six persons injured in bus-auto collision."

"Woman's skull fractured in collision of autos."

'Milledgeville man killed at crossing."

When will your time come? Can you afford to take chances with your own prosperity and the future comfort of your wife and children?

The Constitution offers you the famous travel accident policy issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company of Chicago. This insurance is offered to subscribers and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 69 on the one subscription going into that home at the small registration fee of $1 each per policy per year.

The policy The Constitution offers you provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $10,000 for travel, $1,000 for auto and pedestrian deaths resulting from certain specified accidents, heavy sums for permanent injuries and $10 weekly indemnity for total disability resulting from the accidents set forth in the policy. All this for only $1 registration fee—just about 2 cents a week.

The policy is issued by the North American Accident Insurance Company, of Chicago, Ill. The reliability of this concern is proved by the fact that already more than $150,000 in cash has been paid on claims to Constitution policyholders.

This insurance is offered to old and new subscribers alike. One who is now taking the daily and Sunday Constitution, or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber and is eligible.

Paid-in-advance mail subscribers can also have this insurance by paying the small registration fee of $1 in addition to the subscription price.

Those living in Atlanta and suburbs finding it inconvenient to pay the $1 registration fee in advance can pay 20 cents registration fee with the application and 20 cents for five consecutive weeks thereafter in addition to the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, give age and occupation, and if beneficiary is desired the full Christian name of the beneficiary must be given and relationship to the insured.

Alumni of Georgia Tech Assemble For Annual Home-Coming Festival

College and folk songs of another era rang out Friday night as alumni of Georgia Tech—by the hundreds—gathered in Atlanta for annual home-coming day and the football classic today between their alma mater and the University of Georgia. The old grads were welcomed by undergraduates and faculty members of their institution.

John W. Heisman, head coach at Tech for 15 years, was one of the visitors honored Friday night when the class of 1912 celebrated its twentieth anniversary and paid tribute to the members of the nationally famous football team of 1917. Fraternity houses were especially decorated for the occasion and many luncheons and dances were given in honor of the returning alumni.

Today at 12 o'clock a general home-coming luncheon will be served at the Atlanta Athletic Club with old classes holding their fall reunion. Bobby Jones, world-famous golfer and president of the National Georgia Tech Alumni Association, will preside over alumni sessions. After the luncheon all alumni and their families will attend the football game at Grant field, where they will occupy a reserved section.

Capsized Lake Tug Carries 5 to Death

GRAND MARAIS, Mich., Nov. 25.(AP)—Five members of the crew of the fishing tug Lydia were drowned here tonight when the vessel was capsized by heavy waves whipped up by a 60-mile northwester on Lake Superior.

The dead are: Captain Louis Larson, of Racine, Wis., commander of the tug; John Tomkiel, engineer, and Alex Manilla, both of Grand Marais; Fred Haysen, of Racine, and Thomas Larson, adopted son of the tug's captain.

The Lydia was swept over by waves while she was at the pier near the entrance to the harbor.

Fliers Are Feared Dead In Blizzard-Swept Area

THE PAS, Man., Nov. 25.—(UP)—There was little hope tonight that the lives of two aviators missing a week on a gold hunt in the desolate, blizzard-swept tundras between Thicket Portage and God's lake would be saved.

Unless W. K. Harding, Minneapolis mining man, and Ernest McFetridge, his Winnipeg pilot, have found a cache of food in some trapper's cabin, they would have perished days ago, veterans of the north said.

Pilots Bob Eddy and Jack Crosby, of the Northwest Aero Marine Company, took two planes over the region today. They flew direct to God's lake this afternoon and planned to return to Winnipeg via Oxford House tomorrow.

6-HOUR DAY OPPOSED BY LABOR FEDERATION

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor, by an almost unanimous vote on the floor of its convention, today frowned upon a proposal that it agitate for a constitutional amendment making mandatory a six-hour day and a five-day week for workingmen.

The action came shortly after leaders of the federation had pledged cooperation to the United Brewery Workers' Union of America, also meeting here but not as a part of the A. F. of L. convention, in efforts to block purported attempts of gangdom to "muscle into" the brewery industry should beer be legalized.

William Green, president of the labor federation, explained the labor convention's action on the 30-hour work week proposal by saying such action does not mean organized labor is opposed to a shorter work week, but that the method of securing such an aim was disapproved. Green was one of the labor leaders to pledge aid in keeping the manufacture of beer within the ranks of "citizens of good character and reputation."

The defeated work-week resolution was offered by Paul Scharrenberg, of the California Federation of Labor. It had been disapproved in committee before its defeat on the convention floor.

Green said at least three other committees are considering methods for making a short work-week plan effective.

On recommendation of the federation's executive council, the convention also voted its opposition to a federal sales tax. The council reported it "regards this form of taxation as a movement to 'soak the poor'" and proposed continued opposition to any efforts to pass such tax legislation.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR ERNST HORWITZ

Final rites for Ernst Horwitz, vice president and general manager of the Black and White Cab Company, who died of a heart attack Thursday at his home at 866 Briarcliff road, were conducted Friday afternoon at the residence, with Dr. David Marx officiating. Interment was in Crown Hill cemetery.

Mr. Horwitz, a native of Germany, was widely known in business and social fields. He was connected with the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company before its merger with Black and White Company. He also was a director of the Standard Club and members of the club formed an honorary escort at the funeral.

S. T. BATTLE DIES; WAS NOTED SINGER

Samuel T. Battle, 80, operatic and concert singer and former teacher of voice in Augusta, died Friday afternoon at his residence at 1302 Stillwood drive, N. E. He had been retired for several years and for the last two years had been in declining health.

A member of the Schubert quartet, famous musical organization, for 15 years, Mr. Battle was its first tenor and gained a wide reputation throughout the United States and other countries. He was born in Bristol, England, and sang in the church choir there. He studied voice and music in England and in Italy, and at the age of 20 came to America to sing with the Schubert quartet.

Following his 15 years with that organization, he was a member of the Boston Opera Company for three years, and sang many important tenor roles in that company's presentations. He went to Chicago to teach voice and while there met and married Miss Kate Roat, who died several years ago.

For many years he was a teacher of voice in Augusta, where he was widely known and beloved. He took an active interest in fraternal affairs there, and was a Mason, a Shriner and a member of the Knights Templar. He came with his family to Atlanta in 1923, following his retirement.

He was the father of Miss Margaret B. Battle and Miss Helen A. Battle, both of whom are well-known vocal teachers and musicians here. He is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Edwin H. Denny, of Memphis, Tenn., and a grandchild, Marion Denny, of Memphis.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the residence. Dr. John Moore Walker and Dr. Richard Orme Flinn will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery. The following will act as pallbearers: Joseph Ragan, Herbert D. Oliver, Frank Smith, H. H. Altman, Sam Davidson and R. E. Cothran. H. M. Patterson & Son are in charge.

TEACHERS ARE GIVEN LESSONS IN TEACHING

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Nationally known speakers today gave the school teachers a few more lessons about the business of educating the American child.

The trouble with some teachers of the younger children, Professor Bert Roller, of Nashville, Tenn., explained, is that they have the idea that moral teaching has something to do with the value of books for the youngsters.

Addressing the National Council of Teachers of English, Professor Roller, of George Peabody College, described some of the highly recommended contemporary books for children as "like the wood cuts or block prints that adorn them—colorless, drab and anemic."

Approving of the works of Miss Alcott, Dickens and Barrie because "they have thrown themselves wholeheartedly on the side of childhood," Professor Roller said that, in the works of many other authors, "we have a world of childhood presided over by adults and interpreted by adults."

The greatness of "Treasure Island," he said, lies in the fact that it is "a glorified dime novel."

Finding the average freshman composition course "inadequate and indefinite," Dr. Ranun L. Branltey, head of the English department of Bessie Tift College, Forsyth, Ga., suggested the addition of journalism as a remedy. Other grades in the English department also should include journalism, he said.

"The clearest, most concise English being written today is found in advertisements," Dr. Brantley said. "Writing a good advertisement may be a crude, material and shocking approach to good English, but it is specific and a practical everyday job for somebody.

"Is it in order to put in a text in advertising writing to assist, or perhaps supplant, the ossified composition test?"

Street Car Motorman Shoots Self to Death

Telling his 17-year-old son that he was going to commit suicide, Joel Franklin Cooley, 55, street car motorman, shot himself to death shortly before noon Friday at his home at 908 Murphy avenue, according to police reports. His son, Hoke, ran to get aid, but when he returned with an uncle, W. F. Cooley, they found the boy's father dead with a pistol near his hand.

The body was taken to the funeral parlors of J. Austin Dillon Company, where an inquest will be held this morning, it was said.

Hoke Cooley said his father had been despondent since the death of his wife two years ago in an automobile accident. In addition to his son and brother, Cooley is survived by two daughters, Nellie and Louise Cooley, of Atlanta.

C. M. ERDMAN'S BODY IS TAKEN TO MOBILE

The body of Charles M. Erdman, 26, of 1057 Ponce de Leon avenue, who died Thursday at an Atlanta hospital as the result of injuries received early Wednesday morning when his car crashed into a telephone pole in front of the Ford plant, was taken Friday to Mobile, his native city, for funeral services and interment.

A graduate of the University of Alabama, Mr. Erdman had resided here with his mother, Mrs. Louise Gibbs Erdman, for the last year. An investigation disclosed that the accident which claimed his life was caused when a rim, from which he had taken the tire after having a puncture, became caught in the street car track and threw his machine against the pole. J. Austin Dillon Company were in charge.

MISS RUBY E. PALMER TO BE BURIED TODAY

Members of Atlanta's younger social set will pay last tribute at 11 o'clock this morning to Miss Ruby Eleanor Palmer, 20, daughter of R. A. Palmer, well known insurance man, who died Thursday afternoon of injuries received in an automobile accident September 3 near Anniston, Ala.

Services will be conducted by Dean Raimundo de Ovies and Canon William Turner at St. Philip's cathedral, and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Neal Berry, Milton Hopkins, who was injured in the same accident, Sloat Hodgson, Harold Williams, John Owens and William Prescott Jr. Awtry & Lowndes are in charge.

Holdups, Burglaries Show Sharp Decline

Burglaries and robberies were scarce Friday, but police received reports of crimes which included a stolen auto, looting of an apartment and the ransacking of a councilman's office.

Councilman James L. Wells reported that his desk was rifled at the Sloan Paper Company Friday morning but he was unable to report missing papers, which he said was the object of the visit.

Carter Barron, in Atlanta for a visit from Washington, where he is city manager of the Loew theaters, reported that his car, stolen Thursday night, had been recovered in an alley where it was abandoned by the thief.

A radio alarm aided in trapping a man accused of the burglary in the apartment of Mrs. Joseph Winter, 387 Boulevard, S. E., and the recovery of stolen articles. From a description given by Mrs. Winter, Patrolmen Cason and Cunningham picked up a man who gave the name of W. R. Hale, 287 Boulevard, S. E. The officers said he had in his possession jewelry and other articles taken from the apartment.

Thieves broke into the parked car of W. Mulford, of Salem, Ohio, temporarily of 1393 West Peachtree street, and escaped with a suitcase and several articles of men's clothing, he reported to police. The machine was parked at Cain and Peachtree streets.

Death of Chambers Laid to Hemorrhage

Joe Chambers, 35, of 481 Peters street, died of a cerebral hemorrhage two days ago at Grady hospital, according to a verdict by a coroner's jury Friday afternoon at the funeral chapel of Howard L. Carmichael at East Point. Investigation was made concerning reports of injuries about the head, but acting on testimony of physicians the jury said spontaneous hemorrhage caused his death.

Mrs. Leila Chambers, his wife, who had been held for questioning after she told officers that her husband died of injuries incurred in a fall while drinking, was released after the verdict was read.

N. Y. POLICE CAPTURE ESCAPE FROM DEKALB

Johnny Jones, special investigator in the office of Claude Smith, DeKalb county solicitor-general, left Decatur Friday for New York to return Mike Thomas, 22-year-old white DeKalb county convict who escaped from the chain gang last September when he stole a county truck and another car. Thomas was serving a three-year sentence for larceny of an automobile.

In making his escape Thomas jumped into a county truck and fled with it to Lawrenceville, where he stole another car, abandoning the truck. He has 22 cases against him, 19 of which are still open. He was arrested in New York and DeKalb county officers were notified by wire.

MRS. HOLLINGSWORTH PASSES AT HOME HERE

Mrs. J. Hope Hollingsworth, 51, well known Atlanta woman, died Friday night at her residence at 1112 Virginia avenue, N. E., after an illness of seven months. She was a native of Atlanta, and was a member of the St. Paul Methodist church and of the Grant Park chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. Her husband is the president of the J. Hope Hollingsworth Wall Paper Company, at 88 Luckie street.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Miss Evelyn and Miss Dorothy Hollingsworth, of Atlanta. The funeral will be held Sunday morning at the Spring Hill chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Filipino Greets Hint Of Smith Appointment

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 26.—(Saturday.)—(UP)—Appointment of Alfred E. Smith as governor-general of the Philippines would be "most excellent," Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, declared today.

The Manila Tribune asked Quezon for his opinion, saying there was a movement in the United States to have Smith take the post.

"If Theodore Roosevelt is to leave the Philippines, I would consider the appointment of Al Smith most excellent," Quezon said.

E. F. DONEHOO, 45, DIES; WAS COUNTY OFFICER

Brother of Coroner Had Been Fulton Policeman for 14 Years.

E. Frank Donehoo, 45, of Willis drive, a member of the county police department for almost 15 years, died Friday afternoon at Georgia Baptist hospital when he failed to rally from a throat operation performed the first of the week.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Calvary Methodist church, with the Rev. Irby Henderson officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery and a special escort of county policemen will be in attendance. Arrangements are in charge of Awtry & Lowndes.

Mr. Donehoo, brother of Paul Donehoo, coroner of Fulton county, was elected to the county police force July 3, 1918, and had seen active service since that time. He became ill on November 21 and was taken to the hospital for a delicate throat operation from which he failed to rally. Chief of County Police George Mathieson and Walter Stewart, chairman of the police committee of the county commission, were high in their praise of Mr. Donehoo Friday afternoon. They said he was one of the most dependable and bravest men on the force and that his loss will be felt keenly.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Frances; two sons, Billy and Frank Jr.; his mother, Mrs. V. A. Donehoo; three brothers, A. L. Donehoo, of Baltimore; L. V. Donehoo, of East Point, and Paul Donehoo, of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. Beulah D. Manston and Mrs. A. T. Pulliam, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. H. Burton Bankston, of Atlanta.

PAYMENT OF BONUS OPPOSED BY GRANGE

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Nov. 2. (AP)—The National Grange today adopted a resolution opposing immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, with reservations, and opposing payment of benefits to veterans for disabilities not incurred in the service.

The action came at the concluding session of the grange, which ended its 10-day 66th annual convention this afternoon.

Other resolutions adopted advocated support of the Volstead act, lower commissions for selling live stock, uniform laws for regulation of motor vehicles, and opposed compulsory reduction of crop acreage.

The bonus resolution said the grange opposed "cash payment of the soldiers' bonus at this time unless the adjusted service certificate of the veteran should be redeemed at its present worth instead of the worth in 1945, which would call for payment of compound interest at 4 per cent and which has not been earned."

The report said the grange would "stand by" those veterans who were disabled "in the nation's defense," but said the "present system of permitting payments to those of no service-connected disability is undermining the very foundation of the national well-being and security."

Impasse Is Seen On Lytton Report

GENEVA, Nov. 25.—(UP)—It appeared inevitable tonight that the League of Nations assembly will resolve not to recognize the so-called state of Manchuokuo.

Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State and chairman of the council, declared from the chair today that nothing in the Japanese and Chinese arguments so far on the Manchurian situation has inspired any hope of a settlement.

He appealed to both China and Japan to lend their assistance to the League in solving the problem, but the dogged stand of the two disputing nations, it was felt, cannot be broken down.

The Earl of Lytton, who headed the League's commission investigating the Manchurian problem, reported to the council today that the commission does not desire to alter its report, which is definitely unfavorable to Japan.

LAST SERVICES TODAY FOR JOSEPH H. DILLON

The funeral of Joseph H. Dillon, 65, retired hotel operator, who died Thursday night at St. Joseph's infirmary, will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at the Immaculate Conception church, the Rev. Father Joseph E. Moylan officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

A resident of Atlanta for the last 26 years, Mr. Dillon was well known in fraternal circles, being a member of the B. P. O. E., Knights of Columbus and a trustee of the Order of Railway Conductors. He formerly resided in Mexico City, where he was connected with the Mexican National Railway. Until he retired seven years ago he operated the Southern hotel here.

Surviving are his wife; a sister, Mrs. S. D. Stich, and two half-sisters, Mrs. William Osburne, Elmira, N. Y., and Mrs. Mae Martin, of Buffalo, N. Y. Sam R. Greenberg and Company are in charge.

MAD SLAYER OF SIX FACES MURDER CHARGE

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 25.—(AP) A first-degree murder charge was filed today against Julian Marcelino, a slightly built Filipino, who, angered by the theft of his savings, killed six men and wounded 13 persons yesterday.

For a half hour he ranged the south end of the city, populated by Orientals, stabbing and slashing at whoever came in his way.

Police at last captured him as he stood on a street corner, his trembling hands held above his head. They counted two white men and four Filipinos dead, three white men, one Japanese woman, two negroes, one Filipino and six Japanese wounded when his madness had subsided.

EARLY MEETING SEEN OF AGRICULTURAL BODY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—An early meeting of the senate agriculture committee was proposed today by Chairman McNary with a view to enacting farm relief legislation at the approaching short session.

The republican chairman promised co-operation with house democratic leaders who are formulating an agricultural program for expedition in the three-month session.

ATLANTA, GA., NOV. 26, 1932.

AN ALLEGED CITY SORE SPOT.

If a thorough investigation of conditions at the Washington street curb market reveals the law defiance alleged in the petition filed by a group of taxpayers, the market should either be abolished or subjected to a thorough housecleaning.

The petition declares that open vice, bootlegging and law-breaking of all kinds is carried on in and around the huddled shacks which constitute this so-called market. If so, it constitutes a civic sore spot in the very heart of the municipality which should be abolished.

It is unthinkable that any such conditions, if existent, should be tolerated in a locality practically across the street from the new city hall, only half a block from the state capitol and in a district thickly studded with churches.

It is charged that solid blocks of residences, formerly occupied by substantial Atlanta families, have been abandoned because of conditions surrounding the curb market and are now occupied by bootleggers, lewd women and a composite riff-raff which can be allowed to congregate in any one locality only with the threat of danger from objectionable and dangerous conditions.

The petition asking that the market be closed as a public nuisance is signed by five churches, the Salvation Army, the Manget Home for Girls and many leading citizens. It is charged that its existence is a constant threat to the morals of the young men and women employed at the state capitol, the city hall and business establishments in the vicinity.

Conditions have become so bad, the petitioners allege, that even the numerous arrests daily in and around the market for "disorderly conduct, drunkenness, lewdness and other forms of vice" are ineffective to bring about an improvement.

Time and again during the past few months similar complaints have been made against conditions at the Washington street curb market. The matter has been put before council, the zoning commission has been approached and now appeal is made to the courts.

Either the truth or the falsity of the charges should be established, once and for all, and without delay. If they are not based on fact, then an injustice is being done to those against whom these charges are directed.

If, on the other hand, these charges are true, a condition exists in the very heart of the city which is inexcusable.

There should be an immediate and searching investigation of the situation and it is to be hoped that either as a result of the petition which has been filed, or the appeals which have been made to council, that this probe will be undertaken and brought to completion with the least delay possible.

THE LICENSE SQUABBLES.

Suggestions which, if uniformly adopted, would go far towards putting an end to the constantly recurring squabbles between the states over the matter of automobile licenses, are contained in an address made by Secretary of Commerce Roy Chapin before the American Association of State Highway Officials in Washington.

Especially does Mr. Chapin advocate complete reciprocity between the states in the use of the highways, the adjustment of automobile taxes to conform with depleted incomes, and the conservation of special taxes paid for highway use "solely for that use."

Last year Georgia and North Carolina engaged in a long controversy over the reciprocal recognition of auto licenses, during which many truck drivers were detained and reprisal steps taken by merchants. This year Pennsylvania and New Jersey have been at loggerheads and business has been interrupted and arrests made in other states.

It is a situation as foolish as it is wasteful and, as suggested by Secretary Chapin, it should be easy enough for the various state governments to get together and put an end to it once and for all.

During the past few years taxation and control of automobiles have become increasingly heavy and more rigid. In view of these changes there must be adjustments to meet new conditions.

The automobile is now too vital a factor in every phase of the life of the country for it to be either unjustly taxed or for its use to be unwisely restricted.

DAWES HAS HAD ENOUGH.

The definite announcement by former Vice President Dawes that he is "out of politics for good" removes from American public life one of its most picturesque, and, in many respects, one of its most useful figures.

Out of the drab succession of unemotional, unimpressive republican leaders there has been only Dawes to add virility to a leadership fast going to seed.

Dawes had more appeal to the people of the country than either Harding or Hoover. He would have made a better president than either of them. His impatience with unnecessary delays, technicalities and formalities is typically American. His famous "Hell and Maria" outburst was shocking to the dignified and austere senate, but it shocked it out of some of its lethargy.

If the republican party is to be revived and revamped it must be under such leaders as General Dawes, but after 30 years of politics, diplomacy and emergency work, he goes back to banking as his best beloved endeavor.

The Dawes career has been meteoric, sometimes chaotic; but, almost without exception, its developments and activities have been of a beneficial nature. He goes into retirement with the knowledge that he has well and uniquely served the people of his country and the world, and that he carries with him the affectionate and admiring regard of the rank and file of his fellow citizens the country over.

HITLER FAILS AGAIN.

The astuteness of President Hindenburg is again evidenced in the inability of Hitler to form a new cabinet along the lines prescribed by the aged but still mentally and physically vigorous German chief executive.

Hitler was neatly "put on the spot" by the wily old German, who is as impressive as head of the new republic as he was as one of the outstanding leaders of the imperialist regime. There was little possibility of Hitler's being able to get together a cabinet that would have a backing of the majority of the reichstag, and yet, whether he refused or failed, the bombastic leader of the nazis would be placed in a bad light.

The net result is undoubtedly a lessening of Hitler's strength and influence. For the fourth time in a year he has demanded governmental control—twice at the hands of the people in national elections and twice from Hindenburg in the insistence that he be named chancellor.

In the early part of the year the confident nazi claims of rapidly-growing strength seemed to assure that before the year was out they would take over the reins of government. Then came the presidential election in which Hitler was overwhelmingly defeated by Hindenburg. Only a month or so later the nazi drive was again halted far short of its objective in the reichstag elections.

Later Hitler made his spectacular demand on Hindenburg for the chancellorship, only to hustle out of the executive offices ahead of the blasts of the aroused old Teutonic statesman. Now he loses in his second try at the chancellorship because, it would appear, of the impossible task placed on his shoulders by the president—but a task, at the same time, not out of keeping with the nazi claims.

It is possible that Hitler and his followers may feel that continued efforts to grasp control may eventually succeed. It is more probable that with every failure the nazi strength is discredited.

The Hitlerites constitute by far the strongest single party, but the "lone-wolf" fight they have conducted have so antagonized the royalists, centrists, Catholics and communists that they can have but little hope of forming a coalition cabinet.

Chief Sturdivant wants no private citizens as members of his force—and the probability is that the citizens would not be crazy about their jobs after their first encounter with a highwayman.

Let's see, now; what was that awful thing that the stock exchange would save us from by not closing?

Alas! The one who doesn't keep his word is always the one strong enough to laugh at critics.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Fine Theory.

Mr. De Valera, the president of the Irish Free State, has pulled a good one. He was not intentionally humorous, you may be sure, for such does not lie in the gentleman's nature. But Mr. De Valera, who does not want to go on paying the land annuities to Britain, remarked recently: "Why should we pay at all. We also have claims. For instance, Oliver Cromwell burned many Irish homes and then there have been centuries of overtaxation of the Irish people by Britain."

Should the British accept this argument in the course of negotiations, interesting prospects loom up. For instance, family records show that the British burned up my ancestral home about 300 years ago. Figuring that the house may have been worth, say $1,000, in that time a respectable but not an excessive sum, I am willing to negotiate for the return of the $1,000 plus compound interest at the rate of 5 per cent. If this claim is accepted, I will pay the whole Irish national debt, amounting to some $250,000,000 and still have a hundred million or so to plant turnips with.

I am all for encouraging the British government to see the justice of Mr. De Valera's claim. What's more, I want the principle involved to be recognized universally so that all governments will act accordingly—say the United States government, for instance. Talk about bonus-marchers, it is a mere pittance those boys are asking compared with what southern families may claim for depredations committed by the Union army. I see a golden age ahead for Georgia. Let us all support Mr. De Valera. Who knows?

Spend Money!

Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the chancellor of the exchequer, gave the following advice: "If I may sum up my advice to the private individual," Mr. Chamberlain said, "I would say: 'Use your own common sense and apply it to your own individual circumstances; do not abstain from spending if you can afford to spend under the mistaken idea that you are performing a public service by keeping your money lying idle in the bank. On the other hand, do not feel any qualms of conscience or feel you are doing wrong if you put a little bit aside even today, for it may be in that way you are helping to preserve the stability of the country.'"

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

FATE OF THE PULPLESS TOOTH

In a recent issue of the Illinois Dental Journal, official organ of the Illinois Dental Society, Dr. J. P. Buckley, Hollywood dentist, points out that it is incorrect to consider a tooth from which the pulp has been removed "dead" or "nonvital" or "devitalized." A dead tooth in the jaw would not be tolerated by nature and would soon be exfoliated. The author goes on to explain, in technical language, that the dental pulp (which I believe the laity calls the "nerve") is the tissue from which the dentin or main bone-like part of the tooth is formed, and that the pulp disappears in old age and the space it formerly occupied becomes filled with secondary dentin. Yet the tooth is still alive, being nourished from the tissues surrounding it and not from the pulp.

All as clear as mud, isn't it? Never mind. The essential idea is that the pulpless tooth, the tooth in which the "nerve" has been "killed" or destroyed by injury or by infection, the tooth with root canal filling, is not necessarily a foreign body, a dead thing, a menace to health. In many instances it is not only inoffensive but useful, perhaps for the support of some bridge or other denture or for the maintenance of good position or occlusion of the rest of the teeth, or for mastication.

Dr. Buckley asserts that root canal work, good work, requires no more skill than is required for almost every operation the dentist is called upon to perform. To that I say amen—I mean, boo-oo to the idea that one must go to a specialist for root canal filling or treatment.

Dr. Buckley further asserts that the tooth with infection of the pulp (gangrene or abscess) seldom requires more than three treatments over a period of a week, for complete healing and finished filling. He goes further and says that prolonged treatments are absolutely contraindicated and rather increase irritation and do harm. If the case can't be finished in a week or so, it is better to extract the tooth and be done with it.

The sensible plan, it seems to me, is to keep the tooth or teeth as long as it serves a useful purpose or causes no trouble. If ever your health becomes impaired in any way, why, put the question of the possible bearing of the pulpless tooth up to your physician, who, if he deserves your confidence, will come to a decision only after consultation with your dentist.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

When I was your age, the only youngsters who took any interest in politics were boys. Now that your sex has acquired the privilege of rocking the boat as well as the cradle, most of the campaign argument I hear is soprano.

ROBERT QUILLEN

I am not complaining. The more interest you take in national affairs the better woman you will be. But since youth's opinions usually are violent, I wish to give you a word of advice.

Criticize a candidate for the presidency as much as you please. He is a mere citizen asking for a job. Berate and belittle him as you like in the heat of conflict, but change your tone when he is elected.

Once a man becomes president, he is no longer an individual. He is an institution. He represents the power and glory and dignity of America.

Criticize his acts, if you wish. He isn't infallible or sacrosanct. Disagree with him and oppose him when you think him wrong. But speak always with due regard for the fact that he is your chief and the leader of a nation.

No organization, whether a sorority, a business or a nation, can succeed without a directing head. And no great organization can survive if its individual members treat the leader as one of themselves and thus destroy the dignity of his office.

Do you remember the Sunday afternoon we visited the Lincoln memorial in Washington? Children romped noisily in front of the statue, unaware of its significance; young people discussed it flippantly; but those who were old spoke in hushed tones or whispered as people do in church.

You can measure people by the respect they show for things that deserve respect.

When you judge others, you are unconsciously judging yourself; and when you criticize a great man in terms of familiar impudence, you unwittingly tell your audience the kind of person you are.

The callow young and the witless who mock sacred things are like the ass that kicked the sick lion. Knowing their hides are safe, they try to exalt themselves by feigning contempt for something far above them.

Much the same spirit animates those who affect an impudent familiarity in their criticism of the nation's chief. They do not demonstrate their own importance, but only their bad manners.

There isn't much but the monkey left when we are stripped of decent dignity and decorum. For your own sake respect the things that make our race respectable.

Love,
DAD.

U. S. SAYS DEBTORS MUST PAY ON TIME

partment, informed Great Britain, France and Belgium that their December 15 debt payments must be met. He suggested these payments would provide a more "satisfactory approach" to fundamental debt revision.

Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, meanwhile, attacked President Hoover's plan to let foreign debtors pay in the form of credits in their own depreciated currencies. He called the plan a "diluted form of a moratorium."

"I can see nothing to be gained in dealing with this matter in that way or in dealing with it partially and incompletely," Borah said in a press conference.

"With a program which includes an adjustment of the postwar problems which are now conceded to stand in the way of world recovery, I would include the consideration of debts.

"But unless these problems are to be taken up and adjusted so that the world markets may be reopened and foreign trade and commerce re-established nothing can be gained, it seems to me by postponements and moratoriums."

Different in Form.

The three state department notes were different in form, but almost identical in substance, save that the messages to France and Belgium contained a strong assertion that the United States could recognize no connection between war debts and reparations. This same idea was presented in milder form in the British note. Both France and Belgium, in their notes requesting debt revision, had called attention to their sacrifice of reparations at the Lausanne conference.

High spots in Stimson's note were:

1. The United States finds no reasons why the December 15 debt payments should not be met.
2. President Hoover, under the law, had no authority to consider debt revision but will recommend to congress appointment of a commission to study the matter.
3. The United States recognizes that the world depression has increased the burden of foreign debtors.
4. This country believes the debt question is so important that "there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both governments and people."

No Other Angles.

Unlike Mr. Hoover's public statements on war debts, the notes did not mention the possibility that countries having depreciated currencies might set aside their payments for transfer later to the United States. Nor did the notes hint at a trade of war debts for disarmament.

Stimson did recall, however, the suggestion made by Mr. Hoover in several campaign speeches that any particular payment on war debts might be traded for advantages to American exports.

Tersely summarized, the tone of all three of Stimson's notes implied:

"The war debts are legal obligations, approved by congress. The president cannot change them. We believe that you should meet your December 15 payments. Afterward we are willing to re-examine your debts in the light of changed economic conditions."

In the notes to France and Belgium particularly, Stimson set forth the reasoning on which American debt policy is based. He said:

"From the time of their (the war debts') creation, under President Wilson, this government has uniformly insisted that in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the war.

"Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural in view of its refusal after the war to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations. Not only did this government not receive compensation in the form of territory, economic privileges, or governmental indemnity at the close of the war, but from the fact that it owed no libations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States.

No Concession.

"No concession was made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary, every such concession would result in inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the pososibility of any recoupment from others.

"The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations and were treated as such. The American congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining, and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens.

"I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your memorandum, which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss from that source of income.

"I am not oblivious to the fact, moreover, that the world-wide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange.

Also in America.

"I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded."

After presenting this doctrine Stimson told France and Belgium he could not see "any controlling reasons" which might induce congress to "act upon the question any differently now than from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past."

"And I believe," he continued, "it would be inadvisable to attempt to enter into discussions on the subject except in that manner and under those principles."

To the British, however, Stimson substituted for the phrase "any controlling reasons" the words "any presentation in your note."

"It appeared to some observers that the secretary here implied that the British might have reasons, as yet unpresented, which would persuade congress to take a favorable view of their request for debt revision. It was recalled that the British debt was funded at a much higher rate of interest than the French and that the British pound has depreciated making payment more difficult whereas France has remained on the gold standard.

No Hope Left.

All three notes, however, left no hope that the American government would relax its insistence on payment of the December installments of $124,000,000. To each debtor, Stimson said:

"Such importance is attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15 as to far outweight any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question in my opinion, would be greatly increased."

The net result of these notes, and of apparent congressional opposition to delaying the December payments, seems to leave Europe with no alternatives save to pay or default.

However, Mr. Hoover's suggestion that those debtors whose currencies have depreciated may deposit the payments in their own central banks to be withdrawn later, seems to solve the transfer problem, especially for Great Britain. Due to Borah's opposition, however, congressional assent to this plan does not seem certain.

State department officials said today that the "pay in your own money" plan had not been discussed with foreign nations. Mr. Hoover advanced it in his public statement Wednesday. The state department apparently is waiting for the debtors to raise the subject.

Officials further insisted there had been no understandings with European countries not contained in the official, public correspondence. They denied a report that the debtors had been given to understand that if they deposited payments for the United States in their own central banks, they would not be withdrawn until after discussion of the fundamental war debt problem.

U. S. CALLS ON FRANCE FOR DEBT PAYMENT

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The American executive has no power to grant postponement of the $20,000,000 debt installment due from France on December 15, the state department of the United States informed this government in a note made public here this evening.

"The American government and the American people," said the note, "give to the maintenance of existing accords and to the payment of December 15 such an importance that it is greater than all reasons submitted in favor of suspension.

"If payment is made the chances of a favorable examination of the question in its entirety would, in my opinion, be greatly increased."

This note was the answer to the French request for postponement of the December payment pending reconsideration of the debts schedule.

The French request followed by a day a similar proposal by England.

The memorandum emphasizes that the American government always has maintained that the debts due from the allies of the World War should be treated as distinct from the reparations which grew out of the war.

"This insistence by the United States on this difference," it said, "is quite natural when one considers her refusal after the war to accept reparations for herself, and also that her position as a creditor was different from that of all other nations.

"Not only did this government receive no territorial compensation, no economic privilege, no governmental indemnities at the end of the war, but since it had no obligations toward others, to treat the debts and reparations as if they were linked could only be to the disadvantage of the United States."

The note was written by Secretary Stimson.

MACDONALD CONFIDENT OF DEBT AGREEMENT

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—While Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was expressing confidence tonight that a new debt agreement could be made with the United States, Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain revealed that if Britain resumes her payments December 15 it will be necessary to boost the income tax from 25 to 30 per cent.

The prime minister said he could not believe that a real effort on both sides would fail to result in a solution "to enable December 15 to be passed."

Mr. Chamberlain, speaking in Birmingham, declared it was "absolutely insufferable" for Britain to be forced to boost the income tax while receiving nothing from her own debtors.

British income taxpayers already are assessed five shillings in each pound earned, or 25 per cent. Mr. Chamberlain forecast a tax of six shillings in the pound.

During the day the pea green pound notes of the Bank of England dropped steadily in value to the lowest point in the last 12 years and within a fraction of a cent of the all-time low record of $3.20 established in 1920.

The American reply to the British request for an extension of the moratorium was passed out to the newspapers tonight for publication in the morning. The cabinet will meet Monday to draft the British answer, which may be dispatched some time that day. This note still was expected tonight to be an emphatic presentation of Britain's case for postponement.

Speculation was growing about what the final answer of the government would be when and if the United States, in reply to the next cabinet note, insisted upon payment. As expressed by the press, public opinion seemed to be that if necessary the payment would be made, but voices counselling default were becoming increasingly louder.

Mr. MacDonald dealt with the debt question in a speech at Rentford, the seat of the house of commons constituency of his son.

"America has a political situation—we have an economic one," the prime minister told a cheering audience.

"I do not believe for a moment that, if there is a real effort made together, if both sides can put themselves in the other's shoes, that no solution can be found to enable December 15 to be passed and the future to be examined and pondered over and new agreements made between men of good will who understand what the present unfortunate financial situation means to the world and the human beings who live in it."

There was long and loud cheering when Mr. MacDonald said that "the discussions with the United States are arousing no bad feelings between us."

BROKERS FAVOR PROVISION FOR DISCUSSION OF DEBTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—While Wall Street bankers today placed a taboo sign on all discussions for publication of the delicate intergovernmental debt problem, and said they would do nothing which might in any way embarrass Washington, brokers were less reticent.

In some leading brokerage houses the view was expressed that the December 15 payments to the United States should be paid, but that provision should be made by this country thereafter to thresh out the problem with the different debtor nations.

LABOR WILL FIGHT GANGLAND ON BEER

CINCINNATI, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Organized labor united today to blast any hopes gangdom might have to "muscle into" the brewing industry when and if beer comes back again.

The executive board of the United Brewery Workers' Union of America announced that "now, on the eve of victory, with the Volstead law soon to go into the discard, we don't propose to let the Chicago underworld ruin everything."

Immediate expulsion of any member associating with a gangster or racketeer was threatened. An appeal to the federal government to aid in keeping the brewers' ranks clean was decided upon and it was agreed to ask congress for legislation granting brewery licenses only to "citizens of good character and reputation."

cipitated by a proposal from Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, long a friend of prohibition, that national enforcement be withdrawn from states which do not co-operate in carrying out the prohibition laws.

Hastings and Representative Snell, of New York, republican house leader, both declared for adoption of a resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment at the December session. The former said he would not support beer and wine legislation while the latter declined to commit himself.

Speaker Garner expressed the "hope and belief the house will pass a beer bill by January 1." Preparation of a preliminary draft of the beer bill was ordered and hearings are to be opened December 7.

Chairman Smoot, of the senate finance committee, said that legalized beer would not provide enough revenue without additional taxes and predicted a general revenue bill would have to be enacted.

After the disposal of the beer legislation the democrats plan to present a repeal resolution. This procedure will run into opposition in Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, a leading prohibitionist, who said that "orderly procedure" would require consideration of prohibition repeal before proposals for legalizing beer. He said he is opposed to both.

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, who said he would vote to submit a repeal amendment along the lines suggested by the republican platform, said he could not agree to the Hastings' proposal "because it would be tantamount to nullification."

Senator Dickinson, republican, Iowa, however, said he saw "no particular objection" to the Hastings bill and added, "I think the government would be justified in withdrawing enforcement from those states which are not going to co-operate."

Snell also opposed the Hastings proposal declaring that he was "not for nullification," but that appropriations for federal enforcement should be reduced in proportion to those for other governmental activities.

Texas Bank Robbed.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The First State bank, of Cedar Hill, 20 miles southwest of Dallas, was robbed of between $1,800 and $1,900 by two robbers shortly after it had opened for business today.

Texts of War Debt Notes Sent European Nations

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The texts of the war debts notes handed to the British and French ambassadors on November 23 by Secretary of State Stimson follow:

A third note, almost identical with that sent to France, was dispatched to Ambassador May, of Belgium, its only deviations in text being the date of Belgium's memorandum—November 15—and the name of the country appealing for examination of its debt problem.

To Sir Ronald Lindsay of Great Britain:

"Excellency:

"I fully appreciate the importance of the proposal contained in your note of November 10 and the seriousness of the situation upon which it is predicated. The mere fact that your government suggests the necessity of a review of the intergovernmental financial obligations now existing between our two nations presents a circumstance which must be given most serious consideration. In a matter of such importance there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both governments and peoples.

"With this end in view, you will permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this government such a review and might affect its results. Not only is there reserved to the congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but the congress in the past has itself provided the machinery in the shape of the World War foreign debt commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the congress, acting through this machinery.

"You will also appreciate that your present suggestion of a general review goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this government and that even the suggestion quoted in your note was not adopted by the congress of the United States.

U. S. Not Involved.

"In view of these facts and in the light of the historic position of the United States that reparations are solely an European question in which the United States are not involved, I am sure that no inference can be intended that the settlement of German reparations at Lausanne was made in reliance upon any commitments given by this government.

"I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your note which has been taken by the government at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact that the worldwide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any presentation in your note which would be likely to induce the congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and to the principles upon which it has acted in the past.

Creation of Commission.

"The attitude of the president, therefore, is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing some such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. The president is prepared to recommend to congress that it constitute an agency to examine the whole subject.

"As to the suspension of the installment of the British debt due on December 15, which is one of the objectives in your note, no authority lies within the executive to grant such an extension, and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the congress for favorable consideration.

"Such importance is attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payments on December 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

"HENRY L. STIMSON."

To Ambassador Claudel of France:

"Excellency:

"I fully appreciate the importance of the situation presented by the request for an examination of the problem of the intergovernmental debts contained in the memorandum of the French government dated November 10, 1932. The fact that such a suggestion is made by your government in itself makes this a matter meriting the most careful consideration. In a matter of such importance, there must be allowed no opportunity for misunderstanding or failure to reach conclusions satisfactory to both governments and peoples.

"In this connection you will appreciate that your present suggestion goes far beyond anything contemplated or proposed at any time in the past either by President Hoover or by this government. You will also permit me to recall very briefly some of the essential conditions and limitations which would control on the part of this government any new study of the debt question and might affect its results. Not only is there reserved to the congress of the United States the ultimate decision in respect to the funding, refunding or amendment of these intergovernmental obligations under consideration, but from the beginning the congress has itself provided in the past the machinery in the shape of the World War foreign debt commission for the investigation of the facts and for making recommendations upon which such action might be taken. The executive might recommend, but the facts and evidence were submitted to and the decision made by the congress, acting through this machinery.

Separate From Reparations.

"Furthermore, from the time of their creation, under President Wilson, this government has uniformly insisted that in its handling of these obligations running to itself, they must be treated as entirely separate from reparation claims arising out of the war. Its insistence upon this difference is quite natural, in view of its refusal after the war to accept reparations for itself and also in view of the difference of its position as a creditor from that of all other nations. Not only did this government not receive any compensation in the form of a territory, economic privileges or governmental indemnity at the close of the war, but from the fact that it owed no obligations of any kind to others, treatment of the debts and reparations as though they were connected could only operate to the disadvantage of the United States.

"No concession made in respect to a payment owed to it could either in whole or in part be set off or balanced against claims owed by it to any of its creditors. On the contrary, every such concession would result in the inevitable transfer of a tax burden from the taxpayers of some other country to the taxpayers in our own without the possibility of any recoupment from others. The debts owed to the United States thus naturally fell into the category of ordinary debt obligations between individual nations, and were treated as such. The American congress has made, with each of its debtors, settlements which were intended to be and were deemed to be liberal and wholly within the capacity of the debtor to pay without jeopardizing its finances and currency or preventing it from maintaining and, if possible, improving the standard of living of its citizens.

World Problems Increased.

"I appreciate the importance of the step mentioned in your memorandum which has been taken by the governments at Lausanne in respect to the reparations due them from Germany and the possible effect upon those creditor nations of the loss of that source of income. I am not oblivious to the fact, moreover, that the worldwide depression and the concurrent fall of prices has increased the weight of debts in many parts of the world; nor to the fact that the decrease in international trade has increased the difficulties of obtaining foreign exchange. I also recognize the relation which these facts may bear to the process of recovery. On the other hand, it must be remembered that these incidents of the depression have also fallen with great weight upon the American people and the effects upon them directly as taxpayers or otherwise of any modification of an agreement with respect to debts due to this country cannot be disregarded. I assume that it was for the purpose of deliberately and carefully giving due weight to such conflicting elements in the world situation, differing as they would in various countries, that this government adopted the system which I have described. I confess that I cannot see any controlling reasons which would be likely to induce the congress of the United States to act upon the question any differently now from the manner and the principles upon which it has acted in the past. And I believe it would be inadvisable to attempt to enter into discussions on the subject except in that manner and under those principles.

"The attitude of the president therefore is that for any suggested study of intergovernmental financial obligations as now existing, some such agency as I have referred to should be created to consider this question individually with each government as heretofore. As he has several times said publicly, he also believes that some basis might be found for bringing to the American people some adequate compensation in forms other than cash payment. The president is prepared to recommend to congress that it constitute such an agency to examine the whole subject.

Executive Authority Lacking.

"As to the suspension of the installment of the French debt due on December 15, which is requested in your memorandum, no authority lies in the executive to grant such an extension and no facts have been placed in our possession which could be presented to the congress for favorable consideration under the principles to which I have referred. In the memorandum of the French government, reference is made to the action of the conference at Lausanne. It seems to me that the situation which confronted the conference at Lausanne in its consideration of the question of reparations by Germany was quite different from that presented here in that the conference had before it the report of the meetings of experts at Basle.

"Such importance is attached by our government and people to the maintenance of the original agreements in force by the payment on December 15 as to far outweigh any reasons now apparent for its suspension, and by such payments the prospects of a satisfactory approach to the whole question, in my opinion, would be greatly increased.

"Accept, excellency, the renewed assurances of my highest consideration.

"HENRY L. STIMSON."

ROOSEVELT WINS BY WIDE MARGIN

federal house of representatives in districts in which the republicans made a contest.

Congressman Homer C. Parker easily defeated his republican opponent, E. K. Overstreet Jr., 24,429 to 1,726 in the first district. Emmett L. Owen likewise defeated his republican opponent, H. O. Lovvorn in the fourth district by a vote of 24,782 to 20. In the eighth district, Braswell Deen, of Alma, defeated Dr. H. J. Carswell, republican, of Waycross, 20,021 to 912. In the ninth district Congressman John S. Wood defeated J. M. Johnson, republican, and L. A. Lewis, prohibitionist, polling 24,673 to 5,898 for Johnson and 44 for Lewis.

In the seventh district Congressman M. C. Tarver was victorious over Mrs. Regina Rambo Benson, running as an independent, 24,689 to 4,295.

Complete returns on the vote on the eight amendments submitted in the general election also were compiled Friday by Secretary of State John B. Wilson and certified to Governor Russell.

The first amendment providing for the January inaugural of the governor and installation of other state officers together with the convening of the legislature for organization purposes was approved by a vote of 155,536 to 13,373.

The second amendment providing for the qualification of a voter by payment of his poll tax only was approved by a vote of 145,387 to 23,842.

The third amendment authorizing school boards to contract for education, transportation and care of children of school age was approved by a vote of 112,256 to 32,109.

The fourth amendment to classify intangible properties for taxation was defeated by a vote of 118,062 to 48,238.

The fifth amendment to create a new senatorial district composed of the counties of Cook, Berrien and Lanier also was defeated by a vote of 79,540 to 56,879.

The sixth amendment authorizing consolidation of school districts was approved by a vote of 97,270 to 41,361.

The seventh amendment to abolish justice of the peace courts in Richmond county was approved by a vote of 91,399.

The eighth amendment to provide for repayment of county highway funds was approved by a vote of 146,666 to 24,982.

The total vote was estimated at about 255,000.

Tech Slight Favorite Over Georgia in Annual Game Here Today

AUBURN NEEDED HOME IN CITY, BELL BELIEVES

Says Greater Publicity Would Have Brought Recognition.

By Brian Bell.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—If Alabama Polytechnic Institute had been fortunate enough to have a home in a big city instead of the village of Auburn, the Plainsmen would have received columns of publicity during the football season now drawing to a close.

The southern newspapers, of course, have given the Tigers great credit for their sensational climb, but the world at large does not know as much about Auburn as it did of Tulane, for instance, at this time last season, or Alabama in 1930, or Georgia Tech before that.

The eleven which seems well on its way to a Southern conference championship, is not big, but it is versatile and spectacular. In every game the attack has been different. The Plainsmen can pass, but when their passing attack is stopped they run the ends with their fast backs and then go into a kicking game, playing for a break, and frequently the break has been forthcoming.

Other than Jimmy Hitchcock, back, and "Gump" Ariail, end, Auburn has no outstanding players, but all are well trained in the fundamentals. A veteran southern official described Hitchcock as the best football player he had watched in 20 years, and the same official said Ariail could do as much with a football as a monkey with a peanut.

FOOTBALL MIRACLE.

Hitchcock is a good passer, excellent kicker, good blocker and once in an open field is a constant touchdown threat.

Chet Wynne and his assistants, Roger Kiley and Sam McAllister, have accomplished a modern football miracle in developing the spectacular team play generated by the 1932 edition of the Plainsmen. Many of the players who have done so well this year were members of a 1930 team that lost almost all its games.

Reports from the old south tell of other good teams in Dixie, but by unanimous consent Auburn's record stands out. Take Vanderbilt. There is a world of talent in Commodores, led by two fine backs in Roberts and Burton, and Gracey, the center, who is one of the star defensive players of the nation.

Tennessee has a great team, but perhaps has had to depend too much on one player, Feathers, a passing, running, kicking back, who is a marked man in every game. However, in spite of the fact the opposition never takes its collective eyes off him, he has gained much yardage during the season.

ZIMMERMAN BRILLIANT.

Zimmerman at Tulane also is watched closely and has found it hard to get away. He has not had as much assistance this season as in other years, but he has been brilliant.

Alabama boasts a big, powerful team, but could use more speed. Johnny Cain, a great back, has suffered from an injured knee and on this account has not been so effective as he might have been in good shape.

Georgia Tech may be the outfit to watch in coming games. Of the ramblin' wreck squad, some 30 players lack experience, and as they find out what football is all about they will be very dangerous.

The Yellow Jackets won a Rose Bowl game from California at Pasadena in 1929 and will play an encore with the same Golden Bears at Berkeley, December 17.

Centenary is another southern team which has done well. The Gentlemen have played only one Southern conference team, but they have made life miserable for the crack teams in Texas, and nosed Louisiana State out by six points.

Bobby To Hunt At Sea Island

SEA ISLAND, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP) Richard J. Reynolds, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; Bobby Jones, Richard Courts and Malon Courts, of Atlanta, will be among the number of prominent sportsmen hunting here during the Thanksgiving week-end, it was announced today at the Sea Island hunting preserve.

Reynolds and the Atlantans are expected to arrive Saturday to hunt turkeys, deer and quail at Cabin Bluff, pheasants and duck at Sapelo and bear in the Okefenokee swamp.

Other Thanksgiving season hunters expected today or later in the week were listed as:

Russell Leonard, president of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company, of Boston; W. J. Vereen, of Moultrie; Dwight Douglas, former Detroit bank president, and Mrs. Douglas; Winship Nunnally and son, Atlanta; S. C. Dobbs, Atlanta, and Preston Arkwright Sr. and his son, Preston Jr.

The largest turkey of the season killed near here was reported as a 21-pound gobbler, bagged by L. A. Cushman, bakery company official, who was a member of a party which also included George Ripley and C. A. Broehman, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Arthur Ballard, of Boston, was the first woman to kill a wild turkey on the preserve this season.

In addition to wild turkey, deer, quail and ducks, marsh hens also are reported plentiful this year. A number of sportsmen are spending their time fishing.

This Prep School Is Coach's Dream

TOPEKA, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Seaman Rural High school has ended the seventh consecutive year without a single defeat on the gridiron.

Out of the 59 games, Seaman won 52 and tied 7. Only 12 points were scored against the school this year, six in 1931 and none in 1930.

Seaman has an enrollment of 300 pupils. The team is coached by Charles Logan, principal of the school and former Washburn College football player.

"BUSTER" MOTT CHICK GALLOWAY

BREAK of the DAY!
By Ralph McGill

'Twas 39 Years Ago, Me Lads, When It All Started.

Thirty-nine years have spun on into that mysterious limbo of past years since the first Georgia and Georgia Tech football teams took the field against each other.

That was five years before Dewey sailed into Manila harbor and silenced the shore forts while his sailors shouted "Remember the Maine!"

They were a bit fearful then about the sanity of any man who insisted that some day man would be able to fly about the sky.

The ice man ruled supreme in his field with no thought of electrical or gas competition.

Wireless and radio were still in the minds of a couple of scientists named Guglielmo Marconi and Lee DeForest.

The idea that an internal combustion gasoline engine might fit into an automobile was being booted about.

Dinner was at 12 o'clock noon and supper was at 6 o'clock. The sandwich lunch was unheard of.

The bustle was in style. And tights, speeding buggies, "scorchers" on bicycles were alarming the town council. A girl who used rouge or who wore bobbed hair was viewed with suspicion.

The Tech and Georgia teams wore, in the good year 1893, curious uniforms and topped off a heavy set of hair with a rugby cap.

Had someone told them they were inaugurating a game which would endure through the ages and 29 years later attract a crowd of near 30,000, they would have shrieked with laughter.

The family entrance to the corner saloon was just around the corner. Today the door is gone but an elusive thing called Prosperity is lurking around the corner. And the swinging door may be returned to get back Prosperity. Maybe that's what Prosperity is waiting for.

1893—less than a thousand on hand to see the game—and the score Tech, 26, and Georgia, 5.

1932—a crowd of 30,000 if the day is clear—and the score one that makes even the admitted experts tremble.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE.

I wonder why they always look so much like the kids they are just before the games?

It was Friday afternoon at the Flats—and a pouring rain outside. The Georgia Tech team, which meets Georgia this afternoon in the greatest southern football game of the day, was gathered in the lecture room beneath the stands.

The four-year scrubs were receiving some trophies from Coach W. A. Alexander. The varsity, against whom the scrubs have flung themselves in preparation for games, was looking on. When the critics of the game say that the boys do not like football I wonder what they think about the scrubs who play it year after year when they know they will never make the team?

I watched "Taxi" Morton take his little piece of carved gold, a Tech "T," and hold it in his big hands while he looked at it.

Here was a boy who had driven cabs, worked as a laborer during the summer, taken any job available in order to go to college. There was no varsity football in him. And he knew it. But for four years he had been out there playing football. And when he took the gold "T" in his hands and looked at it—I watched his face—and I think that little "T" and the words of his coach was payment enough for the four years.

And there were others. The varsity applauded—the varsity that has played the games and taken the defeats and the victories.

"It's the last time we'll all be together for some time," said Coach Alexander.

And there was an electric tremor in the air. And a silence.

ZAHARIAS SHOWS GREAT PROMISE

Dick Daviscourt, the California grizzly, who makes a specialty of squelching the ambitions of the younger brigade of wrestlers, faces an unusually stiff assignment in this line at the auditorium next Wednesday night.

George Zaharias, the massive Greek from Pueblo, Col., will be Dick's opponent in the featured two-hour match on Henry Weber's weekly card and he is a dangerous man, as the fans here well know. About a year ago the Greek fell a victim to Daviscourt's bruising tactics here and he has never forgotten, nor forgiven that beating. Wednesday he will be out to even the score.

Daviscourt will be up against a younger and heavier man, but the veteran Californian, who knows about everything there is to know about the mat game, feels he can pin Zaharias just as easily as he did a year ago. There is no doubt the match will set a new high for roughing. Both men are expert in the use of the floating elbow, the wandering knee and similar tactics.

Excitement aplenty for the fans and a hard night's work for the referee seem just ahead. It is likely most of the crowd will be pulling for Daviscourt to win. Some years ago Dick was cordially disliked for his rough style of grappling, but sentiment lately has undergone a change. Zaharias is fully as unpopular now as Daviscourt was in the past.

A one-hour semi-windup which promises well has been arranged for Wednesday, bringing together Joe Devito, Italian flash, and Pat O'Shocker, the red-headed Irishman from Salt Lake City. Devito has become quite a favorite here through his impressive work in defeating Floyd Marshall and Jack Shearit.

In order to cover the expense of arranging such attractions on the coming card, prices of ringside, box and dress-circle seats have been advanced to 90 cents, plus city and federal taxes. Tickets are on sale at the Miner & Carter Drug Company and the Piedmont Hatters.

DOTHAN HIGH WINS.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Nov. 25.—Dothan High outclassed Bainbridge [illegible] today and won, 34 to 9, by scoring five touchdowns. Riley brothers, in Dothan backfield, and Sellers, at end, were Dothans' best. For Bainbridge, Tyson, at tackle, and Whitesell and Johnson, in backfield, were stars.

'Old Tornado' Has First Reunion at Athletic Club

By Jimmy Jones.

They were all there but one.

The 1917 football team of Georgia Tech, the first to be christened the Golden Tornado and considered by many to have been Tech's greatest team, held its first reunion last night at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

John W. Heisman, their white-haired, 63-year-old coach, met with them there at a banquet. To the writer, who was so fortunate as to be the only newspaperman present, it was the most remarkable banquet ever held. And what was equally remarkable was that Everett Strupper, their great halfback, was able to assemble the team, virtually intact, from the four corners of the nation. He did this through the means of a chain letter, which they read and passed on.

When time came for starting the banquet, there they were, practically to a man, seated about the long table—the team as it lined up for its greatest victories over Pennsylvania—Coach Heisman's alma mater—and the Carlisle Indians.

On one side sat Judy Harlan, now a businessman of Chicago, his hair showing streaks of gray but still possessed of the powerful, athletic build that made the great fullback that he was. Facing him, across the table, was Joe Guyon, the Indian, wide of smile and guttural of tone. Guyon's hair was jet black, a mark of his race that time does not alter.

THE VACANT CHAIR.

The only vacant chair was that of "Shorty" Guill, end, who was killed in an automobile wreck not long ago.

It was an assemblage of the great—the million dollar team. Theirs was not a question of winning, but by what score. Pennsylvania, 41 to 0; Auburn, 68 to 7; Vandy, 83-0.

Big Six Carpenter, captain of the '17 team, made a great speech, introducing Coach Heisman. Every man rose to his feet to cheer when that scholarly gentleman got up to address them. They had called him the greatest coach of his time and for all time.

Heisman's talk was pithy and to the point. He injected into his speech some of his famous adjectives. They were delightful, as was his ever-meticulous diction. He told "his boys" that he had ridden 800 miles to see them, to be at this reunion.

"Not as a coach, boys, but as a comrade," he said. Heisman then told them that although threescore years old, football had kept him young.

"Keep close to the game as long as you can, for it will keep you all young," he advised them. He proved his statement by asserting that he played 18 holes of golf a few days ago and wasn't even tired. He concluded by thanking the old players for their loyalty, which, he told them, was not only the rarest but the greatest of human traits.

"Moon" Ducote, the old Auburn star halfback and an official in today's game, happened along and was warmly welcomed. Many of them had played against "Moon" and they delighted in relating that "Chief" Guyon was the only man who ever caught him from behind. The Indian smiled broadly at this. Ducote joined heartily in the reunion.

ALEX TALLIES.

About this time Coach W. A. Alexander, who had been attending a reunion of the Tech class of 1912 next door, and, incidentally, visiting another Tech meetings—that of the first "sub freshman" class—came into the room. He made a typical Alexander talk, in which he asserted that the Tech teams of 1917, 1920 and 1928 were generally conceded to be the school's greatest. He received a good-natured challenge from the men of '17 on this. In fact, the way the boys talked, they were almost ready to go out and play the game against Georgia themselves.

By unanimous vote, the players nominated Joe Guyon, who came down from Louisville, Ky., where he coaches St. Xavier High, as the greatest blocking back of all time. Judy Harlan came in for his share of praise as a great all-around fullback and Strupper as the greatest running halfback. Heisman, in his speech,

Tennessee Captain Picks All-Southern

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Captain Malcolm Aitken, of Tennessee, believes he is surpassed by at least two other southern tackles, or his modesty got the best of him when he picked an All-Southern conference team.

Aitken's selections, published today by the Evening Appeal are: Leydendecker, of Vanderbilt, and Crawford, of Duke, tackles; Rayburn, Tennessee, and Airail, Auburn, ends; Hupke, Alabama, and Scafide, Tulane, guards; Gracey, Vanderbilt, center; Hitchcock, Auburn, quarterback; Zimmerman, Tulane, right half; Feathers, Tennessee, left half, and Roberts, Vanderbilt, fullback. Cain, Alabama, back, was added to the selections for good measure.

COACHING CHANGE.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Herbert O. "Fritz" Crisler, who came to Princeton as head football coach this year, was appointed today to succeed Albert Wittmer as head coach of Princeton basketball. Wittmer resigned because of illness after holding the coaching post for nine years. In announcing Wittmer's resignation, Thurston J. Davies, supervisor of sports, praised his work and expressed regret that he could not continue.

N.G.I.C. To Meet Tonight at A.A.C.

Election of officers, awarding the 1932 football championship and a discussion of the basketball season will feature a meeting of the North Georgia Interscholastic conference at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon in Joe Bean's office at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Every member of the conference is urged to have a representative, as it will be one of the most important meetings that the conference has held in more than a year.

ARMY DOUBTFUL FOR BOWL GAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Although declining to make a statement in the absence of any official action so far on the subject, West Point athletic authorities, it was indicated today, will not consider an invitation to send Army's football team to Pasadena for the Tournament of Roses game, January 2, regardless of the outcome of the battle with Notre Dame tomorrow.

The practical reasons against any post-season activity, from Army's viewpoint include the lateness of its season, closing December 3, with the Navy game, the team examinations starting immediately afterward and the opening of military classes for the new year on January 3.

It is understood Army, for similar reasons rejected an invitation to play Southern California in the Rose Bowl classic last winter. Tulane was the final choice.

Army's one and only visit to the far west was to play Stanford at Palo Alto in 1929. As a result of the scholastic burden this put on the cadet players, Army officials declared then it was the last post-season trip of such length that they would ever sanction.

East Lake Flashes Beat Jonesboro, 7-0

A 97-yard drive to a touchdown in the closing minutes of play enabled the East Lake Flashes to defeat the Jonesboro Reds, 7 to 0, Friday morning on the Rose Bowl field, at Tech.

Starting on their own three-yard line with less than two minutes to play, the Flashes smashed the line and skirted the ends in rapid succession to score. Andye King broke around end for the final 40 yards for the touchdown.

Captain Reuben Mundy was the outstanding player for the Jonesboro Midgets.

A return game will be played in Jonesboro within the next few weeks.

Brown Publication Doesn's Want Team To Play 'Animals'

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Asserting that Brown University men "don't want their teams to play animals," an article in The Brown Jug, student publications, today inferentially charged that Holy Cross football players were "just bum sports and dirty players" and demanded the Worcester College be dropped from Brown's schedule.

The publication, a humorous magazine, based its accusation on the "teeth-marked" arms of Gammino, Brown fullback, and bruises on the bodies of players in the line. Holy Cross was defeated by Brown November 5, a game which was followed several days later by suspension of Head Coach Captain John J. McEwan, of Holy Cross.

Under the caption, "Just Bum Sports," the magazine said:

"After the Holy Cross game our athletic supervisors must see a duty to be performed immediately. Holy Cross must never be played again by a Brown football club! Why? Well, Gammino's teeth-marked arms and the red marks on the bodies of the linemen from having their skins twisted is reason enough! Brown men don't want their teams to play animals! Just bum sports and dirty players."

IN MOST GAMES.

Rabbit Maranville, 40-year-old second baseman who was playing in the big leagues in 1912, played more games than any other member of the Boston Braves in the 1932 season.

25,000 EXPECTED TO SEE BATTLE AT GRANT FIELD

Roosevelt's Family To See Game; Starts at 2 O'Clock.

By Jimmy Jones.

Grant field, that Bannockburn where countless great football skirmishes have been fought, again becomes the focal point of those superlative warriors of the gridiron, namely the Georgia Bulldogs and the Georgia Tech Engineers, this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In this matchless setting where precedent counts for nothing and champions have been scuttled, the eternal rivalry of these two great state institutions finds expression in their twenty-eighth game since athletic relations were started back in 1892.

A week of unruly weather promised to behave decently enough to allow for a forecast of "clear and colder" today. If this comes true Tech officials are ready to predict a crowd ranging from 25,000 to 30,000 for the occasion.

PACKS COLOR WALLOP.

Certainly no Tech-Georgia crowd of the past will match that of today from a standpoint of lustre and personal appeal. It packs a color wallop.

There will be a regular hegira of famous coaches to the Flats, since most of the south's teams concluded their schedules on Thanksgiving. They will be headed by three of their most illustrious teachers in Amos Alonzo Stagg, recently retired after 41 years of service at the University of Chicago; John W. Heisman, Tech's peerless leader of the halcyon days prior to 1920 and Dan McGugin, just rounding out his twenty-eighth year as coach at Vanderbilt.

And as if this were not an adequate assemblage in itself to pique the national curiosity, there is the party of President-elect Roosevelt driving up from Warm Springs to sit in a special section reserved by Senator John S. Cohen. Although Mr. Roosevelt himself will not be along, his family will be well represented by Mrs. Roosevelt and their attractive daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, not to mention several members of the new president's entourage and a bevy of newspapermen.

MATCHLESS COLOR.

A touch of matchless local color will be found in a solid representation of the noted Barron family of Tech football fame, which will have a special box reserved for its members. They are coming to watch Pat Barron, last of the line, in his final game for Tech on Georgia soil. The incomparable David Irenus Barron and his scarcely less noted brother, Carter, will be there with their wives and relations.

With this convergence of celebrities upon Atlanta, a veritable round of pre-game festivities have already been held, not to mention the luncheon of Georgia Tech alumni today at noon over which Bobby Jones will preside. Last night, there was a reunion of the Tech class of 1912, honoring John W. Heisman and Stagg, at the athletic club, and the University of Georgia alumni, not to be outdone, gave a banquet in honor of their coaches at the Henry Grady hotel.

TECH SPONSORS.

A notable addition to the good looks of the assemblage, which never fails to attract the most beauteous girls of Georgia society, will be the Tech sponsors, who are Misses Louisa Robert, star Olympic swimmer and now a student at Agnes Scott; Mary Cobb Hunnicutt and Edith Davis. Georgia's sponsors were not announced as this was written, but the Red and Black never fails to pick some charming ones.

Now that these details have been discussed at length, the remainder of the story must deal with the game itself.

Georgia Tech, which looked extremely good for its 6-0 victory over Alabama in view of that team's crushing 20-0 triumph over Vanderbilt Thursday, is the slight favorite of the boys who make the wagers. Georgia's youthful team, however, is given plenty of credit for its scoring power, which has not been throttled by any opponent to date, including Tulane, N. Y. U. and Auburn. The Bulldogs are in a great spot to pull a surprise.

Georgia scouts have shadowed the Tech team tirelessly since the early days of Indian summer. Harry Mehre even had a scout at the Kentucky game early in October. It stands to reason that the Bulldogs are thoroughly familiar with Tech's style of play and should put up a magnificent stand.

NO GAUGE.

If history is to be relied upon, there is no way of gauging the game's outcome. There was the game of 1927 when that shrewd tactician, W. A. Alexander, trotted out a team that spoiled Georgia's great season with a 12-0 defeat. Tech won again in 1928. Since that time Georgia has been a consistent conqueror, having beaten the Jackets in 1929, 1930 and 1931. A check of the records show that out of the 27 games played between the two teams, omitting a pair of scoreless ties, Georgia has won 13 times and Georgia Tech 12 times. That shows how close has been the jousting of the two teams.

If Georgia could win that game today, all memories of past defeats encountered by the team during this season would be wiped out. That is the great incentive to spur the Bulldogs on. Coach Alexander, who contrived masterful defenses against Alabama and Florida, will find his genius put to the test in stopping Georgia's array of speedy, elusive backfield men.

Coach Alexander was undecided about his starting lineup last night. He preferred to leave that enshrouded in mystery, just as he did for the Alabama game when he startled everyone by opening the game with his second team and leaving it in there to play almost the entire game. Pre-game prognosticators, however, were inclined to believe that Coach "Aleck" would give sentiment a play and start his "senior" team. This includes several players who are winding up their careers at the flats.

FINISH UP.

The Jackets finished practicing in a pelting rain yesterday. They were in a jovial mood after a pep talk

Tigers Given Good Chance To Beat Wave in Annual Game.

By Dillon Graham,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Tulane University, weakened by injuries and illness of more than half its squad, today faces the prospect of bowing to Louisiana State University for the first time since 1926.

Not since the Baton Rouge Tigers won, 6 to 0, six years ago has Tulane lost to its state rival in their traditional November game. These elevens played a scoreless tie in 1928.

A victory for Louisiana State will allow the Tigers to finish their four-game Southern conference schedule without defeat. This colorful clash tops a meager program of three loop games. The others bring together Georgia and Georgia Tech at Atlanta and Washington and Lee and Duke at Durham, N. C.

An influenza epidemic ravaged the Green squad this week and led Tulane authorities to suggest a postponement of the game. Louisiana would not agree although Tulane said it virtually would have to use a third-string eleven and that those out of play included "all centers, many first-team linemen and all first-string backs except quarterbacks."

Don Zimmerman, the spearhead of Tulane's attack this season and one of the nation's star halfbacks, is among those sick. There was but a slight probability he would play, Tulane coaches said.

Francis Payne, Tulane's regular fullback, who suffered a broken collarbone in the Georgia game some time ago, has been working hard recently and will be used in the game against L. S. U., in case of necessity.

Louisiana's team was reported in excellent shape for its final game of Coach Lawrence "Biff" Jones' first campaign there.

Georgia and Georgia Tech, teams that have been beaten often this year but on occasion have shown real brilliance, come to grips in their twenty-eighth annual meeting with Tech accorded an excellent chance of victory for the first time since 1928.

Duke was figured too strong for Washington and Lee. The Blue Devils have beaten the Generals for the past two years.

RACING.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Happy Warrior, 3-year-old son of Man o' War, captured the feature purse of $600 in the fifth race at Jefferson park today by nosing out Anne L. The winner paid $35.40 on $2 tickets, $16 to place and $7.60 to show.

Here's a Boys' High Touchdown

Dick Beard, Boys' High fullback, as he plunged through center and fell on his back to score the Purples' first touchdown Thursday against Andrew Jackson High, at Jacksonville, Fla. Boys' High defeated the Jacksonville eleven, 33 to 0, for the sixth straight win of the season. Only two points have been scored against Boys' High this season.

Hitchcock, Gracey On All-American

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP) Parke H. Davis, for many years the national collegiate statistician and gridiron historian, today made public his All-America selections for this year. He chose four players each from the east and middle west, two from the south and one from the far west.

The selections follow:

Center—Pete Gracey, Vanderbilt.

Quarterback—Harry Newman, Michigan.

Halfbacks—James Hitchcock, Auburn, and Robert Lassiter, Yale.

Fullback—George Melinkovich, Notre Dame.

COLORED TEAMS TO PLAY TODAY

A double-header attraction will be offered at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park when Morehouse and Fisk, of Nashville, Tenn., meet in football and soccer. The soccer game will be played between the halves and is the first contest to be scheduled here as a major event.

The Fisk team arrived this morning and went directly to the Baptist institution, where they will stay during their visit here. A large following of students and alumni accompanied the team here. Thirty-three players, a team physician and two coaches made up the party.

Fisk University is one of the unbeaten teams of the colored conference. This will be the last scheduled game here among colored teams and a large crowd is expected to see the curtain fall on the 1932 season.

Extensive drilling throughout the week has put the entire Maroon squad on edge for this game. The fine showing which Morehouse made against Clark last Saturday gives Morehouse a fighting chance to win this contest.

Captain Smith, former All-American center, who has been playing fullback for Morehouse up until the Clark game, proved to be more effective in the line and it is expected that this added strength to the forward wall will help the Tigers considerably in their bid to turn back their old rivals.

TEAM NEEDED.

One more team is needed for the Civic Basketball league which meets Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Seven teams are all ready to start the season and one more is needed to fill out the league.

PREP ELEVENS CLASH FRIDAY

By Roy White.

Boys' High, G. M. A. and Tech High football teams returned to the city Friday from Thanksgiving games away from home, but will wait until Monday afternoon to begin preparations for next week's games.

Boys' High defeated Andrew Jackson, 33 to 0, at Jacksonville for their sixth victory of the season in which the opposition has failed to cross the Purples' goal.

G. M. A. and Tech High did not fare as well as Boys' High against out-of-town opposition. Both teams were beaten by the same score, 19-0. G. M. A. lost to Lanier High in Macon and Tech High ran into a defeat against a strong Miami High eleven at Miami.

Tech High and Boys' High Friday night will fight for the city championship, a possible chance to go to Houston, Texas, in a charity game New Year's Day, and the right to represent the northern division in the play-off for the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association championship.

And what a climax to the Atlanta prep season, two title chances and a possible trip at stake. Never before have the teams come down the home stretch with so much at stake, and it all will depend on the outcome of Friday's game.

Aside from the title chances it will be another of those Tech High-Boys' High scraps.

Boys' High has scored 109 points against only two for the opponents, in eight games, including the Savannah contest, which was ruled a forfeit for Savannah and later thrown out of the records.

Tech High has won six and lost four games. The Smithies have scored 142 points against 104 for the opposition and suffered defeat by Spartanburg, Charlotte, Gordon Institute and Miami.

G. M. A. closed its regular season at Macon. The Cadets have won three and lost five games for one of their most unsuccessful years. The Cadets started strong but suffered injuries early in the season and did not get going again until a couple of weeks ago.

Albany Indians Are Claiming Title

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Albany High School Indians claimed the football championship of the Southwest Georgia High School Athletic Association today, following a 13-to-7 win over Thomasville in the latter city yesterday afternoon.

The Indians are unbeaten and untied, having registered wins over Sylvester, Americus, Shellman, Tifton, Dawson, Moultrie, Bainbridge and Thomasville. They close the season next Friday with Valdosta, a nonconference foe.

SANFORD HEADS RED AND BLACK ALUMNI FOR '33

Coach Alonzo Stagg Is Guest at Annual Banquet Here.

By Ralph McGill.

Homer R. Sanford, Atlanta businessman and son of Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, was Friday night elected president of the Atlanta Alumni Association for the ensuing year.

The election followed a delightful program at the annual banquet held in honor of the football coaches. The banquet, at the Henry Grady hotel, was honored with the presence of Alonzo Stagg, for 41 years head coach at the University of Chicago.

Stagg, who is in the south to witness some southern football, will see the Tech-Georgia game this afternoon.

"THE OLD MAN."

H. J. Stegeman, director of athletics at Georgia and a former star athlete at Chicago under Stagg, told of the esteem in which "The Old Man" is held.

"It is traditional at Chicago," said Stegeman, "that Stagg never uttered a profane word. But a German professor there denies this. He said that on the morning of a Michigan game he found Stagg standing on the football field in the pouring rain. Stagg that year was depending almost entirely on speed.

"The German professor said that he walked up to Mr. Stagg and said, 'Mr. Stagg, isn't this h——?'

"'Yes, sir,' said Stagg.

"And that," said Stegeman, "is the nearest he ever came to breaking the old tradition."

Harry Mehre, head coach, was present with his assistants, Ted Twomey, Johnny Broadnax, Chick Shiver and Weems Baskin. Rex. Enright, backfield coach, was slightly ill with influenza and could not attend. He will be at the game today, however.

Harold Hirsch served as toastmaster. Dr. W. D. Hooper and Dr. S. V. Sanford were both delightful speakers on the program.

INSPIRING TALK.

Dr. Sanford had just returned from the 100th anniversary of New York University and an attendant convention of college presidents and his talk was particularly inspiring.

Officers elected with Sanford were Pope Brock, vice president; Frank Carter, vice president; Julian Robinson, secretary, and Frank Troutman, treasurer.

CLEMSON BOYS WILL BE BOYS

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 25.—Clemson College today voluntarily agreed to pay for damage done by its students before and after yesterday's Clemson-Furman football game and apologized to Greenville, Furman University and local merchants for the cadet antics.

City officials estimated $400 damage had been done by Clemson cadets during the day. Furman defeated Clemson, 7 to 0, to win the state championship.

Authorities said more than 400 electric light bulbs had been removed from Christmas trees placed on Main street as part of the city's Yuletide decorations; that 150 cadets had rushed a theater and witnessed the show free; that a Furman pennant had been torn to shreds at another theater and that a negro had been forced to march down the street wearing a Furman freshman cap.

Clemson Denies Apology, Payment.

CLEMSON COLLEGE, S. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Clemson College today denied that an apology had been made or that the college had agreed to pay for damage allegedly done by cadets attending the Furman-Clemson football game in Greenville yesterday.

"No action has been taken here by the student body or college officials regarding yesterday's events in Greenville,' a statement issued through Clemson's publicity bureau said.

Basketball Is Here; Twin Bill Is Divided

CONYERS, Ga., Nov. 25.—The Conyers High school basketball teams opened their season here last night by dividing with Covington. The local girls, unofficial champions of the fifth district, won, 18 to 7, while the Covington boys won a highly exciting game, 20 to 19.

THE SPORTLIGHT

The Traditional Spirit.

There are times when it takes something more than a matter of tradition to build up a football series into a flashy pageant which catches and holds attention.

For example, there is the Army-Notre Dame meeting, which has now become one of the leading football fixtures of the year, one of the big games of any season. This is largely due to the fact that Army and Notre Dame, regardless of what may have happened earlier in the fall, have nearly always put on one of those stirring dramas that are full of thrills.

You can go back to the days of Rockne and Dorais—to Eichenlaub and Gipp.

I still recall the great duel between Gipp and French, where both ran wild all afternoon.

There is also a keen remembrance of the days when the Four Horsemen rode against the Army in two great games. In each case Notre Dame was the big favorite, but in each case Notre Dame barely won.

Talk to any old Notre Dame player and he will tell you the Army in any year strikes with unexpected force, no matter what its football record for the season has been. That was true last fall when a keyed-up Army team swarmed all over a strong South Bend contingent and where for the first time in his career Marchy Schwartz found himself resting on the back of his neck most of the afternoon.

Today's Meeting.

It so happens that Army and Notre Dame find themselves today with more than a normal supply of manpower—with two of the strong teams of the country.

Both lost to Pitt's strong Panthers in game which might have gone either way, a turn that football often has in modern days where killing passes may either just click or just fail, and where a ball game may ride one way or another by a matter of inches, by less than a span.

The spirit of Army-Notre Dame meetings always rises to heights that few other games can show, and for this reason the guessing is always likely to go astray.

The Strongest Teams.

The argument as to the strongest teams in each section, or in the country at large, is keener than ever this waning autumn.

In the east the debate is among followers of Colgate, Army and Pitt. In the midwest it is between supporters of Michigan and Purdue, with Wisconsin also having a word to say after a fine record.

In the south, Tennessee followers claim at least equal strength with Auburn. There isn't much debate about T. C. U. in the southwest, Nebraska in the Big Six and Southern California on the coast. They stand out in their own domains.

What about the strongest team in the east, where there is a three-cornered claim?

Suppose Army and Pitt were to meet again—Army and Colgate—Colgate and Pitt?

There is a chance that Army and Pitt may have an edge in man power, but I haven't seen a team in years which carried so many weapons in attack as Colgate showed against Brown.

It was the most versatile and bewildering display of speed and power that any gridiron has seen in a long time.

Colgate not only had an amazing variety of assaulting weapons, but Colgate also was drilled to use these weapons almost without a flaw. You saw here the perfect example of team play, of 11 men working as a unit, where almost every assignment was carried out.

Even the strongest supporters of Army and Pitt were willing to admit they had no deep yearning to bet a lot of money that either could beat the Red Raiders, after watching Colgate rip and tear and pass its way through and over a good Brown team, which fought back with everything it had to give.

An Unsettled Argument.

These are arguments which will never be settled. Army and Pitt will not be thrown against Colgate this fall. Michigan and Purdue will not meet. Neither will Auburn and Tennessee.

In spite of Michigan's fine record in the midwest, at least three conference coaches have picked Purdue as the strongest team in that sector. Two of them pick Purdue as the strongest team in the country, with more assaulting speed and power than any other squad can show.

These are all arguments which will add to winter's conversational flow as the debate gathers force after all returns are in.

Even at this late date the Rose Bowl round-up still hangs in the air. There is a general feeling that Pitt will have to beat Stanford decisively, more decisively than Southern California did, to get the assignment over Colgate. This is largely due to Pitt's almost complete annihilation some time back when a strong Panther team, with Parkinson, Uansa, Montgomery, Donchess and others, was completely overwhelmed on the coast.

At any rate, this Rose Bowl argument adds still greater interest to the Pittsburgh-Stanford game this afternoon. On the season's showing the Panther should be a heavy favorite. But Pop Warner's late November record is still remembered. A Warner team in October and a Warner team in late November are often two entirely different raiding parties.

You might think that a team which hadn't lost a game from a hard schedule, meeting a team which hadn't won a big game, would be an odds-on to gallop home. But two strong Army and Dartmouth teams still remember what happened in four Stanford contests when Stanford had set no western trail on fire before moving against the east.

CARNERA STUDIES.

Howell Is Star On 20th Birthday

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Here's how Millard Howell, Alabama's newest football star, celebrated his 20th birthday yesterday playing against Vanderbilt.

Gained a total of 58 yards by rushing.

Was on the heaving end of a touchdown pass.

Punted for an average of 44 yards.

VANDY MISSED STAR PLAYERS IN 'BAMA GAME

Commodores Are Sluggish as Red Regiment Regains Old Power.

By Dan E. McGugin,
Head Football Coach, Vanderbilt University.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 24.—In the finale of southern football, Vanderbilt lost decisively, 20-0, to an Alabama football team which was truly great.

Cain, slowed up some from his injury, was almost his old-time self. He is a great player and, just as important, a great leader. Howell punted and ran brilliantly.

Alabama had a great rush line and was good in all departments—charging, blocking, tackling, punting—in fact, in all things which make up a fine team, including a powerful line.

Vanderbilt looked like a third-rate team in this contest, being very poor at everything. The squad has had a long, hard schedule, with every game a taxing one. It missed Gracey, and lost Suhrheinrich and Henderson and a number of others during the game with severe injuries.

The truth is, Vanderbilt was worn out and stale. The coaches knew it before the game but were powerless to remedy these things.

Vanderbilt had the same trouble today from which Brown doubtless suffered in losing to a fine Colgate squad after a string of victories all season.

NEW CONSTITUTION URGED FOR STATE

Peach Representative Suggests Plan for Revision of Georgia Basic Law.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A constitutional amendment authorizing the governor to call state and superior judges and other officials together to revise the constitution and civil and criminal codes was advocated today by E. Leroy Fagan, state representative from Peach county.

The amendment would authorize the governor to call together the judges of the supreme court, court of appeals and superior courts, and the secretary of state, comptroller-general and attorney-general to revise the constitution.

Mr. Fagan said he believed that "reorganization of the state government, tax revision, etc., could best be obtained through this method."

He said he favored rigid economy in all branches of government, and is supporting E. M. Davis, representative from Mitchell county, for speaker of the house.

Mr. Fagan, who is entering upon his third term as representative of Peach county, the last two times being elected without opposition, says he has attended every session and voted on every measure that came up since he has been a member of the house, and never missed a roll call.

REVISION OF TAX SYSTEM URGENT, SAYS SENATOR SISK

ELBERTON, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A retail sales tax to replace the ad valorem or property tax for state purposes was advocated today by J. T. Sisk, Elberton, lawyer and state senator-elect from the thirtieth district.

"The paramount problem confronting Georgia is a complete revision of our present tax system together with a reorganization of the state government with a view to decreasing expenditures," he said.

"The ad valorem tax for state purposes should be eliminated, and in my judgment a retail sales tax for that purpose, to take effect at the time the federal sales tax ends, would be the solution.

"In addition to this, the income tax laws should be extended, the rates raised in the higher brackets and the exemptions lowered. The latest figures I have show that retail sales in Georgia amount to approximately $629,000,000 and a small levy on this amount would raise an amount equal to our present ad valorem tax revenue. There are many arguments in favor of this which I have not the time or space to set forth, and it has fewer defects than any plan with which I am familiar.

"There should be a systematic reorganization of the state government. The reorganization bill passed in the 1930 session of the general assembly was nothing more than a political gesture and accomplished nothing but a transposition of clerical forces and eliminated practically nothing."

FARMER OF SPALDING DIES OF SHOT WOUNDS

GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—E. E. Imes, Spalding county farmer living near Vaughn, died today of bullet wounds which authorities said were fired apparently by Mrs. Imes. Imes died in a local hospital to which he had been removed from his home, about 10 miles from Griffin. He was shot last light.

The woman was not arrested but officers said they were making an investigation of the affair and that Mrs. Imes had told them her husband had come home intoxicated, threatened her and was shot.

The couple have seven children and have resided at Vaughn for sometime. There were no witnesses, officers said, except the children.

KREISLER DELIGHTS AUDIENCE AT MACON

MACON, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Fritz Kreisler, world-famous violinist, played to a warmly approving holiday audience here Thursday night. Many persons from middle Georgia, including delegations from Wesleyan and G. S. C. W., who came here on special trains, heard the violinist in the Macon auditorium.

After the long Kreutzer Sonata by Beethoven, show piece of the performance, and Mozart's Concerto No. 3, Kreisler played a group of selections by Ravel, Debussy and several of his own compositions. The applauding audience brought him back for many encores. He was accompanied by Carl Lamson, who has been his pianist for years.

GRADUATE NURSES TO MEET IN MACON

MACON, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—More than a hundred graduates of the Macon Hospital nurses' training school will meet heretomorrow for their first annual reunion.

Among those expected is Miss Mary Campbell, who graduated in 1904 and is believed the oldest graduate of the school. Miss Margaret C. Hardeman is president of the alumnae group.

TENNESSEEAN SLAYS FRIEND, KILLS SELF

WOODBURY, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A friendly greeting was answered with pistol shots here last night as Orville Conley, 20, shot and killed his chum and college roommate, Brown Ramsey Smoot, 20, and then fatally wounded himself.

Conley approached the automobile in which Smoot was sitting with Miss Frances Bramen, friend of both youths, and another couple on the courthouse square about 9 p. m.

"How are you, Conley?" Smoot greeted him.

Conley did not reply, but drew a pistol and pointed it at Smoot. Miss Bramen seized the weapon as Conley started shooting. One bullet went wild, two struck Miss Bramen in the arm and throat and the fourth struck Smoot in the head, killing him instantly.

Conley then fired a bullet into his own brain and died a few minutes later.

Georgian Dies on Old Home Place Owned by Family Over Century

DAWSON, Ga., Nov. 25.—Obediah Pierce Christie, 48, well-known and esteemed Terrell countian, died today at his home in the northwestern part of the county about five miles west of Parrott.

Mr. Christie died in the same house in which his grandfather, Benjamin Gause Christie, and his father, David Kaigler Christie Sr., died. The old home place had been in possession of the Christie family for more than a hundred years. It was on this plantation that the Evans Potash Works, which made explosives during the Confederate War, were located.

Mr. Christie, a son of the late David Kaigler and Ida Whaley Christie, was born at the old home place in April, 1882. He located with his parents in Dawson when a lad and received his education in the Dawson schools. Upon completion of his school work he became a member of the Dawson fire department and served in this capacity for about six years, after which he engaged in farming on the old Christie home place.

He had been a member of the Methodist church since boyhood and for a number of years served as superintendent of the Sunday school.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Obie Jewell and Evelyn; four sons, Paul, Herschel, Waddell and Julian; seven sisters, Mrs. C. V. Yeomans and Mrs. L. A. Miazza, Atlanta; Mrs. S. O. Thompson, Newington, Ga.; Mrs. J. S. Plaxco, Augusta; Mrs. R. E. O'Hara, Clearwater, Fla.; Mrs. W. V. Bell, Hawkinsville, and Mrs. Ivey C. Melton, Dawson, and two brothers, Walter E. Christie, of Atlanta, and D. K. Christie, of Dawson.

The funeral will be held at the Pierce Chapel Methodist church, near Parrott, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. W. Hill, pastor, will conduct the services and interment will be in Cedarhill cemetery in Dawson.

300 Descendants Left As Former Slave Dies

WOODLAND, Ga., Nov. 25.—Ann Barron, an ex-slave, 101 years old, died here early Wednesday morning and was buried at Owens cemetery Thursday. Aunt Ann, as she was known by both whites and negroes, was married to Charles Barron, who survives her, before the Civil War and has two daughters living who are 80 years old. She formerly belonged to the Woodall family here and there is little doubt about her being a century old.

Aunt Ann leaves more than 300 descendants, and until she died there were six generations living. A few years ago The Constitution carried a picture of her and her husband with more than a hundred of her descendants in the rotogravure section and she was always very proud of this.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL DEDICATED THURSDAY

JACKSON, Ga., Nov. 25.—Before a large gathering of patrons, trustees, members of the board of education and friends of education, the Indian Springs Consolidated school was dedicated Thursday with exercises that included addresses by Willis A. Sutton, of Atlanta, and E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland. This Thanksgiving festival and community meet was an outstanding event for the entire county and the exercises were largely attended, as all schools in the county had a holiday.

At the morning session, in addition to music and plays, Dr. Sutton spoke. Tracing the growth of the depression and the many remedies that have been suggested to end it, he declared that only by more popular education and culture can the depression be ended. He showed that Georgia occupies an unenviable place in education.

At intermission a turkey dinner, prepared by the ladies of the community, was served in the classrooms of the building.

E. D. Rivers, of Lakeland, candidate for speaker of the house of representatives, made the principal address at the afternoon session. He made a plea for education in general and complimented the people of Butts county upon the progress they have made in consolidating schools.

NEGRO AT BAINBRIDGE SENTENCED TO CHAIR

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP) A jury in Decatur county superior court tonight returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree against Sam Hall, negro drayman, in connection with the fatal shooting of Dr. R. H. Herron, veterinarian, here on June 1.

The negro had been removed to a jail in Albany immediately after testimony was concluded. Lawyers accepted the verdict in his absence. The court sentenced Hall to die in the electric chair at the state prison farm in Milledgeville on Friday, December 23.

The jury was out on the case for an hour and a half after an all-day trial.

MISSISSIPPI NEGRO HANGED FOR MURDER

CLEVELAND, Miss., Nov. 25.—(AP) Columbus Barton, negro, was hanged today in the courthouse yard at Cleveland for the murder of William G. Trigpen, a farmer, on September 15 of last year.

The trap was sprung at 11:14 o'clock and the negro was pronounced dead at 11:15 o'clock.

NEGROES ARE TRIED FOR MURDER IN COBB

MARIETTA, Ga., Nov. 25.—Cobb county superior court continued in session late today in an effort to clear up the criminal docket.

Ralph Durham, Acworth negro, was convicted today by a jury for the murder of his brother several weeks ago. The jury recommended the negro to the mercy of the court and Judge Jawkins pronounced the life sentence.

Lee Daniell, Marietta negro, went on trial this morning for the slaying of Cohen Pitts, negro, about a month ago. The jury received the case early in the afternoon and was still out late today.

The grand jury, which has been conducting an investigation of charges of cruel and illegal punishment of convicts at the county camp, will continue in session tomorrow. No announcement of the result of the investigation has been made by the grand jury and the jury findings will probably not be known until the general presentments are read in open court.

ANTI-BONUS STATUTE PROPOSED BY CHURCH

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A constitutional amendment prohibiting payment of bonuses and pensions to soldiers uninjured in war is proposed by Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie institute, in the November issue of the Carnegie magazine.

Church recites that Gibbon, the historian, attributed the fall of the Roman empire to the mercenary demands of her soldiers and says "we are rapidly advancing to that point in this country."

Man Dies of Injuries From Accident Burial

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Crawford Crow, 21, employe of a highway construction crew, died in a hospital here today from injuries received yesterday when he was buried under 30 tons of dirt.

The accident occurred on the highway between Danielsville and Royston. Workmen reported that Crow went into a hole, the sides of which caved in on him. He was buried for sometime before the dirt could be removed.

LADY ASTOR SEES IN UNITED STATES INDUSTRIAL REVOLT

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Lady Astor, American-born member of the British parliament, today said America faced a possible revolution if employers continued to reduce wages and increase the hours of a working day.

Lady Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne of Virginia, with Lord Astor, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston.

"This country must be careful of its treatment of the workers," Lady Astor said, "further reduction of wages and increase of hours of employment may bring about a revolt which would be tremendous in its effect, not only on the United States but on the world at large.

"Capital must not threaten the health and well being of the workers by taking advantage of the current depression to inaugurate programs which means only industrial slavery."

Lord and Lady Astor plan also to visit Richmond, Va., and New York.

Junior League To Assume Charge Of Davison-Paxon's Tues., Dec. 6

Junior League Day will be featured at Davison-Paxon's on Tuesday, December 6. It was voted to sponsor the event at the meeting of the Atlanta Junior League, called yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club by the president, Mrs. Allison Thornwell. More than 150 Junior Leaguers will assume charge of the large department store on that day, filling the positions from the basement to the top floor. Members will have charge of the window decoration, the sales in all of the departments, and in the tea room, where the menus will be planned by a special committee.

A feature of the day will be the fashion show to be staged with Junior League girls acting as models and the children of members modeling the frocks in the children's shop. A percentage of all sales made December 6 will go to the Junior League ward in the Henrietta Egleston Memorial hospital and members of the League will appreciate co-operation from all friends to make this undertaking a success.

Mrs. John Knox has been appointed general chairman for the project and Mrs. John O. Chiles will act as co-chairman. Other chairmen will be announced later, including a chairman for each floor, a publicity chairman and other chairmen.

Members of the Junior League voted to join the Welfare Council and to contribute their Christmas baskets through this organization. As a rule the League members have contributed their Christmas baskets to needy families without joining other groups, but this year they will join with other organizations in order to avoid duplications and to supply those most in need.

Mrs. Blanche Alexander, whose displays of tapestries have been shown sponsored by the Junior League, has her tapestries on display at the Georgian Terrace hotel. She will lecture at the High Museum of Art Sunday afternoon, November 27, at 3:30 o'clock, on old and new tapestries. The public is cordially invited to attend this lecture, for which there will be no admission charge made.

Mrs. Murdock Equen made a report on the plans for the marionette show to be given by members of the Junior League at Rich's tea room on Saturday, December 3.

Mrs. William Warren made a report on the performance of the "Golden Goose," a play which was presented at the Atlanta Woman's Club November 17, 18 and 19. Other committee chairmen made interesting reports.

Mrs. Harris Heads Avondale Garden Club

Mrs. Byron Harris was elected president of the Avondale Garden Club, succeeding Mrs. R. L. MacIntyre, who tendered her resignation due to a change of residence. Other officers who will serve with Mrs. Harris are Mrs. John Tierney Jr., vice president, and Mrs. Edward Nelson, press correspondent, succeeding Mrs. Byron Harris.

Gudger—Towne.

DALTON, Ga., Nov. 25.—The marriage of Miss Elinor Towne, of East Orange, N. J., to Morris Gudger, of New York city, formerly of Dalton, took place in White Plains, N. Y., on Monday evening, October 24.

Mrs. Gudger is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Towne, of East Orange, and belongs to a prominent family in New Jersey, being descended on her maternal side from the Rhodes family, and on her paternal side from the Townes, both families being among the earliest settlers in New England.

The bridegroom comes from a prominent north Georgia family. Since his graduation from Georgia Tech in 1928 he has held a responsible engineering position in New York with the Bell Telephone laboratories.

A. Z. A. Sponsors Second Dance

A dance will be given at the New Alliance ballroom of the Jewish Educational Alliance by Atlanta Chapter No. 134 of the A. Z. A. November 27.

The dance is the second of a series of affairs intended to raise money for the Southern A. Z. A. conclave next February. Members will attend this conclave from New Orleans, Houston, Dallas, Chattanooga, Charleston, Miami, Memphis and Birmingham. A. Z. A., like its parent organization, B'nai B'rith, is an international fraternity.

Officers of the Atlanta chapter, including the advisor, Henry A. Alexander, are Raymond Hirsch, Ed Gavron, Arthur Gottesman, Leonard Greenbaum, Simon Wender, Meyer Levy, Nathan Yagol and Israel Gold. Sidney Parks is chairman of the committee in charge of the dance.

Tickets will be 50 cents per couple and may be procured from any A. Z. A. member, or at the door.

Mrs. Battle Lectures Monday, Nov. 28.

As secretary of the Tuesday Current Events Class, Mrs. Frank Inman announces a special lecture by Mrs. Richard Battle on Monday, November 28, at 11:30 o'clock, in the Spanish room of the Yaarab Temple at 660 Peachtree street.

Mrs. Battle has been requested to give this lecture on "George Sand," as she influenced the life of Chopin in contrast with Paderewski's life; also presenting Madam Curie, Modjeska and other celebrities of Poland and Greece.

This is a benefit lecture for a special tubercular fund and the Tuesday Current Events Class invites the public to co-operate with them. Admission is 50 cents, to be paid at the door.

U. D. C. Historian General Speaks To Members of Atlanta Chapter

Mrs. John H. Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., historian general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, was honor guest and speaker at the meeting of Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., held last Tuesday. Mrs. Homer Sutton, of Clarksville, treasurer of the Georgia division, and Mrs. Frank Matthews, of Atlanta, recorder of military service for Georgia division, were honor guests. Mrs. Anderson has just attended the annual meeting of the general division, U. D. C., in Memphis, Tenn., and is spending a few days in Atlanta en route to her home. Mrs. Anderson spoke of her work and urged the members to help in every way to carry out her program for the forthcoming year.

Georgia was honored by the election of Mrs. Francis Gordon Smith as honorary president general of the general division, U. D. C. Memorial resolutions, honoring Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, past president of the chapter, were read by Mrs. Bun Wylie. Reports from the state convention held in Bainbridge, Ga., in October, were given by Mesdames Frank B. Davenport, J. N. Bateman, John A. Perdue, W. T. Dykes, Slaughter Linthicum, Forrest Kibler and by the regent, Mrs. A. R. Colcord.

A handsome silk flag of the Confederacy, "The Bonny Blue Flag," was presented to the Georgia division by the state auditor, Mrs. Moreland Speer, of Atlanta. The most outstanding work of the year was the erection of the Francis S. Bartow Memorial at Rabun Gap-Nacoochee school, marking the Georgia link of the Jefferson Davis highway and marking Confederate graves.

Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., sponsored a benefit bridge party Friday at the chapter house on Juniper and Sixth streets. Mrs. Moreland Speer, third vice president, was general chairman, assisted by Mrs. T. J. Ripley, chairman of needy Confederate women; Mrs. A. P. Phillips, grounds chairman, and Mrs. W. R. Beam, Winnie Davis hall chairman.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Trading Substance for Shadow

There is a fable about a dog crossing a stream with a bone in his mouth, and glancing down into the placid waters, he noticed a greatly enlarged reflection of the bone there. Dropping his bone, he dived into the water after what appeared to be so much greater, only to find that he had traded substance for shadow.

Many Contract players are like the dog in the fable. They see a sure defeat in the contract, but hope to make it greater, and refuse to take the set when they have it before them. Others can see the certainty of making the contract, but, seeking an overtrick, which at best means 50 points, they sacrifice the substance of the Bridge game for the shadow of the overtrick, and lose both.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ K 7 5
◇ Q 9 7 2

	N
♠ Q 8 6 3 2 ♡ K Q J 9 ◇ J ♣ A 7 5	W E S	♠ A J 10 9 ♡ 10 7 3 2 ◇ A 8 3 ♣ Q 2

◇ K 10 6 5 4
♣ K 9 8

North and South had been getting good breaks all evening, but on the previous hand, East and West had scored a game, and South, fearing that luck was about to turn, opened the bidding with a sub-minimum one-diamond bid. West doubled, and North, in an effort to stop East from bidding, jumped to four diamonds. East passed, and South, rebidding his near psychic, hoping that his partner held tenaces over West's strength, raised to five diamonds. This East doubled.

West opened the heart King, which South won with the Ace and returned a heart, trumping in the Dummy. The club Knave was now led, East covered with the Queen, South played the King and West won with the Ace. Here, all West would have had to do to set the contract would have been to return a spade, but, hoping to reduce the Declarer's ruffing power, he decided to return a diamond, which East won with the Ace. East now could have set the contract by laying down the Ace of spades, but he too felt greedy, so returned a trump. South then ruffed another heart in Dummy, returned to his own hand, drew East's last trump, and discarded his one losing spade and one losing heart on Dummy's clubs, thus making his doubled contract of five.

It is interesting to note that even a set of 1 trick on this hand would have been a paying penalty, as East and West, playing the hand at spades, need lose at most three tricks.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.
Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Once in the long ago King Lysimmachus asked the comic poet Phillippides: "What would you like to have of mine?" And the poet replied: "Anything but your secrets, or king! Our hungers are our secrets, at least we like to think they are our secrets but they are open to our friends; for as Aesop said to Rhodope in Landor's lovely poem 'Appetite and the wits are set to the same grindstone.'"

We are all hungry, you know, in some spiritual sense. And just as there is no health in the body without hunger so there is no health in the soul without hunger, and upon its partial gratification the well-being of the spirit life depends. For what are you hungry, reader? On the answer to this question is hinged the entrance door to your inner life. Your hungers color your mind, give cast to your thought, spur to your ambition, direction to your energies and your methods of satisfying them determine the whole course of your life and the ultimate mold of your character. What are you hungry for, reader? Perhaps you yourself don't know your own hungers. Perhaps you have not learned to classify them, to test their right to existence, your right to satisfy them. Perhaps you can classify them and are ashamed of them.

There is a certain man that lectures loquaciously on the advantages of paganism. Being witty he makes nice epigrams at the expense of virtue. Says he: "The anchorite sins and hates himself, the pagan sins and thanks God for the opportunity." Yet his most striking quotations are from the pen of St. Paul and his most vaunted virtues which he incorporates in his creed, or code, as he calls it, are distinctly Christian virtues. To cap the climax of his inconsistency, he comes out with the compromising assertion that he has derived his chief source of pleasure and inspiration from the reading of the Bible. His is a plain case of hungering and thirsting after righteousness. If he secretly suspects it, he is intent upon keeping others from suspecting it. In the words of Emerson: "He but half expressed himself and was ashamed of the divine idea which he represented."

Would you live sanely and happily, search out your hungers and sort them. Would you be sympathetic with friends and acquaintances, discover their hungers.

In the beginning of life hunger is for the simplest things. The baby cries for his milk. If it is not doctored with sugar, pure milk will satisfy him, but once some sugar is added, his taste for pure milk is vitiated and ever afterward he cries for sugared milk. Are we not all "children of a larger growth," crying out for what we want of life, regardless of its suitability to our needs or its essentiality to our lives, crying like the baby in the night, with no language but a cry?

What do you hunger for, reader? Are you a materialist like the rich man who wants more money? Possibly you are a poor man and want your debts paid, or a hard-worked man and crave leisure, or a great man and want power. Whoever you are, you want love. This then is the supreme hunger. Beauty is bound up in it. Tenderness is tied to it. Hope is hung on it. The future will be founded upon it. All of life leans against it. If this hunger is appeased the years spread out like green fields, exposed to wind and rain, growing and resting, laughing and weeping by turns. Always there is the consciousness that the cycle which brings the wind and the rain must bring the sun.

It is with the cry for food that the infant announces his coming. It is with a cry for soul food that the dying man announces his going. Hunger—it is the first and the last desire. It is the keynote in the scale of ambition. It is the touchstone in friendship. It is the watchword in love. Hunger is the final feeling out of the soul for immortality.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

SUSPECT CONFESSES, DENIES FRAUD ROLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—H. A. Crowe, a private detective, said tonight a suspect held in the swindle of a Jacksonville (Fla.) securities company admitted he was John Dickson, alias Patrick Corbett.

The detective said Dickson had made an oral confession of his part in the swindle, but that later he retracted his statements and refused to sign the typewritten confession prepared by federal authorities.

Dickson is charged with complicity in the $131,000 swindle of the Almours Security Company.

She will preach a full-length sermon at the 11 o'clock morning service. The night service is at 7:30 o'clock.

SOVIET WILL SELL OIL TO CANADA IN 1933

MOSCOW, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Tass News Agency announced today that the soviet oil trust had concluded a new contract with Canada for the sale of 120,000 metric tons of oil during 1933 for $1,500,000. (One metric ton is approximately 6 1-3 barrels).

The announcement said that the trust had sold 55,000 metric tons of oil products to Canada during 1932.

SMART-LOOKING MODEL OF PRINCESS LINES.

It is a dress that is well liked by girls and younger women as well as by the matron.

Carry it out as its inspirator in novelty silk and wool crepe mixture in rich wine-red tones. It's so charmingly flattering and wearable.

You'll be surprised to learn how easily it is made. It is a one-piece affair. All you've to do is to join the sides and shoulder seams and stitch the slightly circular side sections to the dress. The sleeves are then set into armholes and the waistline caught with shirring at either side.

Style No. 759 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 7-8 yards of 39-inch material with 1 1-8 yards of ribbon for bow.

It would pay you to send for a copy of our Fall and Winter Fashion Book for it will help you plan your fall wardrobe. And you will save money in using our low-priced patterns. Book shows large variety of styles for ladies, misses and children, special styles for stouts, embroidery, dressmaking articles, etc.

Price of book, 15 cents.

NANCY PAGE

Worry Never Makes a Face Look Younger!

BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

"How do you manage to look so fresh and rested all the time? don't you ever get tired, Mrs. Page?" Nancy smiled at the Good Taste Club member who put this question to her.

"Of course, I get tired, frightfully tired. But before I was married I used to go to the beauty shop so frequently that they taught me most of the tricks which keep a woman looking fresh and young. Want to hear about some of them?"

"Of course." "We're keen about it!" "Oh, will you tell us." The chorus of replies convinced Nancy that even young girls sensed the need of keeping that "schoolgirl complexion," "that skin you love to touch," that fresh unwearied look.

"In the first place, I have learned—and this I did not learn in a beauty parlor—that we worry a lot over things that never happen, and that nothing is as important as it seems to us at the moment. Everything works itself out—even depressions—and worrying doesn't do a bit of good.

"Second, I take plenty of baths and I eat plenty of fresh vegetables.

Third, I never, never put on powder or makeup until I have washed my face thoroughly, and I never go to bed with "makeup" still on.

"Fourth, I slump and relax every time I think about it. When I catch myself sitting all tense and keyed up I make myself go limp as last year's boudoir doll—all floppy.

"Fifth, I relieve the pressure at the back of my neck by stretching my head as though I were trying to see over a crowd, and then—holding my head high—I rotate or pivot it in a wide circle. I do this many times a day—not in front of company, of course. You try it to see how it relieves that pressure at the back of the neck. That brings frowns and a drawn look.

LENIENCY IS PLANNED FOR YOUNG SLAYER

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The threat of the electric chair apparently was removed today from 16-year-old Charles Bertrand Arnold Jr. shortly after he was indicted for slaying his step-grandmother.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburn, in answer to a question whether the state would recommend leniency in return for a plea of guilty, said:

"Yes, I think that can be arranged."

HOLDINGS TRANSFERRED BY ASSOCIATED GAS

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Associated Gas & Electric Corporation has transferred to its affiliate, Associated Gas & Electric Co., its holdings of Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation and Binghamton Light, Heat & Power Co., subsidiaries, it was learned today.

This shift in holdings resulted in a reduction in the Associated Corporation's investments from $582,089,475 on June 30, 1932, to $514,760,777 on September 30.

TWO SUSPECTS GRILLED IN SLUGGING OF KNIGHT

While C. E. Knight, taxi driver, was still in serious condition at Grady hospital Friday, from injuries received when he was slugged by a thug Wednesday night, detectives continued to grill two suspects arrested on suspicion. They gave their names as A. G. Register, of the Rex hotel and Earl Carroll, of 1579 Gordon street.

When Carroll was taken into custody Detective Dick Englebert found 1,400 pennies in his pockets. Register was arrested later on information given by Carroll, who was suspected, police said, when he registered at a rooming house shortly after the attack on Knight.

KNOXVILLE SHOOTING LAID TO ALABAMAN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—W. W. Anderson, who told officers he was a Birmingham (Ala.) power company salesman, was arrested today and charged with shooting and critically wounding Deputy Sheriff Ralph W. King.

King, near death at a hospital, said he picked up a man last night on charges of drunkenness and started to take him to a magistrate's office in his car. He said the man pulled out a pistol and forced him to drive by the magistrate's office and the county jail.

King said he later grabbed the prisoner's right hand, which held the gun, and the latter drew another pistol and shot him twice. The man jumped from the car and ran.

Police Force Is Jailed And Prisoner Is Freed

KINCAID, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Deputies aided by a national guard company today arrested the entire Kincaid police force and liberated from the Kincaid jail one of their own number, Deputy Sheriff Max Klenn.

Police Chief Albert Mattozzi declined to say who had jailed the deputy, but withstood the attempt to free him, until deputies and troops opened the jail and released Klenn.

The chief and four of his assistants were arrested on charges of false arrest and taken to Taylorville. The sheriff charged that the police force had grown to formidable size, since the strike at Kincaid mine failed to stop work. He said the police force was composed of members of sympathizers of the progressive miners, who are opposing employment of United Mine Workers in the Kincaid mine.

Mr. and Mrs. McClure Will Be Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. McClure, of Washington, D. C., will be complimented at dinner this evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger at their residence on Woodcrest road in Brookwood Hills, and invited to meet the honor guests will be a small group of close friends.

Mrs. McClure was the former Miss Helen Pendleton, member of a distinguished and prominent Atlanta family, and she was very popular and admired in social circles. Since her marriage to Mr. McClure 10 years ago she has resided in the national capital, where Mr. McClure is a leading member of the legal profession.

Other members are Misses Mary Brown, Molly Bennett, Harriet Howard, Margaret Cunningham, Alice Garretson, Hilda Muench and Mary Gregory. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. Benson H. Ford.

Schools To End Year Debt Free, Board Told

Educational institutions operating under the state board of regents will finish the year without a deficit and without borrowing a cent, the board was informed at a meeting Friday at the state capitol.

The regents also were advised by the committee on education and finance that institution heads are preparing their 1933 budgets so that they will be ready for presentation to the legislature in January should that body decide to follow its 10-day organization meeting with its regular 60-day session which is provided under a constitutional amendment ratified by the voters of the state on November 8. There has been some talk of advancing the regular session but this is to be decided by the legislature itself and the new governor, Eugene Talmadge.

The board decided to hold its next meeting at Milledgeville on December 16, the day before the dedication of the new Ina Dillard Russell library at the Georgia State College for Women. The library, named for the mother of Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., and wife of the chief justice of the state supreme court, cost approximately $50,000.

Mayor Authorizes New Sewer Survey

Mayor James L. Key Friday granted permission to Parsons, Klapp, Borkickoff & Douglas Company, New York sanitary engineers, to make a new sewer survey of Atlanta and thus paved the way for a possible change in the disposal system now in use.

Under terms of the agreement the company will perform the service without cost to the city and will file a report with the mayor and council at the conclusion of the survey. Company officials asserted the method used by it is different from the system now in vogue here and would cost less.

ATTRACTIVE AFTERNOON FROCK.

Pattern 2430.

With the festive season approaching, we can't think of a more attractive model for satin, velvet or crepe, to wear to the gay informal gatherings that are being planned. Beltless in front, it ties very demurely in back. The flared sleeves are daintily tucked where they join the drop shoulders. With slender skirt seaming for slim hips a truly captivating effect is achieved.

Pattern 2430 may be ordered only in sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 44. Size 16 requires 3 1-4 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

On the Air Today

Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, will be the speaker on the Columbia Public Affairs Institute program to be broadcast over the WGST-CBS network at 9:15 to 9:45 tonight. Dr. Frank's talk, entitled "Now That It's All Over," will consist of a philosophical-analytical review of the recent national elections. President Frank is a gifted orator and brilliant writer, and is recognized leader among liberal educators in America.

With Frances Blaisdell, first flutist of the National Symphony orchestra, as soloist, Ernest Schelling will illustrate and explain the use of the flute as an orchestral instrument during the concert for children and young people by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, to be broadcast over the WGST-Columbia network from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. Another feature of the broadcast will be the premiere of a suite from Eugene Goossens' "Kaleidoscope," in an arrangement made by the composer for Schelling.

A play-by-play description of the gridiron battle between the Army and Notre Dame will be broadcast by Ted Husing, Columbia sports announcer, direct from Yankee stadium, New York, from 11:45 a. m. to 2:30 p. m., for the audiences of the WGST-Columbia chain.

Felix Salmond, noted English 'cellist, and Mme. Lea Luboshutz, distinguished Russian violinist, will be the soloists featured with Leopold Stokowski in the first Philadelphia orchestra concert to be broadcast under the sponsorship of Philco from 7:15 to 9 p. m., over WGST and the Columbia network. Mme. Luboshutz and Salmond will be heard in the solo sections of Brahms' Double Concerto in A minor for violin, 'cello and orchestra. Net unlike the old concerto grosso, in which several instruments were set off as a solo group against the orchestra, this double concerto combines the 18th century practice with a modern interpretation of the possibilities of the concerto form; it is almost a fusion of chamber music with orchestra. Presenting a group of selections covering the development of orchestral music from the early 18th century through the latter half of the 19th, Stokowski will direct the orchestra in Handel's Overture in D minor, a ballet suite by Gluck, and the famous Leonore Overture No. 3 by Beethoven.

GOV. MILLER TESTIFIES AT TRIAL OF JORDAN

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 25.—(AP)—E. D. Jordan, of Gadsden, former state senator on trial here, charged with agreeing to accept or demanding a bribe, heard Governor B. M. Miller today tell a Montgomery circuit court jury that Jordan admitted making a request for $250 as "expense money" for the passage of a Sunday amusement bill for Gadsden, Alabama.

Jordan, 45-year-old retail grocer, resigned from the Alabama senate November 2, in the midst of a senate rules committee hearing on charges that he requested $250 from Lee Castleberry, Gadsden theater manager, for the passage of the Sunday amusement bill permitting Sabbath golf, tennis and motion pictures in Gadsden.

He entered a plea of not guilty as the trial opened this morning.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Leaval Hubbard, 21-year-old negro, was hanged in parish prison shortly after noon here today for the holdup slaying of Edward J. Melancon, grocer, several months ago.

Fritz, Famed Sledge Dog, Succumbs to Old Age

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Old Fritz is dead.

You've probably forgotten all about Fritz. But if you'll harken back to 1925, perhaps you'll remember the dog team that raced across the frozen Alaskan wastes to Nome, carrying diphtheria serum.

Old Fritz was the lone survivor of that dog team, "mushed" by Leonard Sepala.

The sledge dog died of old age today, fut a few hours after he was brought to New York from Lake Placid, N. Y., by Dr. Beverly Sproul, who has given up his practice to train sledge teams.

With other dogs, old Fritz went on exhibition in a department store. Within an hour, he fell dead.

BIG DROP SEEN FOR '33 IN CITY TAX RECEIPTS

As city tax assessors Friday afternoon furnished Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, slated as chairman of the 1933 finance committee of council, an estimate of an $800,000 drop next year in ad valorem tax receipts it was reported that additional economies are expected at the regular meeting of the board of firemasters next Wednesday night when recommended savings of more than $100,000 a year are considered.

Joe C. Little, senior tax assessor, handed Gilliam the estimate and Gilliam began a minute study of 1932 appropriations with a view of familiarizing himself with the ctiy's fiscal problems.

"This means that an additional $200,000 loss in other receipts can be reasonably expected, pushing the total shortage over this year to $1,000,000," Little said.

Mayor James L. Key Friday answered former Mayor I. N. Ragsdale's protest to abandonment of Fire Station No. 14 in Oakland City by saying it must be done during the present emergency.

Councilman Raymond Curtis, of the tenth ward, who is slated in committee predictions to head the fire board in 1933, Friday entered a vigorous protest to the projected abandonment of Station 14, which lies in the tenth ward. Curtis said he would fight to prevent closing of the station even temporarily.

HOFSTADTER GROUP WILL RESUME PROBE

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter announced today that public hearings of the joint legislative committee appointed to investigate the city administration would be resumed next Tuesday.

Only evidence having to do with constructive suggestions regarding the city government will be presented at the hearings.

"It's great to be home," Ina Blaine told her mother as they stood together on the porch of their new house. "Four years away has made quite a difference. I can't realize that dad is really a rich man, now."

"You'll realize it when he pays $3,000 for that horse he's promised you," commented her small brother Marvie.

Ina worried about the offer her father had made for California Red. She knew he wanted to show Ben Ide that no poor man need woo his daughter.

"Dad," said Ina as soon as she could find him alone, "I'm not sure that I like having us all so well off . . . and I don't like this man Setter, with whom you're so thick lately."

"Setter's all right, lass," Hart Blaine assured Ina. "He's made your dad a rich man and I want you to be nice to him. No more sticking up for that Ide boy. Setter knows him better than you do." Ina looked suspiciously at the approaching figure, feeling an instant distrust in the yellowish mask of a face, with its heavily-lidded eyes which seemed to devour her.

"Seen your old pal, yet?" Setter taunted Ina when her father was out of hearing. She had been home such a little while and yet her father seemed to be making every effort to throw Less Setter her way.

"Not yet," she answered defiantly, now. "But I shall certainly see Ben Ide, and if I remember him at all you will have to prove the things you have said of him."

PARIS LOVE

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Since the death of her husband 10 years previously, Kate Sayers had made $60,000,000 by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous motor car Europa. Alfredo Santini, whom she knew only as a gigolo and a driver of racing cars, and who was in constant attendance on her, was chief of a gang of jewel thieves. Ramon Cabereo and Etienne Lejarre, salesmen at Piron's jewelry shop, were members of his gang, which had robbed Piron several times by substituting imitation gems. Mrs. Sayers' daughter, Alacia, had unwittingly thwarted them once by buying a planted pearl necklace before the arrival of an accomplice. Alacia recently had fallen in love at first sight with a handsome young Frenchman whom she learned later was Armand de Pas, Prince d'Orsant, poverty-stricken pretender to the French throne. He was a salesman at Piron's, learning the business. Santini had just had fakes substituted for Mrs. Sayers' fabulous rubies when she took them to Piron's to have them reset, and Cabereo put the real rubies in the tool box of the Europa racer Santini was to drive in the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo.

Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT XVII.

"That's understood!" she told him. "I'll be there promptly, and laugh as you are being shown up, old dear!"

The dinner party had come to an end. Alacia found herself next to Armand, and in the crush she slipped her hand surreptitiously into his while she whispered the joke she was playing on his patron.

"Not a word to him tonight!" she admonished. "But tomorrow afternoon you might ask him for a few tips on how to tell real pearls!"

"I will," he said. "This is a night full of jokes, it seems. Have you noticed Colonel Bradley and your mother? They are getting along like a pair of cooing doves—or would be if doves ever cooed of business methods and world politics!"

"Yes, I did notice!" she replied. "They do seem to like each other, don't they? And Santini doesn't appear to relish it particularly. By the way, did you hear anything yet?" she added significantly. He shook his head.

"I telephoned, but it is impossible to get at the records before tomorrow," he replied. "I am to go around and see the prefect after hours, and I'll let you know anything I learn, immediately. Meanwhile, what say we dance?"

Mrs. Sayers' birthday celebration had lasted well into the small hours of the morning, but Alacia was up and about next day in plenty of time to keep her 11 o'clock appointment at Cartier's. There was no worry in her mind about the joke she was playing on her good old friend, except for a twinge of conscience at having let it go so far. After all, she thought, it was rather unfair to get one of his precious dogs away from him by such means, to say nothing of proving him wrong in front of an important confrere! But M. Piron, meeting her at the door of his famous rival's establishment, seemed in a cheerful mood and had not grown one whit less stubborn about his opinion of the night before. Immediately upon their entrance they were shown into a small private room very like those at the Piron establishment, and in another instant they were joined by the manager, who asked what he could do for them.

"We want," explained M. Piron, "to ask what this is?" Alacia took the necklace off and laid it in the manager's hand. The man weighed it thoughtfully.

"That is to say, you'd like to know its value?" he asked slightly puzzled that a man in Piron's position should ask such a question. Piron nodded.

"Exactly," he replied. "It is to settle a dispute." The manager murmured a polite excuse and disappeared for a few moments, taking the necklace with him. When he reappeared he was accompanied by a man whom he introduced as the expert on pearls.

"Monsieur Geroade will tell you his opinion," he added and Alacia waited breathlessly for the laugh that was to come. Then the newcomer spoke.

"I should say that a fair valuation on this necklace," said he, "would be a million and a quarter francs."

For a moment following this announcement Alacia sat thunderstruck. It was with difficulty that she found her voice.

"But, are you sure?" she finally gasped, and would have said more except for a warning gesture from Piron.

"Mademoiselle came into the possession of these pearls under rather peculiar circumstances," he explained, "and I merely wished to convince her beyond all doubt as to their value. Thank you very much, gentlemen. We are grateful for your assistance."

There was a lot of ceremonious leave-taking and politely murmured assurances of mutual esteem while Alacia slipped the necklace into her bag, and a few moments later she and Piron found themselves bowed out into the rue de la Paix. Her escort started to cross in the direction of his shop, but Alacia laid a detaining hand on his arm.

"No, wait!" she said thinking rapidly. "I want to talk to you alone, but not at the shop! I particularly don't want to go there just now!"

"The Ritz will be deserted at this hour," he suggested.

Alacia nodded but said nothing as they turned into the Place Vendome and entered the hotel. It was still far too early for the luncheon crowds and the little waiting room on the garden was deserted. Alacia led the way to a sofa in the most secluded corner and motioned her companion to sit beside her. Then she drew a long breath and began.

"Monsieur Piron," she said. "When I tell you I paid only a thousand francs for that necklace, you believe me, don't you?"

"Mais oui, of course my dear child!" he protested. "but what I'd like to know is where on earth you bought it;"

"I bought it," she said deliberately, "in your own shop." He stared at her in utter amazement.

"In my own shop?" he repeated. "Impossible!"

"Not a bit of it," she denied. "I bought it myself, and it was tagged correctly. I removed the price tag only last night."

"But mon dieu, this is very serious!" he replied uneasily. "A mistake of that kind cannot happen by accident. The real pearls are kept in another part of the building, upstairs. The imitations are sold on the ground floor. Did you choose it in a private room?"

"No, I bought it out of a tray containing a dozen or more others," she said, "at the counter on the ground floor. Don't you remember the day? You spoke to me as I went out." He seemed to think hard for a moment before replying.

"Yes, I remember now," he said, "de Pas waited on you, and I told you about him, afterward." He lapsed into silence for a second and when he spoke again it was with effort. "You realize what this means?" he asked. "It was a plant. That necklace must have been deliberately put there for somebody to take away, and that somebody was obviously not you. But who did it, and how was it done? There is nothing missing from the safe I am sure, for the inventory is checked night and morning by one of the clerks together with the man from the surete." Then he laughed suddenly. "The cleverness of it!" he exclaimed. "You realize of course, that the necklace is legally yours?"

"But how?"

"It was sold openly in the shop at a price which was plainly marked," he explained. "The law is not interested in the price we ask unless we grossly over-charge. If we are fools enough to sell you a real necklace at a bargain, that does not make a criminal of you!"

"I see!" said Alacia. "Then if the customer for whom this was meant had got it, you could have done nothing?"

"Exactly!" he cried, "but fortunately we can arrest the man who deliberately tagged the necklace at a thousand francs—always provided we can identify him."

"Armand didn't tag it!" she said quickly.

"Armand is above reproach," he said gravely, looking at her with sudden kindly suspicion. "But he'll probably have to be brought into it."

"I wasn't worrying about his honesty!" she flared at him, her cheeks burning. "I was thinking of the unpleasant publicity. He has a difficult enough time without that."

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—American commodity markets were chilled by weakness of the British pound sterling today and stocks reacted in sympathy.

With December wheat touching a new low at 41 1-2 cent and cotton making fresh minimums for the season, it was probably inevitable that share temperatures should have fallen. Turnover, at 1,005,860 shares, was about 200,000 under that of the previous session.

A closing advance in stocks, while sufficient to reduce the average net loss to six-tenths of a point, was ascribed to repurchases by the short interest on the strength of wheat's late recovery. Rail shares, however, were fairly steady even against the downward tide in the morning and several carriers made net gains. Wall Street anticipates a rise of around 30,000 cars in tomorrow's loadings report for last week.

Corn Products, Coca-Cola, Case, American Tobacco "B" and standard brands showed losses of 1 to nearly 2, the last named being adversely affected by a dividend cut. American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, General Motors, Montgomery Ward and Consolidated Gas were down less than a point.

The reserve bank statements, delayed by the holiday, disclosed virtually no change from a week ago. Currency circulation, whose contraction a week ago had been held to slightly more than $20,000,000 by banking difficulties, rose $6,000,000 in the week ended November 23, which covered Thanksgiving Day requirements. Monetary gold stocks, thanks largely to recent release from earmark, jumped $36,000,000, but member banks discounts were stationary.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 15 points down at 5.90. Receipts, 493; shipments, 635; stocks, 146,861.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Cotton reached new low records for the season today under continued liquidation and scattered selling.

Offerings were stimulated by relatively easy Liverpool cables and the issuance of December notices. March contracts broke to 5.86, making a decline of nearly $20 a bale from the high price of last August, and after a rally of 10 points from the lowest, closed at 5.94, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 11 to 14 points.

The opening was 4 to 8 points lower. Circulation of December notices estimated at about 40,000 bales, brought out a good deal of liquidation, and the market soon eased with active months selling about 19 to 21 points net lower.

This decline carried December to 5.71 and May to 5.96, but both foreign and domestic trade buying became more active at the lower levels and proved sufficient to steady the market during the later trading.

However rallies of 10 to 14 points from the lowest were not fully maintained, as they met further liquidation, with December closing at 5.76 and May at 6.03 or about 5 to 9 points up from the lowest.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Indian selling in that market and reported a falling off in the inquiry for cotton goods in Manchester.

Exports today 28,950, making 2,871,018 so far this season. Port receipts 65,928. United States port stocks 4,805,204.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES DECLINE 7 TO 11 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Cotton was rather active today and the price trend was mostly downward, under the influence of December notices and easiness in other markets. Prices recovered rather well, however, in the last hour and the close was steady at net losses for the day of 7 to 11 points.

First notice day for December brought tenders of 25,600 bales, which was less than expected, and later reports that the notices were being promptly stopped helped to support the market. Bullish weekly statistics including a report of 438,000 bales taken by mills, the largest total for a single week this season, apparently had no market effect.

The opening was easier on the notices, although Liverpool cables were 3 to 4 penny points better than due. Private cables said there was covering, and continental selling was offset by Bombay buying of distant months. Manchester cabled the market was quiet for both cloth and yarns.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow unchanged to 1 penny point up.

Earnings.

DETROIT, Nov. 25.—Net earnings of $102,701.15, amounting to 9 cents per share, for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1932, were reported today by Kelvinator Corporation including its subsidiary, the Leonard Refrigerator Company. This figure includes dividends received from the Refrigeration Discount Corporation and is after all charges, including federal taxes. This compares with $1,761,709.19, or $1.53 per share, for the previous year.

Brokers' Views

Cotton Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Under impact of heavy long liquidation in December incident to circulation notices against that month involving about 40,000 bales and extensive liquidation in other months influenced by poor tone of securities and grain, the market by midafternoon sold off to net losses of 19 to 21 points. It rallied sharply in the last hour after it became apparent that all of the December notices had been stopped by spot houses and European interests and after grain and securities had recovered a major portion of their earlier losses. With long liquidation over in December and with long interest in other months greatly reduced, we consider the market in position to respond promptly and perhaps vigorously to any constructive development.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The interests in December proved to be larger than was generally expected and their liquidation carried cotton to new low prices for the distant positions. Nobody seemed to want the actual and notices circulated well into the afternoon driving out the balance of the speculative long Decembers. Notices were finally stopped principally by the larger spot houses although it is considered about 10,000 were stopped for export to Germany. The south, New Orleans, wire houses, as well as locals, sold and the easier stock market helped depress prices. The trade bought but not as aggressively as in the past. After notices were out of the way, the market rallied and we think with improved position the market is now in we should respond readily to any favorable news.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The cotton market opened 1 to 7 points down from the Wednesday's closing level, due to rather heavy tenders for December delivery in both the New Orleans and New York markets. Notices for 15,650 bales were issued at New Orleans and for 40,000 bales at New York. In New Orleans 15,000 bales were tendered by a large spot firm which apparently did not want to lose this cotton and succeeded in regaining about 10,000 bales, the remaining having been stopped by a large brokerage house. The large December tenders and the unsatisfactory war debt situation caused considerable selling and prices made new lows for the movement. The offerings were well absorbed by the trade but mostly on the scale down; however, there was sufficient support to check the decline. The renewed weakness in sterling was responsible for another decline in wheat. Sterling will likely be the most unsettling factor in the situation until the war debt problem is settled and it now looks as if no definite decision can be made until congress convenes on December 5.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—In reflection of the inexplicable hysteria resulting from the proposed adjustment of foreign debts due to this country, there were further declines in all our commodity and security markets today and cotton was about half a dollar lower at the opening and during the afternoon trading the losses averaged practically $1 a bale. There was considerable speculative selling for both long and short account. The chief buying came from domestic mill and trade interests, also far eastern, English and continental houses. The issuance of December notices likewise had an unsettling influence. With the cotton market thoroughly liquidated, oversold and the technical position the strongest experienced in many months it evidently is an opportunity to be taken advantage of to buy cotton confidently for the long pull.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Over the holiday the Liverpool market declined sharply under the influence of the uncertainty regarding the payment of that portion of the debt which is due December 15. Our market opened some 8 to 10 points lower, particularly as this was the first notice date for December deliveries. About 40,000 bales were circulated in New York and about 15,000 bales in New Orleans.

Considering the easier security market, cotton did fairly well [illegible] the trade limits increasing on the decline [illegible] there should be any favorable international developments, the market could easily alter, though most people will prefer to await developments before making fresh commitments at this time. Liverpool March due Saturday 5-16 down.

Stock Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The action of the market today confirmed recent indications that volume offerings are not forthcoming on weakness. While stocks were not aggressively bid for, there was no lack of buyers for such blocks as came on the market. In well-informed circles it was stated that important operators were covering short lines. The industrials are now resting at the level at which effective support was twice encountered in October. The conventional interpretation of the action of the rails in today's session is that resistance at this level will again be effective. In line with this interpretation we suggest trading commitments in leading rails and industrials, particularly favoring Atchison, New York Central, Chesapeake & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Johns-Manville and United States Industrial Alcohol.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—[illegible] sharp declines of Wednesday [illegible] of the market today was merely irregular and while the averages showed a small loss for the day the majority of active issues seemed well taken on a scale down. A few days of quiet trading in a narrow range around the double bottom already established should pave the way for a worth-while rally.

We doubt that it would be worth while to follow a rally that might start tomorrow morning, but would continue to look for weak spots to take on some trading positions with the idea that more favorable developments in connection with the international debt situation might be responsible for better demand next week.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The market seems to be closing somewhat above the lows of the day, and since the forenoon there has been practically no selling pressure on the market at all. The weakness in sterling and cotton persists but wheat has shown a reasonable recovery from its low. Any pronounced recovery in prices would seem to be dependent upon some favorable political news, which means at the moment a clarifying of the foreign debt situation. We believe that this will come about when Mr. Roosevelt's position is made more clear and is better appreciated.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Everything considered, the stock market gave a highly satisfactory account of itself today. It was only natural, therefore expected, that the price structure should give way to begin with, a certain amount of liquidation having been dislodged through the decline on Wednesday. Before noon, however, prices had rallied from their early low and the balance of the day was characterized by a very small turnover and practically no change in quotations. As a matter of fact the rail section closed higher than on Wednesday, probably anticipating favorable car-loadings to be published tomorrow. Oils also showed steadiness. Even at the low of the day, industrial averages did not break the critical 58, and at 2 o'clock they stood at 58.65, off only 0.82. The close was 58.78, off 69 cents.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Wednesday's sharp decline was extended well into the morning trading today, helped along by a sharp break in sterling, and a decline in wheat prices to another record all-time low. The Dow-Jones industrial average approached close to its October-November double bottom but at this point support developed and the market stabilized. The rails, which have lost much less ground of late than the industrials, were noticeably well taken on the weakness and in the afternoon were objects of a very aggressive demand which was instrumental in enabling the general market to recover generally its early losses. Wheat also closed with very little change. The general market is not likely to get very far until we have more assurance that there will be no important defaults on the December 15 war debt payments.

Grain Letters.

BEER & CO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—A new all-time record low was established for wheat futures in the local market today when the December sold down to 41⅛. Fairly general selling induced by weakness in Liverpool and on the break in sterling and controversy over war debts responsible for the break. There was not the volume of selling, however, so much in evidence when the previous low point was made. Instead the selling dried up immediately after the opening and sufficient buying again developed to bring about a recovery. No moisture was received in the west and southwest over the holiday.

Corn was easier with wheat and on scattered selling with some liquidation in the December. The latter sold within a fraction of the lowest level of the season and there was only a moderate rally from the inside figure later.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Influenced by easier security markets, lower Liverpool cables, a sharp break in sterling exchange and general unsettlement over the European debt question the market opened about 1 cent down. During the last half of the session the buying was more aggressive and the market regained the greater part of its early loss to close steady unchanged to ⅛ lower. The general news today continued favorable to holders and under normal conditions a great deal more attention would be given to constructive developments. However, a normal market cannot be expected during a liquidating period and it is our opinion that these setbacks offer excellent opportunities to assume a long position in the May or July options, which with a little patience will return handsome profits.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—Everything was against wheat prices this morning and at the opening all deliveries broke into new low ground with December again establishing a new all-time low record for Chicago market at 41½. Declines in Liverpool and Buenos Aires yesterday and this morning accentuated by a 5-point drop in sterling and weakness in stocks and cotton, were depressing factors. There was no important volume to the selling, however, and it appeared to spend its force within the first half hour after which a distinct rallying tendency developed and near the close the early break was fully recovered. Increasing strength in cash position and resistance shown to unfavorable foreign financial situation are encouraging to holders.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Staggered temporarily by collapse of British exchange rates, wheat plunged down today to prices never heretofore reached in the history of any organized grain exchange.

A complete recovery of wheat values followed, however, when a wild rush of selling that took place at the start was ended. After reaching the new bottom price record, 41 1-2 cents a bushel for December contracts, wheat trading suddenly came almost to a standstill, and then the market slowly climbed back in meager dealings to where it was before Thanksgiving.

Developments regarding European efforts for reduction of war debt payments to the United States were generally taken here as chiefly responsible for the action of British exchange and for the flurried selling of wheat and other grains.

Wheat closed nervous at a slight reaction from the day's top, unchanged to 5-8 to 3-4 under Wednesday's finish, corn 3-8 to 5-8 down, oats 1-4 to 3-8 off, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Corn and oats were governed by wheat action. Eastern demand for corn was relatively slow.

Foreign Markets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON—Stock prices eased slightly under the influence of the war debts problems. Gilt-edged securities were also affected by the weakness in sterling, which touched 3.21½, the lowest since 1920. Paris supported the favorites and gold mining issues, the latter being assisted by the record prices offered for bar gold. Wall Street reports also lacked encouragement and the closing was easy.

PARIS—Technical conditions governed trading on the bourse today. Yesterday's resistance had an unfavorable influence, causing some declines. The closing was barely steady.

BERLIN—Under continued uncertainties, prices on the boerse declined 1½ points. The closing was generally dull.

Sugar, Coffee, Rice.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Raw sugar was unchanged today with demand light and limited to near-by requirements. The only sale confirmed was 21,500 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to a local refiner at 3.00, duty paid.

Circulation of 10 December notices and continued inactivity in the spot market caused further selling pressure in futures with final prices showing net declines of 1 to 3 points.

The market opened unchanged to 2 points lower and later showed net losses of 2 to 4 points with December contracts selling down to .87 and September to 1.02. Covering at these levels checked the decline, with final prices about a point above the lowest. Trading included considerable exchanging with the day's business totaling 24,000 tons. December closed .88, January .84, March .87, May .93, July .98 and September 1.03.

Refined was unchanged with demand light.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Coffee was generally lower today under local and Brazilian selling promoted partly by a sharp reaction at Havre.

Although it was first December notice day none was issued. No. 7 contracts opened 1 to 3 higher and closed 7 higher to 3 lower; sales 5,000. Santos opened 1 higher to 9 lower and closed 7 to 9 lower; sales 7,000.

Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts, December 6.12, March 5.94, May 5.81, July 5.70, September 5.62; Santos, December 9.62, March 8.85, May 8.45, July 8.31, September 8.20.

Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 8½ to 8⅝; Santos 4s 10¼ to 10½.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Copper quiet; electrolytic spot and future 5⅛@5¼. Tin weak; spot and nearby 22.75; future 22.85. Iron steady, unchanged. Lead dull; spot New York 3.00; East St. Louis 2.90. Zinc quiet; East St. Louis spot and future 3.15. Antimony 5.80.

WOOL.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—Medium quality domestic wools show an irregular tendency. Scattered sales have been closed this week on strictly combing 56s territory wool at around 40 cents scoured basis. Fairly good combing 48s, 50s territory wools are available at 38 cents scoured basis and average wools can be bought at 36@37 cents, although some offerings are held above 38 cents. Choice bright fleeces of these grades are firmly held at recent quotations although some irregularity is reported on heavier wools of only average combing.

SILK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Silk futures closed 1 to 4 points lower. Sales totaled 81 lots. December 1.36@1.39, January 1.39, February 1.38@1.40, March 1.39, April 1.38@1.40, May 1.38@1.39, June 1.38@1.40, July 1.38@1.40.

BY VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Foreign war loans clouds again drifted over the bond market today and prices generally displayed a receding tendency.

Semi-speculative issues and some foreign loans were the principal sufferers. At the same time the highest grade investment bonds of all categories were steady to firm.

Bonds of Great Britain, Canada and Australia were particularly heavy as the pound sterling slumped to its lowest rate since 1920. British 5 1-2s dropped below 103 for the first time in several months, but rallied later for a loss of only 1 1-8 points. Canadian 4s lost 2 3-8 points, Australian 5s were off 1, Queensland issues were 2 to 3 1-2 points lower, and both New South Wales 5s were down 3 1-2 to 8 1-8 points. Loans of Germany, Belgium, Finland, Poland and Cuba declined a point or more. The Argentines rallied on a few sales, as did Swedish and Austrian obligations.

Domestic rail securities failed to cheer up on car loading predictions, and losses of 1 to 2 or more points were registered by some issues of Baltimore & Ohio, all of the Canadian lines, Chesapeake & Ohio, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania and others.

Among the utilities and industrials a firm tone was displayed by bonds of American Telephone, Brooklyn Edison, Duquesne Light, Goodrich and Goodyear.

The principal losers included loans of International Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Federal Light & Traction, International Cement, New Orleans Power, Studebaker, Vanadium and Western Union.

United States treasury bonds were only moderately active and fractionally higher, while Liberty 3 1-2s and first 4 1-4s eased.

A heavier turnover in the foreign section brought total sales to $8,233,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined two-tenths of a point.

BLONDE EDWINA BOOTH STILL SERIOUSLY ILL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP) Edwina Booth, blonde motion picture actress who played in "Trader Horn," the picture of life in the African jungles, is seriously ill, the victim of a complication of tropical disorders that kept her from pursuing her film career and that for a time puzzled medical specialists. Only a few of her friends knew until today that she had been confined to the home of her mother for the last seven months.

Mrs. Josephine Woodruff, mother of the actress, said her daughter is the victim of the rays of the equatorial sun and of poisonous insects of the jungles where, flimsily clad, she made scenes for the jungle story.

FURTHER LOSSES APPEAR ON CURB

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The curb market picked up a little more speed in terms of activity today, but the direction was downward, although losses were mostly confined to fractions. Transfers totaled 160,000 shares against 130,000 last Wednesday.

Throughout most of the day, several prices were down about 1 to 3 points, but in the late trading a fairly smart rally developed which regained most of the early losses.

Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric after earlier declines of a point or so, closed at small fractional declines. Niagara-Hudson Power, United Light & Power "A" and American Super-Power were a shade lower.

The mining shares were steady in the main although the report of further weakness in foreign copper prices, coupled with continued stagnation in the domestic market, was not favorable to Newmont, which yielded 2 points. New Jersey Zinc was unchanged.

The oils continued to give ground, although stubbornly, under the influence of some wavering in crude prices. Standard of Indiana, Gulf, Imperial and International dipped a shade.

In the specialty group, Aluminum Company lost a point. Swift International, United Shoe Machinery and Sherwin-Williams were also a point or so lower. Singer was unchanged.

Highlights of Wall Street

BY CHARLES W. STORM,
Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—January 1 is one of the most important interest dates for railroads and corporations that have bonds outstanding. Because of uncertainty over the ability of many railroads and corporations to meet their interest obligations, the first of the year will be approached with apprehension on the part of owners of bonds which are not showing interest earned.

There is no doubt some of the interest payments due will not be met and security owners will be faced with a readjustment of the financial structure of their corporations.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, a number of investment banking interests who placed securities with investors are giving thought to this subject. Several plans have been discussed informally, but that which seems to have most merit is one which suggests a horizontal cut in all interest bearing obligations issued by railroads, industrials and public utility corporations that are not earning the full interest they are obligated to pay.

This plan has been placed before some of the most important banking interests and economists of the country and is considered by them to possess much merit. The suggestion, however, probably will meet with opposition on the part of security holders.

Uncertainty and suspense are unfavorable factors on the trend of security prices. Reduction of the interest on bonds to a point where the owner of the security knows payments can be met would have a most constructive effect which undoubtedly would find reflection in an appreciation in the quoted market price of the security. This, in turn, would more than offset the reduced amount of interest paid.

A reduction in the interest rate to a level that insures payment also would eliminate the possibility of receivership for a number of corporate debtors who cannot meet the full amount of interest due but who can provide for a lesser amount.

The plan does not propose that the interest rate be reduced permanently, a period of five years of reduced interest payments being suggested. Such an arrangement, of course, would have to be agreed upon by the owners of the bonds and the managements of each debtor corporation or railroad separately.

Adoption of such a plan could very well have the same beneficial effect on market sentiment as did announcement of the Hoover moratorium on foreign debts.

BRIGHT SPOTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Bradstreet's weekly index of failures showed a sharp drop for the week ended November 17. Failures declined to 408, seven under the previous week and a new low figure for the year.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, the Great Northern railroad and the Chesapeake & Ohio line said freight car loadings for the week ended November 21 improved. The C., B. & Q. handled 20,798 cars compared with 9,421, and the C. & O. 30,561 compared with 26,803 the same week last year.

DETROIT, Nov. 25.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation announced an increase of 3,863 employes in October over September.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(AP) The Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank employment report showed a 14 per cent increase in employes in the anthracite industry for October over September, and wage increases of 42 per cent.

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—October production of slaughtering houses in the United States increased 2 1-2 per cent over September, and employment in the industry was up 2 per cent, with wages paid increasing 3 1-2 per cent, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank reported.

WILLIS IS RE-ELECTED BY FOOD ASSOCIATION

Paul S. Willis, vice president and general manager of the Comet Rice Company, has been re-elected president of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America, it was announced Friday by Massey & Fair, Atlanta brokers for Comet rice.

Other officers elected were A. C. Monagle, of Standard Brands, Inc., first vice president; B. E. Snyder, of R. B. Davis Company, second vice president; R. L. James, of Libby, McNeal & Libby, third vice president, and H. D. Crippen, of Bon Ami Company, Inc., treasurer.

The activities of the association in the past year have centered about improving relations between manufacturer and distributor and the elimination of uneconomic practices from business.

Negro Electrocuted.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Freeling Daniels, 34-year-old Miller county negro, was electrocuted at the state penitentiary at 7 a. m. today for attacking a 13-year-old white girl near Texarkana last June.

LOANS TO BROKERS INCREASE IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve banks for the week ending November 23 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $350,000,000, an increase of $6,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

The loans for the week ending November 25, 1931, were $751,000,000. The detailed distribution of the loans over the three weeks dealt with in the board's report was:

For own account, November 23, $332,000,000, November 16, $326,000,000; November 25, 1931, $591,000,000.

For account of-out-town banks, November $12,000,000; November 16, 12,000,000; November 25, 1931, $141,000,000.

For account of others, November 23, $6,000,000; November 16, $6,000,000; November 25, 1931, $19,000,000.

DECREASE IS SHOWN IN BANK SUSPENSIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(AP)—There were 10 bank suspension during the past week compared with 18 in the previous week, the American Banker reported today. This stands as the smallest number of closings for any week in November. Five newly chartered banks opened for business during the week.

In the year to date 1,298 banks suspended compared with 1,866 in the corresponding period of 1931.

Funds for Hospital.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, said today funds had been made available for a $180,000 addition to the veterans' hospital at Tuscaloosa, Ala. The new project calls for 77 additional beds and space for the regional office, which has been located at Birmingham.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 138

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

K-138
Rex Maxon

Olga, turning from the river, gave a half-stifled scream and shrank back from the menacing figure looming before her, blocking the way back to the hut. Zu-b'yat, the king-ape, hunting apart from his tribe, had seen the woman go for water.

It was he who now confronted her. The king-ape was not a pretty creature judged by human standards. But the shes of his tribe and Zu-b'yat himself, considered his glossy coat, shot with silver, quite handsome.

His dangling arms and bullet head, sunk between mighty shoulders, were marks of great personal beauty. In his little savage brain was a conviction that this strange she, belonging to the Tarmangani, must look with admiration upon him.

Zu-b'yat felt that surely his beauty entirely eclipsed such as the hairless white ape who owned her, might lay claim to. But Olga saw only a hideous beast, a fierce and terrible caricature of man, as it lumbered toward her!

What's He Up To?

By Robert Franc Schulkers

WE HAD BEEN TALKING OVER OUR TROUBLE WITH THE YELLOW Y WHEN ROBBY HOOD GOT UP AND ANNOUNCED THAT HE WAS RESIGNING FROM OUR CLUB—
Seck
I'VE GOT TO RESIGN! YOU FELLOWS WOULDN'T WANT ME IN THIS CLUB IF YOU KNEW WHAT I'M GOING TO DO FROM NOW ON—
I TALKED IT OVER WITH SHADOW TODAY AND HE THINKS IT WOULD BE BEST— I KNOW SHADOW IS RIGHT! HE ALWAYS IS!
SHADOW IS THE BEST FELLOW THIS CLUB HAS, I THINK YOU'RE ALL LUCKY THAT IT'S ME LEAVING INSTEAD OF HIM—
I LIKE YOU FELLOWS, BUT I'VE NO CHOICE, AND I GUESS THE SOONER I GO THE BETTER IT WILL BE FOR ALL OF YOU!

Outside was the sodden rain. And ahead there was Georgia.

That was all—they got their jackets and went out into the rain for a final afternoon of practice—Georgia, the old, old foe, is ahead.

GEORGIA ARRIVES.

Georgia's serious caravan of players and coaches arrived shortly after dinner last night.

They had taken a workout in the rain—the last workout. The Georgia season ends today. And the serious kids from Athens were through with practice.

Ahead for them was Georgia Tech—the old, old foe. And through their minds were running the old traditions and stories that have come out of 39 years of rivalry and 28 games.

And they, too, looked like what they are—a fine lot of boys ready for what is a big test for them.

The rain of Friday had placed the game on the knees of the gods, and none knows it better than the boys who play today.

It has come to be a sort of a habit to simply place the words "Tech vs. Georgia" at the lead of a story and say, "There is magic in the words." It is a bit stilted but there is magic in the words.

ODDS ARE EVEN.

Selecting the winner of today's contest is one of the most difficult jobs which the amateur prestidigitators face.

Georgia has the better offense. But the south saw on Thursday at Birmingham just how flat and dead a great football team can be when it has reached a climax and failed at it. Vanderbilt was at a peak against Tennessee and got nothing but a tie. And even though Tennessee had been the favorite, the tie game left Vanderbilt flat. Against Alabama they had on leaden shoes and their game was gone.

Georgia was at a peak for one half against Auburn. They have been, so reports have it, sluggish all this week. Yet that is perhaps a good sign. The spark of competition, the will to win, is an intangible thing and yet it is perhaps 75 per cent of football.

The slightest thing can touch off a fire—the will to win can flame in an instant.

Tech has been a bit flat all week. The coaches railed at the scrimmage work.

The Georgians have a better offense. Tech has a superior defense.

It all depends who has the flame today. They may both have it.

Pressed for an answer, I would place one slim vote in there for Tech. But please don't press me. The game is on the lap of fate. And may slip off at any moment.

THE BEARDED PROPHET.

Mr. Thomas Jefferson George Washington Kelly, of Columbus, arrived in the city yesterday disguised as the bearded prophet. The beard was to prevent the young ladies from becoming too interested.

"The score will be Georgia 12 and Tech 6," said the bearded prophet.

I wish I could be that definite.

ALWAYS NEAR IT.

That football coach who took a poison tablet by mistake did what a lot of coaches contemplate doing deliberately. Many coaches would take the tablets on Friday night were they handy.

JACKETS FAVORED OVER GEORGIA

Thursday by the old Tech coach, J. W. Heisman, and yesterday Coach Alexander, himself in the cheeriest of moods, presented the "scrubs" with trophies.

H. C. (Monk) Neblett, center, Little Rock.

J. T. (Casey) Jones, guard, Newnan, Ga.

J. Quince Adams, guard, Fitzgerald, Ga.

J. Tom Cain, tackle, Dallas, Texas.

Jere Goldsmith, end, Atlanta.

George E. Viereck, end, Columbus, Ohio.

Sidney Williams, end, Savannah, Georgia.

Roy McArthur, quarterback, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Hugh Gooding, quarterback, Macon, Georgia.

Jap Hart, halfback, Dothan, Ala.

Ben T. Cherry, fullback, Chattanooga, Tenn.

L. F. (Pat) Barron, Clarkesville, Georgia.

These players will play their last games for Tech on Georgia soil, but, of course, there is the meeting with California yet to be played out on the coast in December.

Bulldogs Ready For Jackets Today.

BY AL SMITH.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 25.—Thirty-five Georgia Bulldogs left here at 7 o'clock tonight by bus for Atlanta where they will battle Georgia Tech in their annual game Saturday.

A light practice in the rain on a muddy field brought the Bulldogs to the condition they will be in when they face Tech. A session at pass defense, running signals and practice at returning the kick-off ended the Bulldogs' final training session of the year.

Although Coach Harry Mehre was silent as to starting lineup, indications are that the following men will take the field at kickoff time tomorrow: Vason McWhorter, center; Moorehead and Hazlehurst, guards; West and Opper, tackles; Miller and Batchellor, ends; Griffeth, quarterback; Mott and Chapman, halfbacks, and Gaston, fullback.

David "Butch" McCullough, regular guard, and "Jumpin'" Joe Crouch, varsity fullback, may not be able to play against the Yellow Jackets. McCullough has an injured knee and a weak ankle, while Crouch was slightly hurt in Thursday's scrimmage.

The Bulldogs showed considerably more pep and spirit in today's workout than they did Thursday afternoon, when they went through a dreary scrimmage.

Georgia's Young Backs Are on Parade Today

Annual Classic To Offer Opportunity To Observe Progress Made by Newest Stars.

By Jimmy Jones.

The football game between Tech and Georgia today should offer a splendid opportunity to observe the progress made by some of Georgia's young backs this year. To say the least, Harry Mehre and Rex Enright have done a bang-up job in their teachings on the fine art of hip-shaking with a football.

You will see out there today several first-class ball carriers that you probably never heard of in the red uniform of Georgia. There is, for example, Bill David, the high jumper of the track team, who divorced himself from the game of football two years ago, only to have the decree suspended in its final stages during his senior year.

Harry and Rex had an awful time teaching Bill how to use the stiff-arm in deflecting tacklers of the opposing team. They would give Bill the ball and he would tear out down the field lickety split. Then Mehre and Enright would send tacklers at him, at the same time signaling Bill to stiff-arm them.

OH. OH!

Well, old Bill did a swell job of this so long as he was being beset by only one tackler. He learned to shift the ball and then let him have it with the free arm.

Things went along very well until one day David suddenly found two tacklers bearing down on him at precisely the same time. Bill couldn't make up his mind as to what to do with the football, as there was no third arm under which to shift it, so to the great horror of his coaches, he simply threw the ball down and stiff-armed both tacklers at the same time.

After that David became a fine backfield man. He was a good fullback against V. P. I., Tulane and N. Y. U.

CY GRANT.

Another back to whom the Georgia coaches imparted some sterling lessons is one Joseph Grant, commonly called Cy. At the start of the season Cy was about as green as one of the unripe apples up in the orchards around Cornelia, Ga., his home town. But Grant developed into a hard runner—one of the leading ground-gainers in the conference. He also is quite an artist at kicking the extra point.

Big Buck Chapman, of Winder, Ga., star of the N. Y. U. game; Jumping Joe Crouch, of Ocilla, and Jack Griffith, the quarterback, are other nifty runners who have rendered valuable aid to the veteran, Buster Mott.

One gets an idea of the accomplishments of Georgia's coaches in the developing of material, in view of the fact that two backs counted on heavily by Mehre in early season did not come through quite as expected and Jody Whire, another good halfback, was lost to the school.

WILD TURKEYS.

About 1,500 wild turkeys raised by the Missouri game department and 500 others purchased will be liberated in the state.

1917 TECH ELEVEN HAS REUNION HERE

said that Six Carpenter was the greatest captain he ever coached. Pup Phillips, the center, was described as the man "who made a million tackles."

The class of '17 decided to hold another reunion four years hence and presented Coach Heisman with a handsomely engraved fountain pen set. They also brought along a megaphone, which Heisman used to give instructions to them back in the good old days.

Coach Heisman read a telegram he received from the daughter of Dr. Lyman Hall, president of Tech, when he came there.

MAKE PICTURE.

This morning the 1917 team will go out to Grant field to put on uniforms and make a sound picture with Heisman. They will go through the movements of the old jump shift.

"I think the shift would still be legal in your case, because of your age," Coach Heisman remarked.

Shades of the Early Nineties

Above is given a glimpse of the gay nineties in part of the exhibit Hanan & Son had in the World's Fair at Chicago in 1892, which is now on display at the company's Atlanta store, 170 Peachtree street. The quality of workmanship and style of these shoes won first prize for Hanan. They are considered excellent examples of the shoemaker's art from every standpoint and the display is attracting a great deal of interest here as well as the other cities where it has been exhibited, according to Frank M. Stevens, manager of the Atlanta store. Hanan has long ben recognized as one of the leading establishments in the shoe industry, having been in operation for 77 years. The factory is located in Brooklyn, N. Y. The somewhat sharp-pointed last in the center is a man's patent leather shoe. On each side are high lace boots which would have made any woman rave at that time. The one on the left is embroidered satin and that on the right is patent leather with white buckskin top. Many other interesting shoes are included in the exhibit in addition to those shown here.

REVIEWING THE SHOWS

"Chandu the Magician" Radio Play at Georgia

Hundreds of Atlantans who have thrilled nightly to the tense conflict waged between and Roxor in radio's most popular mystery drama, will find their revelation when the Fox Films version of "Chandu The Magician" comes to the Georgia for three days only, starting Saturday, with Edmund Lowe creating the title role and Bela Lugosi appearing as the sinister Roxor who seeks the secrets of the death ray. The radio version of "Chandu The Magician" is now broadcast nightly and has many listeners who are planning to see the film play at the Georgia.

Princess Nadji, too, will appear for the first time in the screen story, as will Miggles, Regent, Abdullah, Betty Lou and the rest of the familiar cast. Irene Ware enacts the role of the Princess. Herbert Mundin will be seen as the Cockney, Miggles; Henry B. Walthall as Regent; Weldon Heyburn as Abdullah, and June Vlasek as Betty Lou.

Clara Bow Back Again In Paramount Picture

Clara Bow returns to the screen at the Paramount Theater today where "Call Her Savage," her first picture in some time, opens its long awaited engagement. As the heroine of Tiffany Thayer's dramatic story, a role which she herself selected, the famous red-head is said to portray a life nearly paralleling her own hectic career. Miss Bow's interpretation of the role has been hailed as the most courageous portrait of a woman's soul yet screened.

As the half-breed sweetheart to whom she turns when society failed her, Gilbert Roland heads the supporting cast. Others featured include Thelma Todd, as her honey-haired rival; Monroe Owsley, her weak-willed husband; Willard Robertson, her stern parent; Estelle Taylor, her indiscreet mother; Anthony Jowitt, a wealthy suitor.

Al Evans will be heard in an organ novelty of his own original compositions. Betty Boop is back in "Ker-Choo," and "Hey-Hey Westerner" is an all-color revue to be seen on this excellent program at the Paramount.

Constance Bennett In "Rock-a-Bye" at Fox

Constance Bennett, one of the most popular of all screen stars, appears in her latest success, "Rock-a-Bye," at the Fox theater today, beginning a week's run that should set new records at the boxoffice of Atlanta's greatest screen theater.

"Rock-a-Bye" is a famous story, dealing with a woman who finds happiness in her love for an adopted child, but whose life almost goes on the rocks through the tongues of gossip and false accusation. It gives the blonde star every opportunity for that emotional acting for which she is famous, expressing a wide range of human reactions.

The Fox has selected a special group of short subjects to complement this exceptional feature attraction, and, with Jimmy Beers at the organ giving one of his most delightful programs, the offering should appeal to a large majority of Atlanta screen patrons.

CHATTANOOGA IS HOST TO TEACHERS' GROUP

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—With 40 delegates from the south and several educators from other sections of the country attending, the tenth annual convention of the Southern Commercial Teachers' Association was opened here today.

Professor W. T. Robinson, superintendent of Chattanooga, welcomed the educators to the city along with Mayor Bass. The response was delivered by W. L. Pittman, in place of A. M. Bruce, vice president, of Birmingham, Ala.

FRANCO-SOVIET PACT APPROVED IN PARIS

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The text of France's non-aggression pact with soviet Russia finally was approved at today's cabinet meeting. The treaty probably will be signed next week at Geneva.

"Back Street" To Play Rialto, Opening Today

Universal has made a remarkable feature picture from the famous best-selling novel by Fannie Hurst, "Back Street." Directed by John M. Stahl, the film tells the story with remarkable fidelity. It is coming to the Rialto theater today, where it will play an engagement limited to three days, because of previous bookings that call for every negative available in the exchange.

Manager W. T. Murray feels that in offering this story to his patrons he has achieved something notable. It tells the life history of a woman who sacrifices everything—her career, her life and her reputation—for the sake of the man she loves but cannot marry. It reveals a phase of modern American life rarely touched by writer or playwright.

John Boles and Irene Dunne play the principal roles while the balance of the cast is made of players fully worthy of the great story they help to interpret. With a clever group of short subjects to round out the program, this attraction should make the next three days a banner period at the box office.

CONGRESS IS CHARGED TO REVIVE CONFIDENCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association, largest industrial organization of its kind in America, charged congress today with responsibility for restoring public confidence as a means of reviving business.

Samuel M. Hastings, head of the association, sketched a program—including reduction of federal expenditures by a billion dollars—which he said would give great impetus to industry.

Hastings said industry was being stifled by taxation, and called upon leaders to lower federal expenses.

Permanent Players Appear Twice Today

Matinee and night performances today bring the last two opportunities to local theatergoers to enjoy the delicious production of "A Church Mouse," the current offering of the Permanent Players at the Erlanger theater.

This brilliant comedy, packed with sparkling lines and vivacious situations, is probably the most successful, from a popularity standpoint, presentations yet made by the Permanent Players. Doris Packer, Ann Mason, Frederic Tozere, Laurence Keating and others are exceptionally happy in their roles, and large audiences, including two capacity matinees on Wednesday and Thursday, have greeted the play with unstinted applause all week.

Seats are now on sale at the box-office for all performances of "It's a Wise Child," the famous Belasco comedy success, which is the production next week. There are also numbers of desirable seats yet available for "A Church Mouse" today, both for the matinee at 2:30 and at the night performance at 8:30.

Cross Sections of Life In Gate City of South

Luke S. Arnold, executive secretary of Mayor James L. Key, who has been suffering from an attack of influenza for nearly a week, Friday returned to his duties.

Riley Elder, recently named collector of municipal revenue in a councilmanic ordinance, who will be a candidate to succeed himself in that position at the December 5 meeting of council at which the election for a four-year term will take place, Friday was confined to his home suffering from influenza.

Councilman John A. White, chairman of the public buildings committee of council, Friday promulgated a series of new rules governing the city hall. They prevent smoking in the auditorium except the main lobby, bar profanity, dogs, intoxicants of any nature, soliciting on the premises and walking on the spacious lawn.

Governor-elect Eugene Talmadge, the retiring commissioner of agriculture, and G. Claude Adams, of Covington, commissioner of agriculture-elect, will leave tonight for Chicago where they will attend the annual convention of the National Association of State Commissioners of Agriculture which is to be held Monday and Tuesday. They will return to Atlanta Wednesday night.

L. B. Baynard Jr., state auditor of Louisiana, spent Friday in Atlanta as the guest of State Auditor Tom Wisdom. He was en route to Warm Springs to pay his respects to President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. Baynard predicted that Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, would be the democratic presidential nominee in 1940.

W. L. Mitchell, district manager of the department of commerce, addressed the students of the school of commerce at Georgia Tech Friday on "Sources of Marketing Information." Mr. Mitchell in his talk emphasized the facilities provided by the department of commerce for sales planning work, making sales analyses and other related studies.

Federal district court will move to Gainesville for a brief session of court there Monday, it was stated Friday. Judge E. Marvin Underwood will hear criminal cases for one day and then following that, any civil matters which may come up. He will return to Atlanta before the week is over.

Fulton grand jury held no session Friday due to the fact that Thursday was a holiday and that many of the jurors were spending the Thanksgiving holidays out of the city.

James A. Gill, recently released from the federal penitentiary after completing a one-year sentence for passing a forged money order, Friday sought his release from the Fulton tower on a writ of habeas corpus. He has been held since November 7 for the district attorney of New York who wants him on bigamy charges. Judge Virlyn B. Moore denied the writ but ruled that unless New York authorities arrive for Gill by Monday he is to be released.

Ten felony convicts convicted in the Fulton superior courts were transferred Friday to the Fannin county chain gang from Fulton tower. It was the first consignment of felony prisoners taken out in many weeks due to the crowded conditions in all chain gangs.

C. J. Camp filed a damage suit Friday against the Black & White Cab Co. in city court of Atlanta for $2,000. He alleges injuries when thrown from a cab in July. He alleges further that the driver was speeding and rounded a corner, throwing him from a carelessly latched door.

Judge Garland M. Watkins, of the juvenile court; Lonnie Smith, deputy clerk of superior court, and Mrs. J. J. Simpson, general superintendent of the Georgia Sunday School Association, with headquarters here, will be speakers Sunday at the Rabun county Sunday school rally to be held at the Clayton Methodist church in Clayton. The day's program will last from 10:15 a. m. until 3:30 in the afternoon.

Miss Lucy Yundt, of 11 Seventeenth street, Atlanta, has been elected a member of the circulation board of the Vassar Review, Vassar College literary magazine, according to announcement Friday. Miss Yundt is a sophomore at Vassar.

Fred Thompson, 28, of a Piedmont avenue address, was arrested on a charge of drunk and disorderly Friday when he called the detective bureau and proceeded to vent his ire in profane terms, according to police reports. Jim Doyal, of the detective bureau, carried on a conversation with Thompson, after finding out where he was phoning from, and sent officers to arrest him.

Harry G. Hall Jr., 16-year-old honor student at the University School for Boys, was the object of a police search Friday, following his disappearance from school Tuesday afternoon. All who possess information about the student were requested to call Raymond 6602.

A. E. Adams, threatening to kill himself unless released from the city jail, severely injured himself about the head early Friday morning by butting his head against the wall of his cell. He had been arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

T. O. Sturdivant Jr., son of Atlanta's police chief, was resting well Friday night, according to Grady hospital reports, following an operation to remove the .25-caliber bullet which he fired into his breast last week in an attempt to end his life. The ball was lodged between his ribs.

Jesse M. Hendley will be ordained a Baptist minister at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at South Decatur Baptist church, at which time the presbytery will be composed of the Rev. Robert H. Lamkin, the Rev. J. F. Aldred and the Rev. A. C. Hendley. Mr. Hendley recently accepted a call to the Baptist church at Lilburn, Ga.

Jack Power, evangelist, will speak before the Knights of American Mission at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at 619 Glennwood avenue.

Dr. W. F. Quillian, former president of Wesleyan College, and for the last two years general secretary of the Christian Board of Education of the Methodist church, will occupy the pulpit at St. Mark Methodist church Sunday morning. He is here attending the North Georgia Methodist conference.

Services at the First Presbyterian church Sunday will be featured by songs by the male quartet from Stillman Institute, Tuscaloosa, Ala., negro institution. During the morning worship hour they will sing "Swing Low Sweet Chariot" and during vesper services at 5 o'clock in the afternoon they will sing several spirituals.

Rabbi David Marx will discuss "Is Social Justice Religion" at the next session of the forum at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the Jewish temple, on Peachtree street. After about one-half hour of discussion by the rabbi, the audience will be invited to express opinions.

Epworthian class of Epworth Methodist church will dedicate the new class room at a Sunday school service at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning when the pastor, the Rev. Frank Pim, will be guest speaker. Visitors were invited to attend.

Annual memorial service of the Merritts Avenue Baptist church will be observed at 11 o'clock Sunday morning when Masons and members of the Ku Klux Klan will be guests. The pastor, the Rev. Harmon J. Aycock, will deliver the main address.

Decatur city court, which usually closes on Friday, will be continued today because of the holiday Thursday, with a full docket of civil cases, it was announced. Judge Frank Guess will preside. Criminal cases will occupy the court next week.

Loud speaker on a direct line from the studios of WJTL will be installed in the classrooms of Dr. Mark Burroughs, Oglethorpe professor, at the university, it was announced Friday. Dr. Burroughs will tune in on speakers of national importance as a complement to regular history classes, it was said.

Fire of undetermined origin early Friday night did small damage to the storeroom basement of the Sparks Paint Company at 10 Forsyth street. The smoke, however, routed guests of the Forsyth hotel immediately above. Four fire companies under the direction of Chief Terrell and Assistant Chief Parker located and quelled the blaze.

Howard Curtis, slayer of Annette Bryant, his alleged sweetheart, Friday gave a new version of the shooting in which he declared he killed the girl for "two-timing" him, going with other men. Curtis was recently sentenced to life imprisonment and is in Fulton tower awaiting assignment to a prison camp. Previously he said the girl shot herself.

J. M. Rogers, 17, of 997 Dunning street, S. E., was accidentally shot in the right thigh Friday afternoon when a pistol he was twirling on his finger exploded. He was taken to Grady hospital for treatment. Rogers said he was playing with the gun and the force of the spin pulled the trigger.

INSULL AUDIT SHOWS J. P. TUMULTY DEAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—An auditor's account of the defunct Insull, Son & Company, a unit in Samuel Insull's pyramid of investment concerns, was filed in bankruptcy proceedings today, showing that the company took over a $140,000 brokerage account of Joseph P. Tumulty, Washington lawyer and former secretary to President Woodrow Wilson, less than four months after the 1929 market crash.

Securities in the account, the report stated, were principally bank stocks.

BEGGAR, REFUSED AID, SHOOTS NEGRO WOMAN

Shot when she refused to give food to a beggar, Mollie Blackwell, negro, of 275 Taylor street, was taken to Grady hospital with a bullet wound in her right hand. The woman said a negro man came to her home and asked for food. When she refused he pulled a pistol and shot her, she as-

RUN DOWN BY AUTO, YOUTH'S LEG BROKEN

Charles Roberts, 17, Admitted to Grady; Several Others Injured.

His leg fractured when he was struck by an automobile while riding a bicycle at Washington and Hunter streets, Charles Roberts, 17, of 1103 Euclid avenue, was admitted to Grady hospital Friday night. The youth was hit by the car of Henry Idov, of 1020 Washington street, who summoned an ambulance. No case was made. Other accidents caused injuries to several persons during the day.

E. A. Cash, of a Woodward avenue address, was treated at the hospital for severe bruises and lacerations received when he was struck by the automobile of J. N. Jarrett, of 675 Home avenue, at Grant and Fair streets. No case was made.

Miss Elizabeth Woodward, of a Greenwood avenue address, was slightly hurt when she was knocked down by a hit-and-run driver at Peachtree and Ellis streets Friday night, according to police reports. She was taken to her home and was treated by a private physician. Her injuries were thought to have been of a minor nature.

In another hit-and-run accident Friday night, an automobile struck the coal wagon of Thomas Ruffian, negro, of a Hunt street address, at Piedmont avenue and Currier street. The impact broke restraining ties on the horse and both the machine and the animal disappeared down the street. Neither had been heard from late Friday by police.

A freak accident sent Abraham Cavallero, of 383 Pryor street, and George Holmes, negro, of 512 Hunter street, to Grady Friday night. Both were severely bruised and cut when a sign board, torn loose by wind, struck them as they walked on Edgewood avenue, near Bell street.

EARLY INDEPENDENCE SEEN FOR PHILIPPINES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A belief that Philippine independence would be approved by congress before or soon after Christmas was expressed today by Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, as opponents of the legislation began preparations for a finish fight.

Although reserving a definite commitment until he sees the bill in its final form, the veteran Utah senator said he thought he would vote to free the islands which America acquired after the Spanish-American War.

Meanwhile, Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, was understood to be preparing a lengthy speech in opposition, and organized groups, such as the American Farm Bureau Federation, are ready to add their voices to a "no" chorus unless the proposed transition period culminating in full freedom is shortened.

Under an agreement last session, the senate will take up the Hawes-Cutting measure on December 8, three days after the short session convenes.

If this bill or one similar to it is passed it would go immediately to conference for adjustment of differences with the Hare bill approved by the house last session, 306 to 47.

No one in authority would predict today what action President Hoover might take on an independence bill. Secretary Hurley, who walked out of a senate committee hearing last session after a verbal clash over independence with Senator King, democrat, Utah, reported to the president after visiting the island that the Filipinos were not ready to assume self-government.

Woman Is Convicted In Murder of Son

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Daisy Louise De Melker was convicted today of the murder of her son by poisoning and sentenced to death. She was acquitted of charges of murdering two former husbands.

The handsome little woman of 44 went to trial October 17.

The prosecutor charged the woman poisoned her first husband, William Alfred Rowle, in 1923; her second husband, Robert Sproat, in 1927, and her son, Cecil Rhodes Rowle last March.

It was charged the two husbands died after having made wills in her favor and the son after having assigned to his mother an insurance policy for 100 pounds sterling.

Commutation to Life Is Asked for Tom King

Tom King, aged negro, who is under sentence to be executed for the murder of a Butts county policeman in 1925, Friday was given a recommendation that the sentence be commuted to one of life imprisonment. The recommendation was made by the prison commission to Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., after a long study of the case.

Chairman E. L. Rainey, of the commission, did not concur in the recommendation, which was made after four members of the state supreme court had recommended mercy for the aged negro.

Tom has been in the Fulton tower since 1925, save for several periodical trips to Butts county for trials and to hear his doom sounded. He has been convicted five times but four times the verdict was set aside by the high court.
